Mitchell loses bid for a mistrial

NEW YORK (UPI) — Federal Judge Lee P. Gagliardi today denied a mistrial in the Mitchell-Stans case, and defense attorneys in their opening statements portrayed the two former powerful figures in the Nixon administration as men of high character who had contributed their lives to public service.

Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans are accused of using their political influence to try to impede a major federal investigation of the fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco in exchange for his secret $200,000 contribution to the Nixon 1972 campaign.

Mitchell's attorney, Peter Fleming Jr., told the jury of eight men and four women that the evidence would show "there's not a single speck, fragment, of evidence that John Mitchell did anything to fix, to stop, to influence an investigation of Robert Vesco."

He said Mitchell did not even know Vesco and added: "Would this man with his background with a lifetime of hard work, public servicce, fix a case of a man he didn't even know?"

Stans' attorney, Walter J. Bonner, told the jury that Stans would take the witness chair in his own defense. Fleming said nothing about Mitchell taking the stand.

In ruling against the mistrial motion made by the defense Friday, Gagliardi said he had concluded that the jury could not have drawn an inference of guilt from the opening statement Friday of prosecutor James. W. Rayhill.

The judge said that the jury had been amply instructed on the fact that an indictment is merely an accusation and that all defendants stand innocent unless proven guilty.

The defense had objected that when Rayhill had told the jury to "put yourselves in the place of the grand jurors" who indicted the defendants there would be a natural inference of guilt.

Gagliardi said that reading of the opening statement convinced him the prosecution had not planned an inference of guilt .

Fleming in his opening statement said that the $200,000 Vesco contribution was a part of $60 miillion "contributed by the people of this country, some poor some rich" to the Nixon campaign.

"Whatever the prosecution may argue, the amount involved was less than one third of one per cent of all the money contributed," Fleming said.

"The evidence will show that Mitchell never acted in any way according to his lights other than what was best for his country."

Fleming said that the Vesco contribution "was as if in an election costing $100 Vesco had contributed 32 cents."

He asked that the jury consider "whether in essence John Mitchell would sell his life for 32 cents."

The two are charged with perjury, obstructing justice and conspiracy. The attorneys said the charge of lying under oath to the grand jury was "one man's word against another" and asked that the jury consider the character of each man against that of the people called to testify against him.

345 killed in worst air crash

Bomb may have caused jet crash

PARIS (UPI) — A preliminary report on the crash of a Turkish Airlines DC10 jetliner said today a bomb explosion could have brought down the wide-bodied aircraft which nosedived to earth from 13,000 feet Sunday, killing 345 persons in aviation's worst disaster.

Orly airport sources said specialists had prepared a report for Airport Director Gilbert Dreyfus who is leading the inquiry. "The report states that the possibility of an explosion is supported by an important number of them," the sources said.

Turkish airline sources in Istanbul said the airline had information that three Japanese and two Arabs aboard the crashed plane were guerrillas. They said the five had planned to sabotage a British Airways flight from Paris to London but were transferred to the Turkish plane because of a strike by British engineers in London and that their bombs exploded in flight.

The airline sources said there also was a possibilty the reported guerrillas were linked with the seizure later in the day of a British Airways jet after takeoff from Beirut. Arab commandos blew up the aircraft in Amsterdam after letting 102 persons on board flee the plane.

Most of the victims in the Turkish Airlines crash were believed to be Britons, including a police amateur rugby team, although no passenger list was available. The number of Americans aboard also was not known but the U.S. Embassy in London said the victims included its cultural attache, Dr. Wayne Wilcox, his wife and two of their children. Japanese embassy sources said 49 Japanese were aboard. The Turks said there were 15 Turkish nationals on the plane.

Turkish President Bulent Ecevit told newsmen in Istanbul:

"At present I cannot say whether the plane was sabotaoged or not but we are reviewing every possibility. The question of whether the plane was sabotaged or not will be cleared following technical examinations which I presume will last a couple of weeks."

Orly field sources said the passenger search before takeoff was normal and that the plane was searched for explosives and none was found. Hand baggage was searched but not the suitcases of the 216 persons who joined the flight in Paris.

Police said they found six bodies at a spot seven miles before the impact point. Newspapers said this could have happened only if the plane was breaking up as a result of an explosion or some other cause before it hit the woods.

France's secretary of state for transport, Aymar Achille-Fould, surveyed the crash site —a pine forest 25 miles north of Paris —and said: "Since some bodies were discovered six miles from the crash, it might seem the explosion of the plane took place in flight."

Golda delays announcement of resignation

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir today delayed plans to announce her resignation formally and political sources said she may either be reconsidering her decision to step down or searching for a suitable replacement.

Mrs. Meir had planned to tell President Ephraim Katzir at 11:30 a.m.that she was giving up her unsuccessful efforts to form a minority government. The meeting was at first postponed to 5 p.m., then to 7 p.m. as she continued talks with party colleagues pleading with her to remain in office.

"The postponement has led to speculation that she may be reconsidering her decision," a political source said. "She's meeting with various people at the moment."

Mrs. Meir announced her decision to step down Sunday night at a meeting of her Labor party.

The decision by the 75-year-old grandmother put the Jewish state on the brink of new elections, political sources said, and opened the possibility of a new coalition including rightwing factions opposed to Israel's postwar negotiations with the Arabs.

Sources in the National Religious party (NRP), which has refused to rejoin Mrs. Meir's government in a dispute over religious law, said the postponement could mean she is trying to find a new candidate to replace her as prime minister.

The newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said Mrs. Meir might be approaching other members of her Labor party to form a government, including deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon, Foreign Minister Abba Eban or Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir. Allon conferred with Mrs. Meir for several hours during the morning.

"There's no doubt that she can make the best prime minister in these days," Allon said on emerging from the talks. "We shall do our best to convince her to change her mind."

Asked if Mrs. Meir still planned to resign by returning her government-forming mandate to Katzir, Allon said, "I suspect that yes, she will, but I don't know if the president is obligated to accept it."

Allotments arriving

Gas supply looks better this week

Pomona Valley motorists with even-numbered plates were expected to have a good day at the gas pumps today, as most service stations have received their monthly allotments.

In fact, according to a Progress-Bulletin survey, the gas situation looks brighter for the rest of the week — with more stations expected to be open, with shorter lines of cars.

Those with license plates ending in odd numbers, however, took their lumps at the pumps Sunday as barely 1 per cent of Southland stations were open, according to the Southern California Automobile Club.

Only 81 stations in Los Angeles County were open, according to the Gasoline Control Center of the county's energy commission.

The few stations in the Pomona area that were open had long lines of cars, according to a spot check.

Buck Dickinson, operator of a Shell station at Orange Grove and Garey avenues in Pomona, said he had three-block-long lines all day Sunday, and "100 cars waiting for gas when we ran out."

He called the new odd-even gas marketing plan "one of the biggest foul-ups they've pulled yet. I had threats of physical violence Sunday. One guy said he'd sue me if I didn't give him gas, and another threatened to knock out my station lights."

The gas situation was expected to be better today, however, and during the rest of the week, according to Clovis Watson, supervisor with the Auto Club's Pomona office. Lines seem shorter today because the even numbers got gas Saturday. It could be rougher Tuesday because odd numbers had to go four days (if they were unable to fill up Sunday) without gas."

Several stations, including a Mobil at Holt and Erie avenues in Pomona, indicated lines were shorter today. "Lines are moderate; maybe this odd-even plan is working," said Chaffey Shepherd, owner of the station.

Kissinger reports progress in Europe

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today reported some progress was being made in two declarations of principle redefining U.S. relations with its European allies and that President Nixon might come to Europe to sign them if the declarations are satisfactory.

Kissinger met with ambassadors of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and briefed them on his just-completed tour of the Middle East. Joseph Luns, the NATO secretary general, described the talks as "very useful, lively and pleasant."

Asked at a news conference whether a trip to Europe by President Nixon had been set, Kissinger said there was "a tentative plan" that if two declarations being drawn up are satisfactory, "the President will come to sign them."

Kissinger said there was "very good progress" made on a declaration on security matters being drawn up within NATO and "we are quite optimistic" about the documents on economic and political relations being drawn up by the European Common Market.

Kissinger said he found "a considerable unity of views as to the objectives" which Western Allies should follow toward the Middle East.

Kissinger proposed the declaration in a speech last April saying it should "redefine U.S.-European relations." He proposed a new basis for the North Atlantic Alliance.

After his news conference, Kissinger went to see Walter Scheel, the West German Foreign Minister and current chairman of the Common Market Council of Ministers at the German Embassy.

Scheel briefed Kissinger on the Common Market's three-stage plan for cooperation with 20 Arab states and of its plans to begin talks with Israel.

He arrived from Bonn where he briefed West German Chancellor Willy Brandt on prospects for peace in the Middle East.

Call P-B for valley voting

Voters take to the polls in eight Pomona Valley cities Tuesday, casting ballots for municipal offices, and, in two areas, on bond proposals.

As a public service, the Progress-Bulletin will offer a running tally of all vote counts on election night. From 9 to 11 p.m. P-B workers will take calls.

Polls open at 7 a.m. in all areas, closing at 7 p.m. except in the communities of La Verne, Claremont and Walnut. In those three cities closing time is 8 p.m.

Gold coin fever rises among average workers in the U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Americans in increasing numbers are taking their money out of banks and exchanging paper currency for gold coins.

"We have people coming in here with their entire life savings and buying gold coins with it," said Les Fox, numismatic director of Deak and Co., Inc., the largest foreign exchange dealer in the Western Hemisphere.

"Until about a month ago we were doing most of our business with collectors interested in rare coins," he said. "Now 90 to 95 per cent of the people in here—and there are a lot of them—are average working people buying gold simply to protect their money."

It has been against the law since 1934 for Americans to own or trade gold bullion. But they are allowed to have coins of gold within certain limitations of the minting date.

The most popular gold coin in the current buying rush is the Mexican 50-peso piece, last minted in 1947 but currently being restruck with that date by the Mexican government.

The Mexican coin, which contains 1.2 ounces of gold, has a currency exchange value of only $4 but sold for as high as $277 during the past week in New York coin shops.

Driver uses pistol to get gas at Ontario station, pays bill, leaves

ONTARIO—Police this morning are searching for a motorist who pulled a revolver on a service station owner, ordered him to fill up his tank with gasoline, paid, got change and drove away.

Police said the station owner, Guilherme Dias, 38, reported the incident just after his C and F Arco station, 1437 Euclid Ave., closed about 2:40 p.m. Saturday. Dias said a brown 1949 sedan witah two men inside pulled up to the gas pumps. Dias said the driver of the car displayed a .38 caliber revolver and ordered him to fill the car's gas tank. Dias said the driver kept the gun pointed at him whe he filled the tank with $3 worth of gas.

After filling the tank, Dias said the man with the gun gave him a $10 bill. Dias gave the gunman back $7 in change and the gunman's car drove off towards De Anza Park.

Police said the driver is described as a Caucasian, 27, 5 feet 11, 150 pounds wearing a light colored shirt and black pants. The passenger in the vehicle was described as Caucasian, 25, 6 feet, 140 pounds wearing a brim hat, brown shirt and blue jeans.

Police said the men were wanted for investigation of brandishing a firearm.

Resignation of Heath 'certain'

LONDON (UPI) — The Liberal party today rejected an offer by Prime Minister Edward Heath to join his Conservatives in an anti-Socialist coalition. Instead, it proposed a "Grand Alliance" of Conservatives, Labor and Liberals to rescue the country from its economic crisis.

But political informants said the "Grand Alliance" suggestion was unacceptable either to Heath or to Labor party leader Harold Wilson.

They said this left Heath virtually no choice except to resign and to advise Queen Elizabeth to summon Wilson to form a Labor party minority government.

Wilson has said he is ready to do so.

In a further blow to Heath's hopes of carrying on an "anti-Socialist" government, 10 of the 11 hard line Protestant militant members of parliament from Northern Ireland agreed in Belfast to go it alone and not to join any government in London.

They decided to set up a "United Ulster Unionist parliamentary coalition.

Acting as spokesman for the group, Rev. Ian Paisley said it will support whichever party helps Ulster.

Labor party sources said if Wilson is summoned to form a government, he will do so with the 301 Labor party members of parliament alone, even though they do not constitute a majority of the new 635-member House of Commons.

They said he will push ahead with Labor's program, including nationalization of additional key industries, until the party is defeated in parliament and that Wilson then will call a new general election to seek a full majority.

Earlier, Heath, still clinging obstinately to power despite a stinging rebuff from the voters in Thursday's general election, held a two-hour meeting of his cabinet.

Government officials said it discussed a possible deal with the Liberals.

No statement was released afterwards.

For airlines

Simon would equalize price for domestic, overseas fuel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing "skyrocketing costs" of jet fuel for U.S. overseas airlines, energy chief William E. Simon proposed today a plan to equalize the price paid for fuel by domestic and foreign carriers.

Under the present system, U.S. lines such as Pan American and Trans World must buy sharply higher priced imported jet fuel.

In a proposed rule to be published Tuesday, Simon would place the U.S. overseas airlines under the allocation program used for domestic airlines.

The U.S. overseas airlines purchase imported "bonded fuel," which formerly was cheaper than domestic jet fuel. But the energy crisis has more than doubled the price of bonded fuel.

Simon said that "skyrocketing costs to the international airlines" had made the problem "serious enough to consider broadening the current allocation program."

Domestic airlines, which get 95 per cent of the amount of jet fuel they used in comparable 1972 periods, opposed sharing their allocation with the overseas carriers.

Simon's proposal would place "bonded jet fuel under the same FEO allocation and price control as other jet fuels, thereby equalizing distribution and prices."

Pan American argued that failure to include overseas airlines in the original allocation program was discriminatory and threatened to sue the FEO.

Administtration energy policy and President Nixon's planned veto of the emergency energy bill came under attack from Sens. Henry M.. Jackson, DWash., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Jackson told a national housing conference that Nixon's veto, which he plans formally on Tuesday, would outrage the public.

Kennedy said at the same conference that administration policies on energy and other matters had been disastrous for middle and low-income Americans.

Man, 2 juveniles are charged in kidnap-robbery

POMONA — A man from Los Angeles and two local juvenile boys were booked Sunday afternoon in the kidnaping and robbery of an Upland woman here.

The victim, Carmen Campo, 30, said she and 7-year-old Shirley Campo were walking on Valley Boulevard near Ganesha Boulevard when they were forced into a car by a young man armed with a small pistol. She was forced to surrender $5 from her purse and write a $50 creck for her captors before being freed, she said.

Police later located a car at 2350 Belinda Ave., similar to the one used in the incident, and arrested three suspects at that location. They were identified by the victim, officers said.

The adult seized was Marcus Patterson, 18, of 11661 S. Avalon Blvd. He and the others were booked on suspicion of kidnaping and robbery.

Seven on plane lost in Rockies

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — A plane carrying seven persons, including the brother-in-law of Sen. Lowell, P. Weicker, R-Conn., and his family, is missing on a flight from Houston, Tex., to a Colorado ski resort.

The search for the plane, which disappeared Saturday with William G. Godfrey, of Houston, his wife and four children, and a pilot aboard, has been delayed by "severe turbulence" authorities said Sunday. It was to continue today.

Godfrey is the brother of Weicker's wife, Marie Louise. "Weather—severe turbulance, lowering cloud ceiling and heavy snow—forred the aerial search to halt in the afternoon," said Carol Patton, information officer for the Colorado Civil Air Patrol.

The pilot of the twin-engine Mitsubishi turbo prop, which was bound for Aspen, Colo., about 50 miles from where the craft was believed to have crashed, was identified as Bernard Gallaher of Houston. Mrs. Patton said he was a highly qualified pilot who had logged 10,000 air hours.

A ski tow operator in the area told authorities he saw a red and white airplane disappear over a ridge and heard an explosion Saturday afternoon. Officials said, however, the loud noise could have been a sonic boom, which are common in the area.

Six inches of snow fell in the area between the time the plane went down and Sunday evening, officials said. The snow, coupled with high winds, forced authorities to call off the search.

Spokesmen for the..Pitkin County sheriff's office said the search was called off at 5:30 p.m. Sunday and would resume despite predictions of continuing snowfall.

"We can't get in there. If we don't find it by air, we don't move on the ground. We're not even sure of the area the plane went down," a sheriff's spokesman said.

Two rape cases reported to Claremont police

CLAREMONT — Authorities reported two separate cases of rape here during the weekend, one of which occurred in a dormitory at Scripps College.

In that incident, the 19-year-old victim said she was awakened shortly after 2 a.m. Saturday by a young man who had entered her room. The intruder, described as white, 19 to 20, 5 feet 10 with blond hair, attacked the young woman before fleeing. Campus police Sunday night arrested a suspect in the incident. They said they found him hiding in a women's restroom on the campus. William Robert Ryan, 22, 4454 N. Towne Ave., was booked on suspicion of burglary and rape.

A young woman visiting from Northern California said she was grabbed early Sunday near Pitzer College's McConnell center., where she was attending a dance. She said she was forced into their car and attacked before being put out in Pomona.

Police reported finding the victim, 18, weeping at Mission Boulevard and Monte Vista Avenue shortly before 4 a.m. She described her attacker as a Negro, 28 to 30, 5 feet 5 weighing 140 pounds.

Ex-Marine gets life for bombing

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI) — The youthful "propaganda minister" of the Rights of White People (ROWP) has been sentenced to life in prison for the bombing of the Wilmington Journal, a black newspaper.

It took an all-white jury of eight women and four men only 25 minutes deliberation before returning the guilty verdict Saturday against Lawrence R. Little, a 19-year-old ex-Marine.

New Hanover County Superior Court Judge Bradford Tillery imposed the life sentence while Little stood quietly. Little's court-appointed attorney, John Newton, said the verdict would be appealed.

Lines longer than ever despite increased prices for gasoline

By United Press International

The price of gasoline soared by as much as 13 cents a gallon in some parts of the country during the weekend, but most motorists seemed eager to pay the higher prices. Lines waiting at filling stations in several areas were reported longer than ever, and many stations were closed because their storage tanks were dry.

"Gasoline availability has slipped to its lowest point since the surveys began last June," said Jim Walls of the Georgia Motor Club. He said a fourth of the state's filling stations were sold out and closed for the weekend.

The situation was described as the worst since the energy shortage became severe five months ago also in Michigan and parts of California. Lines in the San Francisco area were longer than ever, stretching as far as five blocks.

The Automobile Club of Michigan said the situation was the same throughout the state: higher prices and less gasoline than ever. Ten per cent of the stations in the Detroit area were sold out and closed, although the problem was not as severe in the northern part of the state.

The price of gasoline leaped by 13 cents a gallon at two filling stations in Tallahassee, Fla. The stations, both Spur Centers, raised their prices from 45.5 cents to 58.5 for regular and from 49.5 to 62.5 for premium. Manager Ed Mathew said the 13 cents reflected a government-allowed 2-cent hike in the retail price, plus a higher cost for wholesale fuel.

The Hoosier Motor Club surveyed 118 service stations in Indiana and found 10 per cent were closed for lack of fuel, twice as much as the previous week.

About 200 dealers in Augusta organized the Maine Gasoline Dealers Association. Philip Pimentel, owner of a Shell station in Augusta, said the group would offer the state's operators a chance to have a unified voice in dealing with the Federal Energy Office. Pimentel urged the dealers not to shut down over dissatisfaction with federal rulings because he said as dealers they have "an obligation to the consumer to act as responsible businessmen during this crisis."

In other developments:

—In New York, where a mandatory odd-even rationing plan is in effect, about 40 amputees in wheelchairs or on crutches demonstrated at Gov. Malcom Wilson's office to demand special treatment at gas pumps. They said they "require their vehicles in order to maintain their everyday existence."

—The price of gasoline could hit 75 cents a gallon, according to the chairman and chief executive officer of Phillips Petroleum Co., W.F. Martin. But Martin did not say when. Prices are already over 60 cents a gallon in some areas.

—In Washington, John Swearingen, board chairman of Amoco, said the gasoline shortage will last another six to 12 months.

—And in Welch, W.Va., coal miners engaged in a week-long work stoppage complaining they can't buy gasoline to drive to work, have decided to continue the strike. About 400 southern West Virginia coal miners met Sunday night and voted to continue their work stoppage in protest of Gov. Arch Moore's order forbidding gasoline sales to motorists who have more than a quarter of a tank.

Weekend search for missing balloonist proves fruitless

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon evaluated data from a fruitless weekend search for missing balloonist Thomas L. Gatch today, but associates said responsibility for the survival of the 48-year-old adventurer was up to Gatch himself.

"It sounds cruel, but it's right," said William Armstrong, a Federal Energy Office employe who helped in the preparation of Gatch's craft "Light Heart."

"It's up to Tom Gatch to come back," he said.

Relatives of Gatch, believing him to be down in the water in some floatable device for at least the last 11 days, have renewed their pleas that the Pentagon continue its air surveillance of a 95,000-square mile area where computer projections indicate he may be.

Gatch's balloon was last confirmed sighted 11 days ago by a Liberian ship 1,000 miles west of the Canary Islands at an altitude of 1,000 feet.

Armstrong said a number of experts, including noted authority Vincent E. Lally, program manager for the global atmospheric measurements program at the National Center for Atmospheric research, said there was "no way a man could get up again from that altitude."

When Gatch was spotted by the ship, his 190-pound gondola was supported by only eight of the 10-helium filled balloons he started with. The first burst only 76 minutes into his flight, causing him to drop from a planned altitude of 39,000 feet to 35,500.

Armstrong said the observation by the ship lasted for "two hours and theoretically the sun's heat would have caused the balloons to rise.

"There is no indication that Tom was in the gondola at the time....I don't know if that point has been raised before."

Armstrong said Gatch would have left his craft "as early as Tuesday night," Feb. 26, and could be adrift on the Atlantic in a raft.

Gatch left Harrisburg (Pa.) International Airport Feb. 18 in the Light Heart in his attempt to make the first transatlantic manned balloon crossing.

Jocklyn Armstrong of New York, Gatch's niece, said although the balloonist carried provisions for only 10 days he might have rationed them to last longer and could be surviving by drinking rain water.

Smooch for science

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — The University of Idaho has announced that students would be used in an experiment to determine the physiological responses to kissing.

The participants, according to the school, will "smooch for science."

Supreme, Court rules in favor of cable television operators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled, 6 to 3, today in a major copyright case that CATV operators have the right to pick up and transmit network and other original programs any distance they wish.

The Court urged Congress however to legislate on the complex issue of copyright protection in the broadcasting field.

The decision, affirming part of a 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling, held that the long distance transmission of programs for use of cable antenna television does not infringe on any copyright held by originators of the material.

The ruling came after a prolonged controversy which arrayed the networks and conventional broadcasters against the growing CATV industry which uses high altitude antennas and microwave to transmit programs to pay subscribers mainly in remote areas.

In other major actions, the Court:

—Ruled 8 to 1, with Justice William O. Douglas dissenting, that the Veterans Administration has the constitutional right to deny GI Bill of Rights educational benefits to conscientious objectors who perform nonmilitary duties instead of serving in the military.

—Agreed with lower court decisions that federal courts lack jurisdiction over union requirements that candidates for office must sign noncommunist affidavits.

—Held that a New York law prohibiting marriages by prisoners serving life sentences is constitutional.

—Agreed to hear an appeal by a group of 62 Illinois delegates to the 1972 Democratic national convention who are threatened with contempt in a state court as a result of a seating dispute with a group led by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley.

In the CATV case, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Douglas and Justice Harry A. Blackmun dissented.

White House guards armed with missiles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Secret Service has added an antiaircraft missile system to its arsenal since an Army private landed a helicopter on the White House lawn, according to Aviation Week magazine.

Aviation Week in its current issue said the missile was the "Redeye," an antiaircraft system which can be fired from the shoulder and was used in Vietnam.

The Secret Service today described the report as inaccurate but declined to discuss what new security measures had been invoked since the helicopter incident on Feb. 17. A spokesman said the service had a long standing policy of not discussing security changes.

There had been speculation the Secret Service would strengthen protective equipment after the private commandeered a helicopter from Ft. Meade, Md. and landed the craft on the south lawn of the White House in a hail of shotgun fire. President Nixon was in Key Biscayne, Fla., and no member of his family was in the mansion at the time.

into the Ermenonville Woods five minutes after takeoff from Orly Airport on a flight to London.

The Paris afternoon newspaper France-Soir said an anonymous caller telephoned its office at 6.35 a.m. and said the plane had been sabotaged as an act of protest against the French government.

The U.S. embassy said a delegation from the U.S. National Safety Transportation Board arrived in Paris and joined the investigation at the crash site. Turkish and French investigators part in the inquiry because the DC10 was U.S.-built.

Airport sources said the black box tape-recorder was taken to the Civil Bretigny sur Orge, 35 miles south of Paris, where experts began to study precrash flight data.

French radio said the regional flight control center of Athis-Mons south of Paris recorded a faintly heard distress signal or alarm bell aboard the plane. But a spokesman said later this was only a horn indicating that oil pressure was normal.

Controlled avalanche isn't; Tahoe road blocked 3 hours

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A ski resort demolition team overestimated their explosives power Sunday.

Instead of a small, controlled avalanche meant to remove dangerous snow accumulations on Mount Rose, the blast triggered a huge slide which carried trees, brush and tons of snow.

The debris blocked the Mount Rose Highway, a main artery to the Lake Tahoe Basin, for more than three hours before it was cleared.

Empty gas cans used for dramatization

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressional candidate Jerry Olivet has brought empty gasoline cans to Washington in an attempt to dramatize the plight of the new 33rd congressional district and the rest of the state.

Olivet, a medical doctor, hopes to meet with House Speaker Carl Albert and Sen. John Tunney. He also plans to meet with Sen. Alan Cranston and Rep. James Corman.

Olivet said he feels the gas shortage is "contrived."

"as station operators tell me they have all the gas they want," he said, "but they're not allowed to sell it."

Olivet's trip to Washington was spurred by long gasoline lines and the fact that "my wife has to wait two hours to get gas. We must have gasoline for emergencies."

Olivet said he would like to see California's allocation increased and says Gov. Reagan's "market organization' is really gasoline rationing.

State is auditing Cal Poly faculty

POMONA — Cal Poly Pomona campus is one of six campuses of the state university system being audited to determine if faculty members are teaching fewer hours than they are being paid for.

The audit team was on campus in late January and early February, officials report, but as yet has submitted no report.

Fred Dalton, chief auditor of the state university, said teams of special auditors were sent out to find out "whether faculty members have been using a variety of techniques to falsify how many hours they spend each week teaching."

The investigations are being carried out on campuses in San Francisco, Hayward, San Luis Obispo, Long Beach, San Bernardino and Pomona.

Dalton said a pilot study has already been completed at the Los Angeles campus, and still another campus may be added to the list for investigation.

"Auditors at the Los Angeles campus found professors were illegally taking teaching credit for such routine duties as advising students, double credit for extra large classes, and indulging in a variety of other policy violations," Dalton reported.

Driver held after crash in San Dimas

SAN DIMAS — A motorist was arrested late Sunday afternoon after his pickup truck went out of control, hit a parked vehicle, jumped a curb, slammed through a block wall, hit a mobile home and a utility pole, authorities said.

The accident occurred at 1635 W. Covina Blvd. as Larry H. Darren, 31, of 412 S. Kimberly Drive, was eastbound. Sheriff's deputies said the vehicle went out of control when Darren's passenger, Deborah Ann Marchetti, 21, of the same address, put on the vehicle's brakes.

About 25 feet of 4-foot-high block wall was damaged before the pickup hit a 55-foot mobile home belonging to Louis Castro. Darren was booked on a drunken-driving charge, deputies said. There were no injuries.

2 students suspects in house fire

WALNUT — Two 17-year-old high school students are suspected of setting a fire Sunday afternoon that resulted in $15,000 damage to the residence of Hector Garcia, 19050 N. Northan St.

Officers at the Industry sheriff's station said the two young men were questioned about the fire and about several items from the home that were reported missing including comic books, liquor and change.

The hall, living room and dining room of the three-bedroom house were fully involved in flames when firemen arrived at the scene at 5:56 p.m. Sunday. Smoke and heat damage was extensive throughout the structure, firemen said.

Mother and 2 tots injured in D.B. crash

DIAMOND BAR — A mother and her two small children were injured when their car jumped a curb and struck an Edison pole on Prospectors Road west of Golden Springs Avenue Saturday night.

Mrs. Dixie Lee Edge, 28, of 211 Cottonwood Ave., Diamond Bar, told the highway patrol she hit a curb on a curve and the car went over the curb and hit the power pole.

She and the children, Trent E. Edge, 3, and Norma Lee Edge, nine months, were taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Mrs. Edge was reported in good condition there this morning, and Trent was in satisfactory condition. Norma Lee was treated and taken home.

Arraignment facing guard in boy's death

CHINO —A 23-year-old Riverside security guard who allegedly shot and killed a 13-year-old Chino youth during "horseplay" in a new housing tract on Magnolia Avenue Saturday will be arraigned on manslaughter charges in Chino Municipal Court today or Tuesday, police said.

The security guard, Gary Reese of Riverside, was arrested for investigation of manslaughter shortly after 13-year-old Raymond Vasquez of 6134 Chino Ave. was pronounced dead on arrival at Chino General Hospital Saturday afternoon. The youth died of a single gunshot wound of the head fired from a .357 magnum revolver.

Police said that the guard and young Vasquez and another youth were acquainted. The three were sitting in the security guards car, apparently horseplaying, when the gun discharged.

Police said Reese is suspected of possible criminal negligence in the youth's death.

$2 minimum new wage in California

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The $2 minimum hourly wage goes into effect in California today, bringing pay raises to about 1.5 million workers.

The increase from $1.65 an hour especially will benefit youths, employes of small retail shops, students, waitresses and workers in recreation industries.

For the first time, men and household domestic workers will be given the benefit of state wage standards.

The increase to $2 an hour was authorized by the legislature last year and implemented by the state Industrial Welfare Commission.

Arabs mum on hijacking of jetliner

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Two Arabs refused today to tell police interrogators why they hijacked a British Airways VC10, forced it to fly to Amsterdam, freed the 102 passengers and crew and then set the airliner afire with whisky, perfume and explosives.

Police said they had questioned the two continuously since their capture on the tarmac of Amsterdam's Schiphol airport Sunday night.

"They told us nothing at all," an airport police spokesman said.

Two young Arab hijackers seized the British Airways VC10, carrying 92 passengers and 10 crewmen, Sunday afternoon 90 minutes after the four-engine jetliner took off from Beirut on a flight to London.

Three hours later, the guerrillas ordered passengers and crew out of the blue, silver and white plane at Amsterdam's Schiphol airport and used the duty-free whiskey and perfume aboard as fuel to burn and blow up the aircraft.

The police spokesman said airport police had questioned the hijackers until midnight. State police then took them away to a place "somewhere in the country safe behind locked doors" for further interrogation, he said.

Although the hijackers spoke only broken English with authorities, police "had the impression they were good in English but preferred to keep their mouths shut," he said.

When the Arabs left the plane, the spokesman said, "they took a terrible risk by not keeping any of the passengers as hostages. Sharpshooters sitting in armored cars had their fingers on the trigger."

A police officer "unwittingly kept them from firing by walking toward the hijackers with his hands up," he said. The officer persuaded the skyjackers to give up their ammunition, he said.

A Justice Ministry spokesman said the case "is now in the hands of the public prosecutor of the city of Haarlem under whose judicial authority the airport is."

Doctors have highest rate of alcoholism

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Physicians suffer the highest alcoholism rate of any profession in America, the California Medical Association was told Sunday.

"We lose the equivalent of one medical school class a year," said Dr. Charles E. Becker, head of alcoholic detoxification at San Francisco eneral Hospital.

Becker, also an assistant professor at the University of California Medical Center, urged Physicians to be more alert to early symptoms in themselves and their patients.

Energy shortage still at crisis stage, oilman says

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The energy shortage is still in the crisis stage and gasoline prices might get as high as 75 cents per gallon if all controls are lifted, according to the chairman and chief executive officer of Phillips Petroleum Co.

W. F. Martin, in a television interview aired Sunday in Oklahoma City, said he wished he shared the optimism that President Nixon has in saying the energy shortage has passed the crisis stage.

"I think that we're going to have to live with some shortages for quite a period of time," Martin said. "While we might have gotten over a crisis here recently, maybe this is what the President was talking about, we were all concerned about having enough heating oil, and I think we are over that problem.

"But we're entering into the gasoline consuming season and we have some problems on the supply of gasoline," he said.

Martin was asked what would happen to gasoline prices if all controls were lifted.

"You have to go back and say: what's going to happen to the prices of crude oil overseas," Martin said. "I think we're seeing the price of crude oil start to stabilize. In some cases it's been brought down a little bit.

"However, I would feel that over a period of time, with inflation, that we would expect the price of crude oil to continue to rise, so I would think that the price of motor fuel would rise."

Martin said the maximum point to which gasoline prices might rise would be anybody's guess.

"If I would guess, and I'm sure this will be read back to me sometime, I would say that maybe it might get as high as 75 cents, I don't know," he said.

The head of the Bartlesville-headquartered oil firm also questioned the possibility of the United States becoming self-sufficient in energy in 1980, as President Nixon said was the goal.

"I'm not at all sure that we can ever actually meet all the requirements of the people of this country of oil and gas right from this country alone," Martin said. "I think we're going to have to continue to be involved in overseas operations and overseas exploration efforts and if we're not, of course, some other company from another country would be, and I think it's in the best interest of our country that United States companies be involved in overseas production."

"If we were just thinking about being self-sufficient in energy absolutely by 1980, I think that's a pretty early date to anticipate that," he said.

Martin made his comments on a program titled "Profile of a Major Oil Company," aired as part of WKY-TV's weekly Spectrum series.

Tennessee takes over as U.S. streak capital

By United Press International

Tennessee may be replacing Texas as the streak capital of the United States.

Although only three fraternity pledges actually streaked on the campus of Memphis State University at 11:15 p.m. EDT Sunday, other pranks brought 12 police units wearing riot gear and carrying shotguns to the campus along with two of police helicopters.

Administration officials said disciplinary action would be taken against the three streakers, who ran naked across the university's dormitory area in spring-like 69 degree temperature.

In addition, UPI has learned, students on the normally quiet campus secretly have formulated plans for a "super streak," tentatively planned for this week and expected to set a host of national streaking records.

Traffic was blocked for three hours by "wall to wall" streakers Saturday night at the University of Tennesseee's main campus in Knoxville, while 10 male students streaked the Trinity University campus in San Antonio, Tex.

The incident at a women's dormitory with reports of a panty raid. Fraternity members and other male students then zipped across the area on motorcycles, stopped near the dorms, dropped their trousers and rode off again into the night.

It ended with the three fraternity pledges dashing totally naked through the area, which then was sealed off by the huge contingent of police. Ten nude men jumped out of cars and ran by the women's dorm on the Trinity campus in San Antonio. Coeds were at almost every window. Following their short dash, the men jumped back in their cars and drove around the dormitory with the coeds cheers ringing in their ears.

A one streaker — a rarity in the latest collegiate team sport raced across the gym floor on the University of Florida campus Saturday, moments before florida was to play Alabama in a basketball game.

The home team, perhaps inspired by the man who ran naked across the court and out the door before officials and police could apprehend him, went on to upset the nationally ranked Crimson Tide.

In Knoxville, police Sgt. Floyd Patty said "at the outside there were 50" persons involved in the streak with several thousand spectators. Patty said one tavern offered a free bag of beer for any woman streaker and within minutes a nude woman jumped from a car, dashed for the tavern, and left carrying a bag, presumably containing beer.

"They were staying out having a good time, drinking and throwing cans," Patty said. "There was no serious damage."

Eight in race for Teague's Congress seat

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The political impact of Watergate will undergo its first major California test Tuesday in a special congressional election where Democrats have made President Nixon their chief issue.

One Republican, veteran state Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, faces a crowded field of seven Democrats seeking to succeed the late GOP Rep. Charles Teague, who held the seat for almost 20 years.

The winner in the Southern California coastal district embracing Ventura and Santa Barbara counties must receive 50 per cent of the votes cast, plus one. Otherwise, the two top vote-getters will runoff in an April 2 election.

Democrats, who hold a slim 48 to 45 per cent registration edge in a region where citizens often vote the man and not the party, pinned their strategy on forcing Lagomarsino into a runoff. They conceded in advance they had no chance of defeating him outright Tuesday.

Michigan voters last month handed Democratic congressional contenders in California a psychological lift when they elected Richard VanderVeen to the House seat of Vice President Gerald Ford. VanderVeen had made Nixon and Watergate major issues.

But unlike the Michigan election where VanderVeen faced only one Republican contender, the 13th California House District race pits Lagomarsino against seven Democrats.

Democratic hopes were further bouyed when a federal grand jury in Washington, acting just four days before the election, returned indictments against seven former top-level aides to Nixon in the coverup of the Watergate break-in.

An attorney first elected to the legislature in 1961, Lagomarsino is running in a district almost identical to his Senate district and has pulled Democratic votes in his four election victories.

Mayor James Loebl of Ojai, 46, considered the Democratic frontrunner, said the basic issue in the campaign "is Richard Nixon, his policies and whether to support them or not."

For Tuesday, March 5

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will be able to manage others very well today. They won't resent it. They'll know instinctively your way is best.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is a good time to make those creative changes you've been planning for the house to brighten things a bit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your persent ideas can be expanded and put into motion if they're discussed with the one whose approval inspires you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your instincts will help you spot a bargain that others will overlook. Don't spend beyond your means.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An old issue will come to mind today. Take care of it at once while you're in the mood. Later your thoughts will be elsewhere.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Something you'll be involved in must be treated in confidence. Telling others now will muddle matters.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A new interest that you have looks hopeful. Give it as much attention as you can the next few days.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You know at this time what's most rewarding to you personally, even if others don't Serve your ambitions first.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're able to look a little further ahead more clearly now. Make your plans in accordance with your new insights.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone you're involved with cannot see at present what's best for both of you. You can. Assume the leading role.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is a good time for you to iron out an agreement with one you're closely associated with. Mutual benefits will result.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're entering a productive cycle the next few days. Make the most of it. Give work and career matters top priority.

Your Birthday March 5

Advancement and gain will come easier this year where your work or career is concerned. Be productive and offer the best that's in you.

"Where Food is Made with Butter 'n' Love"

Everybody's offering tips for stretching these days—the miles per gallon and items on the food budget. We at Griswold's can give tips, too. The Indian Hill has specials for the early diners—great food and atmosphere at a budget pleasing price. The SMORGASBORD is always a value—a hearty lunch with all the tempting variety of food can make a light supper at home a budget stretcher.

According to NRA Pres. Richard J. Hartman, a 1973 study showed the price of food in the grocery store went up 21.5% but restaurant meals were up only 9.5%. "The restaurant meal is one of the best consumer values today."

Wall Street Briefs

CHICAGO (UPI) — China is more interested in diffusion of its trade with the United States than in rapid expansion, Van S. Lung, president of Sino-American Exports-Imports Co., told a World Trade Conference in Chicago Thursday.

Lung, whose father was the first vice chairman of the People's Republic of China years ago, also said Americans need have no concern over reports of a "new cultural revolution" in mainland China. He said social and political affairs change and evolve as constantly under China's communist regime as they do in the United States but in much the same orderly way.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Amoco Chemicals Division of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) said it will increase output of terephthalic acid and dimethyl terephthalate at its Decatur, Ala., plant to make total output of the company 1.9 billion pounds yearly. These chemicals are used in making polyester fiber and film for a wide variety of finished products.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Japanese steel industry has succeeded at the Keithin steel plant at Tokyo in desulfuring sintering exhaust gases to a huge degree, Yoshikazu Asano, New York manager for Nippon Kokan, Japan's second largest steel company, said Thursday. Sulfur dioxide emissions from sintering plants have been a serious air pollution problem for Japan, he said, and the results at Keithin indicate the problem now can be eliminated.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Riley Co. said its Riley Stoker subsidiary at Worcester, Mass., has won a $17 million contract to build a turbo-furnace steam generating unit for South Carolina's proposed Moncks Corner power station. The unit will burn pulverized coal. The contract is subject to arrangement of financing by the South Carolina Public Service Authority.

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Major Realty Corp. said it is joining Timber Development, Inc., of Lakeland, Fla., in the purchase of 24,100 acres of woodlands 17 miles from Panama City in the western part of Gulf County for $8.75 million from Hamilton Kenner of Panama City and G.A. Robinson, Jr., of Memphis. About 7,000 acres of the tract is planted in soy beans and wheat.

BOISE, Idaho (UPI — Morrison-Knudsen Co. said its Northern Construction division at Vancouver has won a $20 million contract to build artificial island offshore petroleum drilling sites in the Beaufort Sea in the Canadian Arctic region of Imperial Oil, Ltd., of Toronto. Drilling platforms willl be made of sand and gravel dredged from McKenzie Bay about 200 miles north of the Arctic circle.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The next several weeks are likely to be erratic as the bear market approaches what could be its conclusion," says Merkin & Co. Inc. Although many stocks have hit their final lows, the firm continues, they are not likely to perform well until some of the blue chips and flyers reach their bear market bottoms within the next two months. "Traders and investors are advised to remain on the sidelines until the technical conditions are conducive to relative low risk buying," it adds.

The tiers in the 1973 market pyramid have been destroyed by the bears, according to Harris, Upham & Co. It says "the breadth of the market is beginning to outperform some of the more popular price averages" now that the "beardozer" has leveled the previous stock market structure. Since the great majority of stocks have hit final lows, "serious base-building activity is becoming evident—the type of evidence that is necessary if a sustainable advance is to develop," the firm notes.

Motorists pay to charlatan

CARSON, Calif. (UPI) — A young charlatan raked in about $100 during the weekend, convincing 20 motorists waiting in a gasoline line that they had to pay him in advance for the fuel.

They did without question and the young fellow smiled and handed them receipts in return.

But when the motorists pulled up to the Standard Oil pumps Saturday they were told the receipts were worthless. By that time, police said, the "station employe" had disappeared.

Painful venom

A black widow spider's venom—more potent drop for drop than a rattlesnake's—causes intense pain. Deaths, however, occur from only four or five of the more than 1,000 bites reported in the United States each year.

Leaves from fourth branch

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

If I have seemed a little distrait in the past few days, I would like to apoligize. Fact is I have been seriously debating whether I want to be a "White House spokesman" or Undersecretary forPolynesian Affairs, yum.

In case you weren't at the weekly assembly at St. Paul's School in Concord, N.H., recently, the principal (only) speaker was old grad Archibald Cox, former special Watergate prosecutor. He told the students of his alma mater that "the news media seems to be setting itself up as the fourth branch of government."

This is similar to the Fourth Estate that plagued France some years ago. The three influential groups were the royalty (Napoleon), nobility (barons and earls) and the clergy (Cardinal Richelieu). America's equivalents today are royalty (King Richard), nobility (Congress, oil companies) and clergy (Billy Graham).

Under steady attack by the first estate ever since the famous kick-me-around speech, the fourth estate was losing ground in public esteem until three significant events — the release of the Pentagon Papers, the break-in at Watergate, and the revival of "The Front Page." Since then people have re-awakened to the value of a free press ("Watchdog of Democracy") and started believing a lot of what they read in newspapers and hear on radio and television.

Cox told the students at St. Paul's "The media certainly is turning gradually to a more active role in shaping the course of events through their news columns and commentaries, as well as on their editorial pages."

(Cox, like the rest of us, has trouble in deciding whether news media is singular or plural. Actually news media are a collective noun and should be dealt with accordingly. Here are the news.)

This "Fourth branch of the government," about which Cox told his listeners he has "quite a few misgivings," would, or will draw freely upon the other branches of its hierarchy. The chief nut on the fourth branch would undoubtedly be Howard Cosell, but after that the positions are up for grabs.

Choice of a leader for the new group is a tossup between Walter Cronkite and Harry Reasoner. Art Buchwald could handle the equivalent of Secretary of State, Jim Murray would make a good Speaker of the House, and Joe Garagiola could represent surveillance or law, whichever comes first. Dr. Brothers and Eric Sevareid are likely selections for the fourth estate version of Health, Educationa and Welfare. William Buckley would heead the Fourth Estate Un-American Activities Committee, and other editors, columnists and reporters, from Associated Press and United Press International would vie with newscaster and pundits from the TV networks for responsible committee posts.

I think I'll settle for Secretary of Treasure.

Microwave oven denial is challenged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Once, the expert was saying, there were shoe store X-ray machines that could hurt your bone marrow and radium-dial watches that over-dosed watch factory workers.

Those things are no more, he said, but they triggered radiation scares over household products that use a much weaker type of electromagnetic power—such as TV sets and, now, microwave ovens.

Mark Grove's message was: Microwave ovens are harmless if you use them sensibly, with the doors firmly closed, and, in any case, their radiation is much too weak to cause genetic damage or eye cataracts. What they could do, if misused, is burn you, he said.

"The conclusion of our roughly year-long study is that there is no reason to suspect there's any danger to a person from microwave ovens that meet Department of Health, Education and Welfare emission standards, provided they are operated safely and sensibly," said Grove, an electrical engineer representing the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers.

But Carol Cowgill, an attorney for Consumers Union who attended Grove's news conference, challenged him.

She said Consumers Union had no quarrel with the emission levels set by HEW but wanted government testing standards raised to reflect the little things that can go wrong in the kitchen.

Cowgill told a reporter, for example, that government tests now use perfectly sealed ovens. When the Bureau of Radiological Health experimentally tested 200 ovens with little impediments causing door-seal leaks, she said, "the radiation nearly knocked the needle off the meters."

Grove said so far as he knew all microwave ovens on the U.S. market met HEW radiation leakage standards—a quantity he said was 100 times weaker than the lowest level known to cause serious burns.

Asteroids vary in size

The asteroids that circle the sun range in size from dust particles and sand pebbles to rock chunks as big as Alaska.

Little shrimp

A single shrimp may produce more than a million eggs, but most of the billions of larvae spawned each year never reach adulthood. In their early stages, they starve unless food floats to them, and they make a tasty morself for everything that swims —including older shrimp.

Scientists working on genetic 'clocks'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A biologist reports science probably will discover within a decade or two how to reactivate genetic "clocks" which seem to contribute to the infirmities of old age.

"This potential moderation, control or even reversal of man's most universal enemy, the mental and physical debilities of old age, is, I believe, within the reach of our generation," said Dr. Bernard L. Strehler, of the University of Southern California.

He said in a paper at the final day of the week-long meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that all high forms of life possess internal genetic clocking systems that cause specific weakening events to take place as the individual ages. Some genes seem to switch off as the life cycle proceeds, making it impossible for the body to draw on information they contain to help produce new cells to replace parts damaged by disease or mishap.

The key question that needs to be answered, Strehler said, is how do genetic on and off switches work?

"For, once that particular question has been answered, it is not unlikely that pharmacological or other means for resetting the switches will also become feasible," he said in a paper.

He predicted researchers will answer this question within the next five years. He said it is probable that a means will be developed five to 10 years later to reactivate some of these turned off genes to restore some of the body's lost functions.

In an earlier session on aging, Dr. Robert R. Kohn, professor of pathology at Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, pointed out that humans deteriorate and die in highly predictable and characteristic ways even when they have the best genes, nutrition and environment and in spite of all efforts to keep them alive.

"In many highly developed societies, the survival limits have been reached in recent decades, and no significant increases in life expectancy or lifespan can be anticipated until basic aging processes are understood and altered," he said Thursday.

Dr. Nathaniel Calloway, physician at Madison, Wisc., General Hospital and a lecturer at the University of Wisconsin, cited some statistics to show that people are not living longer than their ancestors. He said senators elected between 1789 and 1860 lived an average 68 1-2 years. Senators elected between 1931 and 1966 achieved an average age of 69.

"This means that all of our glamorous developments, diets, flashing warning lights, records, discoveries and medical care have added only 1-2 year to the life of senators," he said.

Substitute trade

Though Ceylon is the world's second largest producer of tea, exceeded only by India, its major export formerly was cinnamon. When the cinnamon trade dropped off, coffee plantations were started as a substitute. Not until blight destroyed coffee crops in the 1880s did tea become a major crop on the island.

Campaign Committee for McDonald, Sherrin Bentley, Chairman

I have the only DC-10s to both Houston and New Orleans.

I'm Judy and I was born to fly.

I've got a lot going for you to Houston including nonstop DC-10 service twice a day.

And I've got a lot going for you to New Orleans, too. The only DC-10's.

My Houston schedule has daily nonstops, from early in the morning until late at night, including the only DC-10 night coach for $90 one way including tax, a nominal airport security surcharge is extra.

Here's the way it looks:

Lv. Los Angeles (all nonstop)	Ar. Houston
9:10am	2:00pm
2:30pm (DC-10)	7:20pm
1:15am (DC-10 night coach)	6:05am

My New Orleans schedule has the only DC-10 service from Los Angeles, a nonstop every morning, and a money-saving DC-10 night coach.

Here's the way it looks:

Lv. Los Angeles	Ar. New Orleans
9:10am (direct)	3:27pm
10:05am (nonstop DC-10)	3:27pm
2:30pm (direct DC-10)	8:42pm
1:15am (DC-10 night coach)	7:37am

You'll love flying my big, wide-bodied DC-10. It's the most luxurious, comfortable plane in the sky (and the quietest).

With twin aisles, and two-abreast seating throughout (so you're never more than one seat away from the aisle). And multi-channeled stereo entertainment.

Something else, when you're flying to Houston or New Orleans you can fly my Las Vegas Stopover Fare on any flight.

For just $1 more than the regular coach fare you can stop off in Las Vegas. Coming or going. You can't beat the fun in Las Vegas. And you can't beat the value of my $1 Stopover Fare.

Fly me to Houston or New Orleans.

For reservations, call your travel agent. Or National Airlines at 800-252-0086 (toll free).

I'm Judy.

Bill Walton's a vegetarian

No vegetarian should forget that UCLA's big Bill Walton also does his daily duties without benefit of meat dishes.

Am advised Minneapolis and St. Paul are the only sizable towns in the country where the baseball fans prefer hamburgers to hotdogs.

As for birds, before they mate, they court, and before they court, they flirt. All birds flirt. Thus spoke a professor of science to our Love and War man, who was infinitely pleased with the information.

Pregnant

A lot of young men want their girlfriends to become pregnant. Even though they don't want to marry said girlfriends. And even though they don't want to take responsibility for the offspring. Researchers say this peculiarity comes clear in interviews with numerous expectant mothers in maternity homes. Exactly 27 per cent of the unmarried girls interviewed therein said their boyfriends definitely wanted them to get pregnant. But they couldn't explain why. The mental experts think they can explain it, though. Many is the lad, they say, who feels compelled to grow a moustache, get drunk on boilermakers, crack up a car, fight with a lawman, and father a youngster, just to prove once and for all he has passed puberty.

Bauxite

Q. "Do the Australian aborigines own their own land?"

A. Used to. Until somebody discovered bauxite on their property. Then the courts there decided they didn't own the land.

Exactly why the enormous majority of buyers prefer white rather than colored handsoap I just don't know.

Some things are better after the new wears off, after they're broken in, after they've endured a season: Leather boots, a desk chair, rose bushes, asphalt paving, or a tyepwriter. And some things are never better than when they're just unwrapped, diminished not a whit, unmarked by fingerprints and dusk, whistling crisp; A ream of white paper, a bar of soap, a box of bullets, a cord of firewood, or a barnful of baled hay.

You know a hand in bridge that contains no card higher than a nine is called a Yarborough. But do you know why? The second Earl of Yarborough, an English nobleman, bet 1,000 to one just before the turn of the century against the dealing of such a hand.

Your hand is said to be normal if your thumb is as strong as the four fingers opposing it.

California Poll

Hayakawa led, but barred from ballot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Poll said today the State Supreme Court scratched the leading GOP contender in the U.S. Senate race when it barred Dr. S. I. Hayakawa from running as a Republican.

The survey showed Hayakawa "had a clear lead in Republican voter popularity over two other Republican U.S. Senatorial candidates, State Sen. H. Richardson and former State Director of Health and Welfare, Earl Brian," the poll announced.

The poll said the survey was completed just before the court decision barring the Japanese-American educator and before James E. Johnson, former assistant secretary of the Navy, announced he would run for the GOP nomination.

The survey, taken February 2 to 11, disclosed that 51 per cent of the Republicans queried would vote for Hayakawa if the primary were held then. Richardson received 23 per cent and Brian 10.

In a poll of voters of all parties, Hayakawa received 39 per cent of the vote compared to 52 per cent for incumbent Democrat Alan Cranston.

Both Richardson and Brian moved up in the poll of GOP voters when second choice preference of those favoring Hayakawa were allocated to them. Richardson got 44 per cent while Brian had 20 per cent. Undecided voters made up 36 per cent.

Hayakawa took over as president of San Francisco State College five years ago and took a hardline against student and faculty strikers.

He resigned last year and planned to run in the Republican primary after switching his registration from the Democratic Party.

The Supreme Court ruled last Tuesday he failed to comply with a state law that a primary election candidate for the Senate must have been a member of no other party for an additional nine months prior to filing time.

ARCH victor for defense

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "The code word ARCH: Analyze the lead, Review the bidding, Count your winners and losers. How can I make this contract? is also very likely to help the defense if they stop to apply it."

Oswald: "H" becomes How can I beat this contract? Also they seldom get a chance to count both winners and losers, but they certainly can Analyze the lead and Review the bidding."

Opening lead—♠4

Jim: "One of the first things bridge players learn is the rule of third hand high. Then they learn when to disregard it."

Oswald: "East analyzes the lead as fourth best. He reviews the bidding and notes that South opened one notrump. East has 10 high-card points as does dummy. That leaves 20 for West and South and since South's bid has shown 16-18 West can't have much. Furthermore, it looks as if his king of diamonds is the only trick the defense can take outside the spade suit."

Jim: "This review and analysis should be made quickly because if East wants to beat the hand he must play his queen; not the ace. If he plays the ace South will hold back his king until the third spade lead. If he plays the queen, South will be afraid to duck and when East gets in with the king of diamonds the spade suit will run."

The doctor comments

Constipation woes can strike children

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a little granddaughter who is 3½ years old. She has been given physics most of her life and many enemas. She screams on the stool for as mush as an hour at a time with my daughter or others at her side, either encouraging or demanding that she release it.

My daughter insists that when she is kept on a strict diet that she doesn't have nearly as much trouble. We all try to abide by this, little or no sweets, in order to help the child.

I have watched all this go on for a long period of time. My daughter and other members of the family insist that all this is psychological and my concern is that perhaps it is not.

I am neither a doctor nor a psychologist; but neither are they. In behalf of the child I contend that a physical examination should be made of this area as a first step. Am I wrong?

Will you please advise me, Doctor? I have no one else to turn to without causing family trouble.

DEAR READER — It is an important problem. And, your daughter is probably right in the context that psychological factors can be very important in such cases. However, it really doesn't make any difference whether it is psycholigical or because of some other problem, it does require proper treatment. Usually this is not laxatives and enemas.

The idea that sweets should be limited and the diet should contain more roughage; vegetables, cereals, whole wheat products, is wise. Even a child needs sufficient bulk in the diet for proper funtion of the colon.

It is important to develop good bowel habits early in life but that specifically does not include taking laxatives and enemas. A laxative habit at any age can be harmful. It is just possible that the little girl already has a spastic colon because of her bowel habits and the use of laxatives. And, believe me, that can be painful. This may be why she screams.

Yes, she needs an examination. This might need to include a study of her colon to see how it is functioning. She needs to be put on a diet that will help her more. It may be that she will need a bowel training program, which includes developing regular bowel habits. That means plenty of warm liquids at breakfast and each morning sitting on the commode for 15 minutes. A bowel movement is not necessary.

I think the amount of attention she gets from the present ritual is not conducive to good habits. She should be allowed to go to the bathroom and left there. If she doesn't have a bowel movement, okay, she may have one the next day.

It is not necessary ot have a bowel movement every day. Why don't you encourage your daughter to take her to the doctor and try to develop a good program for her.

For more detailed information about constipation write to me, in care of this newspaper. P.O. Box 1551 Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10022, and ask for the "Constipation" booklet. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

Bowel training can have effects on the psychological reactions of a person later in life. The idea of withholding a bowel movement to punish the parents gets started fairly early in life. The child can reward or punish anxious parents by their actions. Sometimes a child with real severe problems needs help from a child psychologist or psychiatrist.

Christmas Lights

Martin Luther was perhaps the first man to use lights on a Christmas tree. Luther put lights on his tree to represent the glory and beauty of the stars above Bethlehem on the night of Christ's birth.

LOVELY LINEUP—Mary Gonzales, choreographer, rehearses the chorus line for the Chaffey College production of "The Merry Widow." The Franz Lehar operetta will be staged in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. General admission is $1. From left the dancers are Carol Harmer, Roxanne Garrison, Marisa DeJoseph and Linda Page. The show is directed by Ralph Strane, drama instructor.

'The Merry Widow'

Chaffey College to stage

ALTA LOMA — Chaffey College will present Franz Lehar's operetta, "The Merry Widow," in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. Admission is $1.

Lehar wrote "The Merry Widow" in seven days to bridge a three-week open period in the summer season of a Vienna theater where he was director of music. It proved such a success that it played for a year and eventually scored top rating in a debut in New York City. The musical was so appealing to American audiences that at one point six productions were going on at the same time.

"The Merry Widow" has remained popular through the years because of its beautiful music, dancing and comedy.

The operetta tells of the mythical Marsovian Embassy in the Paris of the early 1900's and of the intrigue of courtly romance. Ambassador Popoff is assigned the seemingly impossible task of convincing Marsovian Prince Danilo that he should marry the lovely and wealthy widow Sonia. Popoff is assisted in the matrimonial project by his aide, Nish.

The conspiracy to trap Prince Danilo into marriage is abetted by General Novikovich and Counselor Khadje and wives Olga and Sylvaine.

The prince ultimately forfeits the benefits of bachelorhood in favor of marital and fiscal bliss. The assumption is that the prince and the widow, played by Raymond Slatinsky and Linda Finley, then waltz happily ever after.

Taking the part of the ambassador's aide is Doug Dowd. In the roles of the general, the counselor and their respective spouses are Petr Kowalski, Les Carnahan, Donna Sweeney and Teri Thompson.

The cast, including chorus and dancers, numbers 60.

Director of the Chaffey College presentation of "The Merry Widow" is Ralph Strane, creative arts division chairman. Joyce Shannon is music director; Mary Gonzales, choreographer, and Michael Noll, technical director.

Ellis Island shows effect of 20 years abandonment

By BARBARA SLAVIN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ellis Island, the "Golden Door" to America for more than 16 million immigrants, lies boarded up and neglected in New York City's upper bay.

Congress has repeatedly refused funding for rehabilitation of the island, proclaimed a national monument by President Johnson in 1965, and which from 1892 to 1954 served as a self-contained city and reception point for immigrants from every corner of the globe.

The island's 36 brick and stone buildings show the effects of 20 years of abandonment to sea and weather.

"They're deteriorating every day due to the high humidity and considerable vandalism," said Howard Crane, a Parks Service official who administers Ellis Island. "Three or four builidngs are probably beyond redemption."

The recorded history of the island began in the mid-1600's when it was an oyster fishery and picnic ground for wealthy Dutch settlers. Its original name, "Oyster Island," was changed when Samuel Ellis acquired it in the 1790's.

Later, the island was bought by New York State, which sold it to thhe Federal government in 1808 for $10,000 for use as a military garrison and the spot where many notorious pirates were hung.

In 1890, the U.S. Immigration Service moved there, and the first immigrant passed through its facilities on Jan. 1, 1892.

Between 1905 and 1914, nearly 10 million immigrants went through the island. As many as 5,000 a day were ferried from ships in barges to be tagged and lined up for medical and immigration service inspections.

The 30-acre island was equipped with male and female dormitories, a dining hall, and recreation facilities for the average of 10 days immigrants spent there before entering the United States.

"The quarters occupied by detained aliens consist of large, well-lighted, ventilated rooms. Dormitories are of white tile and each person is alloted a single bed with a good quality mattress, pillow, blankets and linen," wrote Cyprian Shandowsky, a U.S. Immigration Service interpreter, in his 1932 personal and unofficial history of Ellis Island.

Mrs. Minnie Eisenberg, now of Brooklyn, N.Y., was 16 years old when she arrived at Ellis Island in 1912 from Warsaw, Poland, and remembers it differently.

"I was sleeping on a bare bed with no sheets or blankets," Mrs. Eisenberg said. "There was a lot of people there but I was young, and I didn't care. I just wanted to get to America." After Congress imposed rigid quota restrictions in the early 1920's, immigration slowed to a trickle, and by 1930 Ellis Island was used mainly as a deposit for "undersirable aliens" awaiting deportation.

By 1954, the Immigration Service decided that it had no further use for the island and gave it back to the Federal government's General Services Administration.

Eskimos do well on test of abstract

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eskimos possess extraordinary abstract reasoning ability, more advanced than most preindustrial peoples, University of Chicago researchers have found.

The latest issue of Human Behavior magazine reports the findings by two University researchers of a nonlanguage test to measure the ability to reason abstractly.

Carol Feldman said Eskimos scored similarly to rural children in Illinois. This finding was "extraordinary" because people in preindustrial societies routinely score below average on standard Western measures.

Feldman said the scores "showed what we were looking for—human adaptability."

Co-researcher R. Darrel Bock said the high abilities of the Eskimos "bodes well for their future. Periods of radical change may lie ahead, for the traditional hunting way of life is being rapidly replaced by a cash economy," he said.

Ex-priest lobbying to regain voting rights of ex-convicts

By ROLAND LINDSEY

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Saying his best lobbyists are still behind bars, former priest Charles Sullivan is leading a campaign to get voting rights restored for ex-convicts.

Sullivan, a boyish looking Alabaman who moved to Texas after quitting the priesthood in 1969 and took up the cause of prison reform, is leader of a group called Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errants—or CURE.

The group sponsors regular bus trips to carry inmates' families to state and federal prison units for visits. He is trying to convince delegates to the Constitutional Convention to adopt a provision that would return voting rights to felons as soon as they are released from prison.

At present, Sullivan said, CURE has about 1,500 members, and more than half of them are prisoners who aren't even permitted to communicate with Sullivan or his wife, a former nun.

The prisoners can, however, write directly to their state legislators without having their mail censored, Sullivan said, and are doing so very effectively in support of the voting rights proposal.

The convention committee on Rights and Suffrage three times has turned down the voting rights for felons proposal. The question now goes to the full Constitutional Convention, where it is scheduled for debate Friday.

"It's still an uphill battle, but I think the telegrams and letters from prisoners and their families are softening some of them up," Sullivan said.

"We can't incorporate our organization because our best lobbyists are in prison," Sullivan said. "They are the ones who get their families involved. We hope we can eventually incorporate and have prisoners on our board of directors and even have meetings, but at present they cannot even write us and we cannot write them."

Sullivan does send a publication of his group to prisoners whose families suggest it, however, and now has more than 800 on his mailing list. The publication encourages prisoners to write their legislators on the voting and other prison reform issues.

"Our problem is we're writing letters to people that already agree with us," he said. "Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Houston, gets about 100 letters a week from prisoners, and he's already with us all the way. What we've got to do is work on people from rurals areas and from conservative urban areas."

Sullivan and his wife receive no pay for their work with CURE, and live on a $200 a month salary they jointly receive from the American Friends Service Committee for operating the bus service for prisoners' families.

"People are usually surprised at our financial situation," Sullivan said. "I think there's definitely a religious nature in how we live. It's very simple because we lived in the clergy and in a convent."

Sullivan said his group is making progress toward convincing rural conservative legislators that ex-convicts should be permitted to vote.

"I never thought that it would be such an asset to have a southern accent, be white and dress pretty straight," he said. "And I think my religious background helps. I find the conservatives are very direct and I like that."

Many obstacles to final Syrian agreement

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Syria figures her 1973 war losses in the billions of dollars.

She is under intense pressure not only by the super-powers but by Egypt as well to reach agreement with Israel on a disengagement of forces on the Golan Heights.

But despite this, and despite whatever early successes may be achieved by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in his shuttle trips between Damascus and Jerusalem, final agreement may be hard to come by.

There are several reasons for it.

Economically, the Golan Heights have little value, comprising some 500 square miles of land suitable for little more than olive trees and sheep grazing. But they are a matter of national pride to the Syrians who are determined to win them back.

Syria lost territory in the 1973 fighting. Egypt showed some gains and thus could claim at least a moral victory.

Syrian President Hafez Assad insists that disengagement must be only the first step in an Israeli withdrawal. A further condition is the return of 170,000 refugees driven, according to the Syrians, from the heights in the fighting of 1967 and 1973.

Syria spends between a quarter and a half of her national budget on military outlays but despite the heavy burden the Syrian people appear to support the government's determination to regain the lost territory. In some ways the country is in better shape now to fight than it was at the outbreak of the October, 1973, war.

President Assad speaks with considerably less authority than Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who can reach his own decisions and make them stick. Assad rules over an uncertain coalition of members of his own Baathist party, Socialists, Communists and Nasserites.

A further contrast lies in economic development plans of the two countries.

Egypt is counting heavily upon Western investment to help restore the Suez canal to use, in reconstruction of cities in the canal zone and resettlement of the Sinai.

The Syrians are counting mostly on the rich, oil-producing Arab states.

Kuwait is contributing some $600 million.

Saudi Arabia has pledged $2.2 billion.

Abu Dhabi has promised to finance a new oil refinery.

Although Israeli bombing heavily damaged Syria's main refinery at Homs and her Mediterranean tanker terminals at Banias and Tartus, she scarcely has felt the energy shortage. A rationing program was abandoned after two weeks.

Her only big Western loan is $73 million from the U.S.

Because veterans have traditionally been successful at Cal Poly, Pomona, you as a veteran and a California resident, will receive special consideration for admission. Our experience at Cal Poly, Pomona indicates that it is not necessary to apply regular admissions criteria when considering the admission of a veteran. Rather, our primary question is: Are you ready to pursue a university education? Because our concern involves maturity and motivation, each case is considered individually on its own merits.

Individual counseling is available to all veterans through the office of veterans' affairs. If necessary, tutoring can be arranged, and paid for in addition to your regular benefits. For the average veteran regular benefits will be received in cash amounts as shown below, and assistance is provided in filing the necessary forms to receive these benfits.

Still Westward Ho! but . . .

Some of migration now going south

By United Press International

Many Americans in search of a new life still heed Horace Greeley's advice of more than a century ago to "go West, young man." But a growing number are turning to a resurgent South in which to settle.

Population experts report that westward migration has accelerated remarkably in recent years, attracted by new industries, wide open spaces and the benefits of a cleaner envrionment than the industrialized Eastern states.

California still is the most popular, but Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Idaho, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas are sharing in the new settlers in the West, and Georgia and North Carolina in the South.

Heavily industrialized Michigan reports a drain in migrants the past three years, and Illinois migration picture showed it was about zero.

California's Population Research Unit estimates 100,000 more Americans made their homes there in 1973. Officials project net migration will remain at about the same figure up until the year 2000 when the state's population is expected to reach 29.2 million.

A big moving company said that last year it transported 20,460 families into California, and 15,895 out of the state.

One-third of those who left moved to states where lifestyles are what many had sought in California, but had become caught up in the sunny state's sprawling urbanization.

Dr. James Weiss, director for the Center on Population and Census in Oregon, said the state had a net migration in 1973 of 32,000, but the total population of 2,224,900 has remained almost stable.

"I think more than anything, people realize that Oregon is one of the cleanest states in the Union," he said, referring to a host of measures to keep the landscape clean.

Washington state has been hit in recent years by the aerospace slump and the effects on the big Boeing plant there.

John Walker, chief of Washington's Population and Enrollment Office, said that 10,600 persons were listed as moving out of the state in 1973, lower than the two previous years.

Arizona's population grew fastest in the nation by 16.1 per cent to 2,085,000 in the first three years of this decade, with migration accounting for 212,000 of the total.

The growth is attributed by state officials to the boom in retirement communities in the state where winters are sunny and mild and the lifestyle casual.

But it is not without a price. The major cities of Phoenix and Arizona are becoming clogged. Street, sewage and water facilities lag far behind population increases

Wig shop to help leukemia victim, 11, facing hair loss

Our grandson, 11, has leukemia.

In April he will have radiation treatments and the doctor tells us he will lose all his hair. That, along with his being so sick, would be just too much for a little boy so we have promised to get him a wig.

Can you give us the name of a wig maker who does that kind of work?

Expense is quite an item at this point, too.

I hope you can help. —A.E., Pomona.

Hamilton Brewart, owner of the House of 1001 Wigs at 285 E. Ninth St., Upland, told us that a custom made wig would be expensive.

He suggested that you take the boy to his place of business before he has the radiation treatments. He believes he may be able to fit him with a ready made wig with a small cap.

The price range he gave us was a very low one.

I took my son to a clinic on Dec. 3, 1973. Staff members ran some tests on him that day.

On Dec. 12 I took insurance papers into the clinic. Around the end of the month I received a bill for $22.05.

I had another appointment on Jan. 3. On that day I went to the desk to pay my bill in full.

The woman at the desk called to pediatrics for the charges. I was told they were $34.65. This is the amount I paid.

On Feb. 13 I received a bill for $52.50 for a pediatric consultation. I called the clinic to see if a mistake had been made. I told the woman I talked with that on Jan. 3 I had asked what the full charges were and was told just $34.65. She said this was a mistake and that I did owe the $52.50 for just talking to the doctor.

The insurance company will pay only $24.55 of that amount.

When I first went to the clinic in December I was never told or saw the price of anything charged. I never thought to ask, either, so now I can see I made a big mistake.

At no time did I ask to have a consultation with the doctor. On the first visit in December my son and I were taken to the examining room. When the doctor came in, he asked me to go to his office to talk and left my son in the room by himself. He also at no time told me about any charges of $52.50 or any amount for a consultation.

I honestly think that $52.50 for just talking to a doctor is a ridiculous amount to pay and that the patient or parents be made aware of the charges beforehand. —K.D., Claremont.

We were unable to get a reduction of the fee of $52.50 listed on your second bill for a pediatric consultation.

Joseph E. Steinmetz, assistant administrator of Magan Medical Clinic in Covina, told us that the pediatrician had apparently turned in his bill in January instead of December.

He followed up our conversation with a letter and itemized bill that showed the two visits including laboratory work cost a total of $87.15.

Steinmetz said that the $52.50 charge represented an interview with you and a complete physical examination of your child.

"These charges are correct and charged at our usual and customary clinic fees," he wrote.

Four months ago I sent a label from a can of B and M Beans, a product we use quite often, with $3.95 for a baked bean pot.

The check was cashed the same month. As I didn't hear from the company, I wrote a letter but received no answer.

I would like the bean pot or a refund. —Mrs. J. M., Pomona.

We wrote to the address where you had sent your check and label. Six weeks later you and we were notified you would receive both a bean pot and a gift pack in appreciation for your loyalty and patience.

The firm, William Underwood Co., explained that the outside supplier engaged to handle redemptions had not provided the expected service.

Your bean pot arrived, along with two cans of baked beans and a can of brown bread.

Project will remove Valley Blvd. curves

POMONA — Valley Boulevard is about to lose some of its curves.

That 1.5-mile section between Pomona Boulevard and Grand Avenue will be realigned and widened to handle an increased volume of traffic.

Officials hope to start construction by summer and have the project completed by December. The total cost is estimated at $1.7 million.

About half of the project site is within the City of Pomona. The remainder is in the unincorporated county area, Walnut and the City of Industry.

"We have been trying to accomplish this road work since 1968," said Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire. Valley Boulevard, he explained, is a major artery serving Mt. San Antonio College, Frank G. Bonelli Regional Park, and an industrial area.

It also provides a major link between Pomona, Walnut, Industry and La Puente.

Getting the project started resulted from recent meetings held by Lepire and Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum

"This is a prime area to the city's industrial and commercial development. The project will make the area more accessible," said Lepire.

At present, Valley Boulevard is 45 feet wide and has four travel lanes, said Ed James, Pomona's city engineer. "The street is too narrow and the roadway is in bad condition."

Officials propose to widen this section to 100 feet, with the wider four travel lanes divided by a center island.

When completed, it will be able to handle 10,000 vehicles per day. The present count is 5,500 vehicles per day.

Pomona's portion of the cost is estimated at $750,000, with $250,000 coming from the county, $250,000 from city funds and $250,000 from state and federal funds.

"The county has agreed to advance Pomona $250,000 as its portion of aid-to-city funds," said Lepire. "This will be paid back over a two-year period."

Safety conference report is scheduled

Abandoned house funds sought from government

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A Poman Valley delegation met today with U.S. Department of Labor officials about getting federal funding for the Valley Association of Cities (VAC), a nine-city effort against abandoned housing.

"They were sincerely receptive," Mayor Ray J. Lepire reported. He added that a final decision on the request for funds will be made at the department's regional office in San Francisco.

The four are in Washington in conjunction with their attendance at the eighth annual Congressional City Conference co-sponsored by the National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

The valley representatives met earlier in the day with the league's California delegation and also were expected to get together today with Rep. Jerry Pettis, R-33rd Dist., and possibly Senators John V. Tunney and Alan Cranston.

Lepire said he would talk to Pettis to oppose federal legislation on overtime pay for firemen the mayor said would be an added cost of some $2 million for Pomona city government over a five-year period. The legislation also is being opposed by the California Fire Chief Association.

The valley delegation also will meet with representatives from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

At an organizational meeting Friday, VAC's board of directors voted to apply for some $149,000 in federal funds to pay for the organization's multi-faceted fight against abandoned units for a six-month period. Lepire was authorized to represent VAC in Washington.

Cautious council wants more info

Two-tree removal bid must wait

POMONA — Memories of recent controversies stirred up over the destruction of mature trees are still fresh in the minds of city officials and as a result, City Hall is proceeding with extreme caution before allowing two more trees to be removed...

Mel Bunnell Chevrolet, 363 E. Holt Ave., has requested city permission to remove two mature camphor trees from a parkway in front of a residence at 358 E. Pasadena St.

E. L. Cortese, service manager, said the removal is part of a plan to expand parking facilities for the body department. The plan includes paving, erection of a concrete block wall and landscaping.

The Parks and Recreation Commission held a hearing on the removal Feb. 14 but no opposition was voiced from citizens.

"These are the only two trees remaining on the south side of the street and they do not fit into the planned decor of the nicely planned landscaping of this commercial use," Parks and Recreation Director Jack Hoxsey worte in his recommendation for approval to the City Council.

After receiving the recommendation last Monday, the council declined to act on it, saying additional information is needed.

"We all know what happens when you start monkeying around with trees," remarked Councilman Charles W. Bader.

Bader had just been elected to the council in 1971 when a dispute arose over the proposed removal by the city of two old and stately magnolia trees on N. San Antonio Avenue. Those trees were saved. Subsequently, two other controversies arose over the removal of trees on Gordon Street and at the site of the Pomona Financial Center.

Councilman Adrian T. Wright said he figures the two trees on Pasadena are 50 years old and that it would not make sense to tear the trees down unless they are causing damage.

A resident, Ed Harrison, suggested that every time a tree is taken out the city require it be replaced with a tree — the same age.

The council held the matter over to March 18 to give Hoxsey time to come up with a more detailed explanation.

City Engineer Edward R. James said the public works department had no objection to the removal as long as the trees were replaced with the type of landscaping existing along the remainder of the south side of Pasadena.

"There are a large number of camphor trees along the north side of Pasadena, and the removal and relandscaping described will not detract from the aesthetics of the neighborhood," said James.

"These two trees have been root pruned and the sidewalk has been replaced on many occasions. Sufficient room no longer remains to care for these trees and the use of this residential property for commercial purposes is reason for approval," wrote Hoxsey.

After the Gordon Street dispute, the city tightened up on a procedure requiring that public notice be given on proposals for the removal of specimen trees.

Walnut school bonds rate 'Yes'

Voters in the Walnut Valley Unified School District Tuesday should vote "yes" on a proposed issue of $5 million in bonds to finance construction of new classrooms.

Voting "yes" on the bond proposal is a sound investment in the community's future. Construction of new space cannot be put off—as it is, even with passage of the proposal, the district must plan next year to cope with more students than it can house. This is the regrettable result of state restrictions on school construction.

Overconfidence is the worst danger facing the district in this important election. With a two-thirds majority required for passage, the bond election depends on every voter going to the pollls to vote "yes."

Mrs. Gibbs best for Citrus board

There appears to be very little public interest in Tuesday's special election in Claremont to fill the community's seat on the Citrus College board of trustees. There has been a vacancy on the board since the resignation of Ralph Lewis, who moved out of the district.

Of the five candidates running for the position we believe that Mrs. Margaret Gibbs is the best prepared and qualified candidate. Mrs. Gibbs has had many years of community service, including a term as a member of the Claremont City Council. She would add stature to the board and give Claremont the kind of representation it deserves.

'Yes' on Upland tax measures

The two revenue measures on the Upland ballot on Tuesday are worthy of citizen support. The first, a general tax hike of 5.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, would raise $44,000 to implement a much needed new police retirement system that eliminate inequities in the present system. This would enable the city to maintain and improve its effective police services.

The second, a $2.5 million water bond issue, would require only a modest water rate hike but no increases in taxes. It would allow the construction of two 10-million-gallon storage tanks that would expand water services to cope with growth in the northern portion of the city and boost reserves during possible rolling blackouts.

From unbelievable to commonplace

A little more than 16 years after the headlines announced the amazing fact that a manmade satellite circled the earth, the return of the astronauts of Skylab 3 from a record 84 days in orbit was not deemed newsworthy enough to pre-empt scheduled afternoon soap operas.

In less than two decades of space exploration, the unbelievable has become the commonplace—a tribute both to human ingenuity and to our ability to weave the most incredible changes into the ordinary fabric of our lives.

In 1972, for example, the Mariner 9 space probe photo-mapped the entire planet of Mars (something that has not yet been done for earth), enabling scientists to construct the first photomosaic globe of another planet using pictures beamed back over millions of miles of space.

A similar globe for Venus appears unlikely. Photographs taken by another probe, Mariner 10, as it swept by that planet a few weeks ago revealed no break in its solid cloud cover, though patterns that showed up in the photographs will tell much about the dynamic of earth's nearest planetary neighbor.

Even as Mariner 10 sped inward toward the sun, Pioneer 10 crossed the orbit of Jupiter, experiencing a close call in that planet's enormously strong magnetic field, on its journey beyond the solar system itself.

Next planet to undergo the electronic scrutiny of men will be Mercury, when Mariner 10 flies by on March 29 to take the first close-up photographs of this planet that is closest to the sun.

Radar observations of Mercury made by astronomers at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory suggest that it is dotted with hills and valleys, plus some large craters, among a number of "intriguing" shapes and features. Mariner 10 may tell us what they are, and possibly how they came to be.

Thus in less than two decades, men have gone from tossing grapefruit-sized satellites into orbit around the earth to plumbing the inner-and outermost depths of the entire solar system.

Since the glory days when it had almost unlimited funds at its disposal, the space program has shrunk to a shadow of its former self. Yet it continues to rack up accomplishments that are no less amazing for having become routine, and continues adding impressively to our knowledge about the universe we live in.

Oil allocation program mismanaged

WASHINGTON — We have uncovered evidence that unscrupulous brokers are selling oil on the black market for staggering profits. This is added to the soaring prices that the consumers must pay as they shiver in underheated homes and wait in long gas lines.

Our investigation has taken us from the backrooms of Washington to the oil-rich shiekhdoms of the Middle East. We found plenty of oil available, but the distribution has been thrown out of whack by bumbling bureaucrats and greedy middlemen.

In Saudi Arabia, we were told that the Arabs are pumping more oil than came out of the Middle East a year ago. At the American Petroleum Institute, we learned that gasoline in U.S. storage tanks exceeds the level last year at this time.

Why, then, do motorists have to line up for gas and pay exorbitant prices?

Inside sources tell us that the oilmen are keeping their storage tanks full—some say as a hedge against future shortages, others say as a holdout for higher prices.

Whatever the reason, the result is that there's less gas available at the pumps.

The federal allocation program has also been badly mismanaged. The federal energy wizards failed to determine, on a regional basis, the extent of gas scarcity and the availability of supply. They made no real attempt to monitor the flow of gas in or out of the 10 regions.

The gas was allocated, therefore, using fragmented and sometimes inaccurate information.

The Federal Energy Office also used 1972 as the base period for calculating the allocations. But the population growth and the travel patterns have changed. A large number of gas stations, particularly in low-income neighborhoods, have also closed. None of these factors were taken into account.

The fast-buck boys, meanwhile, have taken advantage of the oil panic to buy bootleg oil abroad and resell it at a premium to American wholesalers. They do business by telephone and Telex, demanding cash in the bank before they will complete a deal.

Some oil vultures operate outside the law, bribing government officials in the oil-producing countries. Most black-market oil comes from Indonesia, libya, Nigeria, Rumania and Venezuela—less from the Persian Gulf states.

For a supertanker full of crude, a broker can clear up to $5 million above the market price. Smaller tankers yield around $1 million for the middlemen.

Black marketeers operating on the West Coast, for instance, bought oil in Rumania and refined it in Italy. They demanded up to $25 a barrel.

A large volume of black-market petroleum is processed in Italian refineries. The probable reason, say our sources, is that Italy has surplus refining capacity. But this has led to whispers, which our sources cannot verify, that the Mafia has moved into the oil brokerage business.

Despite plentiful petrolum, meanwhile, many Americans are forced to pay bootleg prices for their gasoline.

Footnote: An American Petroleum Institute spokesman denied that oil companies are hoarding stocks. Industry sources admitted, however, that some gasoline is held back because it is difficult to obtain.

Yet the major oil companies have refused to purchase available crude oil on the world market, claiming government regulations make it unprofitable. Our sources suggest that the oil companies also fear a flood of foreign oil would drive gasoline prices down.

The Federal Energy Office acknowledged that its information was incomplete at the time allocations were made. The agency is now trying to make adjustments. A spokesman also noted that all oil entering the United States is checked by Customs. Therefore, he claimed, all imported gas is subject to the federal allocation plan.

PAUL HARVEY

The next President better be tough

I do not know who will be the next President of the United States, but whoever he is, he'd better be tough. I don't know anything more than you do about those kidnapers, East and West. But from having studied the voluminous communications from them during the kidnapings—I'm referring particularly to the Hearst case in California and the Murphy case in Georgia—and from reading those communications and listening to those "negotiation" tapes, I would guess that the kidnapers in both cases were hopheads, at least, and probably hallucinating.

And that is scary. Because a handful of drug addicts you can count on your fingers may influence the course of United States history.

Our wonderful land of the free is going to be less free. Recent Supreme Court decisions favoring lawmen over lawless men resulting from the street and campus riots of the Sixties are just a sample.

Upcoming high court decisions will be influenced by these irresponsible characters, left and right. And the selection of the next President of the United States is now very likely to reflect a renewed public demand for toughness.

The rights of all Americans—including the decent, self-disciplined, behaving Americans—will be abridged because some few who are free don't deserve to be. Atty. Gen. William Saxbe says, "Political kidnapers should be executed."

This is the highest law officer in the U.S. government. He says terrorists must receive no amnesty; they've proved worldwide that they will do as much evil as they can get away with. So, he says, kill 'em!

And the frightened-for-its-life American electorate says "Amen!" In recent weeks we've seen a graphic demonstration of how extremists on the left, who get away with it, beget extremists on the right—with the nonviolent majority trapped in the merciless crossfire.

And when the California kidnapers were still professing to be concerned about food for poor people, some of us who have been poor could not imagine anyone accepting free food under such circumstances.

But sure enough some did. Then the Hearst daughter kidnapers went on to clarify the real nature of their ignominous mission—an effort to spring from prison two of their own kind.

Similarly, the Atlanta kidnapers asked for money but they also demanded that every federal official resign and new elections be held. They objected to what they called "left-wing bias" by the news media.

That criticism, to a degree is a valid criticism, now has been profaned and discredited by their ugly, intemperate, illegal overaction. If there's anything the lunatics, left and right, should not want, it's a police state which will not tolerate any political deviation. But they're asking for it.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . letters

Government hiring

Sen. Cranston is proposing the government hire another half million people to help prevent a recession. It is amazing how Congress in every economic situation finds an excuse to hire more people.

The hiring and spending proposals are not too difficult to understand. Most of us can find endless reasons to increase our spending. Unfortunately we have limits to our income and must curtail wilder impulses. Government does not seem to have this problem. If our variety of taxes won't cover, there is always deficit spending. These deficits are badly hampering efforts to control inflation; however, very little deters our Congress from meeting our every need—real imaginary, or created. After all, spending is good for votes. Those who receive are grateful; those who pay are told it is absolutely necessary or better still that the rich will pay. It isn't explained that rich is defined as anyone above the poverty level.

What bothers me is government's insatiable desire to do more when it obviously can't handle the job. I notice that after endless talking and accusing Congress usually turns the job over to the President with instructions to do the best he can. This provides someone to blame when the outcome is not ideal. It also leaves a lot of people confused and depressed not to mention broke. Perhaps we should take Gov. Reagan's suggestion to reduce the amount government can spend on our behalf. Who knows, with less cumbersome money to disperse, Congress may reduce government activity to a practical level and one conducive to honesty. Without all the excess agitation the other problems may just disappear.

Cranston's proposal sounds plausible and humanitarian. Few would disagreee with his concern for those unemployed by economic upheavals. Unfortunately, this plan has been tried with countless variations and hasn't worked. A country's economic health including jobs available depends on its ability to produce salable goods and services at a price that people will pay. It is not improved by making half a million potentially productive people nonproductive — probably permanently. Government created jobs seldom disappear. Congress has repeatedly tried to prevent unemployment by creating nonproductive jobs and unemployment persists. In countries more concerned with producing what people want to buy, unemployment is not a problem. Perhaps time has come for our leaders to take note.

Strong exception must be taken to one final point in the Senator's proposal. He implies the additional hiring won't really cost anything. Only a congressman could believe that line. —Philip Swanson, Pomona.

Gossip for today

A lot of women are undoubtedly going to feel mighty sorry for themselves when they learn it is now estimated that the average housewife, were she being paid for her homework, would be earning a salary of $12,140 a year.

But even though they aren't getting paid for those homemaking efforts, they can at least take patriotic pride in the fact that they are not undermining this country's well being like some of the liberated career women they may be envying.

On that score they have the word of an aspiring Congressman who contends that, since energy consumption is increased because of the affluence resulting from two jobs per family, it is wives working in the business world who have almost doubled our per capita energy consumption. —And furthermore, if it is any consolation, statistics also prove that housewives live longer than career girls.

INSIDE REPORT

Mondale tests water in Calif.

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

LOS ANGELES — A week-long expedition to California by Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota as a potential presidential candidate, unexciting and largely unnoticed, was most remarkable in his decision not to seek out the 1972 McGovernites now frantic over the rise of Sen. Henry M. Jackson.

Such a quest would not have won much anyway. Fatcats who bankrolled Sen. George McGovern in 1972 have recently committed themselves privately to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for 1976. But even if they were available, Mondale would not have been camping on their Beverly Hills doorsteps. At this early date he is consciously seeking a base broader than just McGovernite ideologues.

That is what makes Mondale an important option for the Democratic party despite his deficiencies in money, organization and charisma. With his Senate voting record more liberal than either Kennedy's or McGovern's, Mondale is acceptable to the left if Kennedy does not run. Yet, he is seeking to avoid the ideological sectarianism that destroyed McGovern.

Mondale's visit here coincided with rising concern over Jackson's progress by well-heeled activists in the old California peace movement who can never forgive Jackson for the Vietnam war. Most influential and most generous of these is retired computer tycoon Max Palevsky, who contributed heavily to McGovern and is prepared to do the same for Kennedy.

But during seven days in California, Mondale did not make a pilgrimage to Palevsky's hilltop house in Bel Air. Nor did he visit other McGovernite millionaires. The one Beverly Hills contributor Mondale sought out, Lawrence Weinberg, is considered a Jackson man.

Concentrated on labor

Moreover, Mondale made no contact with any segment of the old McGovern apparatus. He concentrated on seeing labor leaders and other Democrats who backed his Minnesota colleague, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, against McGovern in the 1972 California primary.

What Mondale wants to avoid above all is any identification as the heir of McGovernism. At a reception in Palo Alto, Mondale winced when an admiring liberal compared his present lowly position to McGovern's in 1970. A few minutes later at the same reception, Mondale (once considered Mr. Busing in the Senate) was less than overjoyed when a Stanford law professor commended his unvarying support of school integration.

In his speeches here, Mondale avoided party-splitting issues such as school busing and concentrated on party-unifying economic issues and attacks on President Nixon's refusal to cooperate with the special Watergate prosecutor.

One such speech, before a Democratic state central committee luncheon, helped diminish Mondale's unwanted reputation for total boredom achieved during past visits to California. One Democratic activist, claiming she had not managed to stay awake through previous Mondale speeches, contended Mondale is too much the Midwestern hayseed for California Democratic tastes. "A guy who wears Thom McAn shoes can never make it here," she told us.

But she stayed awake this time, explaining after the speech: "I've changed my mind about him a little." Working hard to spice up his oratory, Mondale has added a routine of self-deprecating humor (revealing the rule that Minnesota must always have a presidential candidate) and an eloquent demand that Mr. Nixon be subject to the law ("He is not a king!" Mondale concludes).

Fails to impress executive

That night, however, Mondale lapsed into mind-numbing banalities at a fund-raising dinner for Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin attended by major corporate and bipartisan figures. "If that young fellow talked as good as he looks, he'd be something," one corporation executive grumbled. "He doesn't seem to be presidential timber to me."

Indeed, Mondale's week here stirred little interest among Democratic politicians, preoccupied with the hot race for governor. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, another presidential hopeful arriving here just before Mondale, seemed to win considerably more praise. In particular, one prominent Democratic leader was raving about Bentsen as a rare Senator with genuine managerial talents.

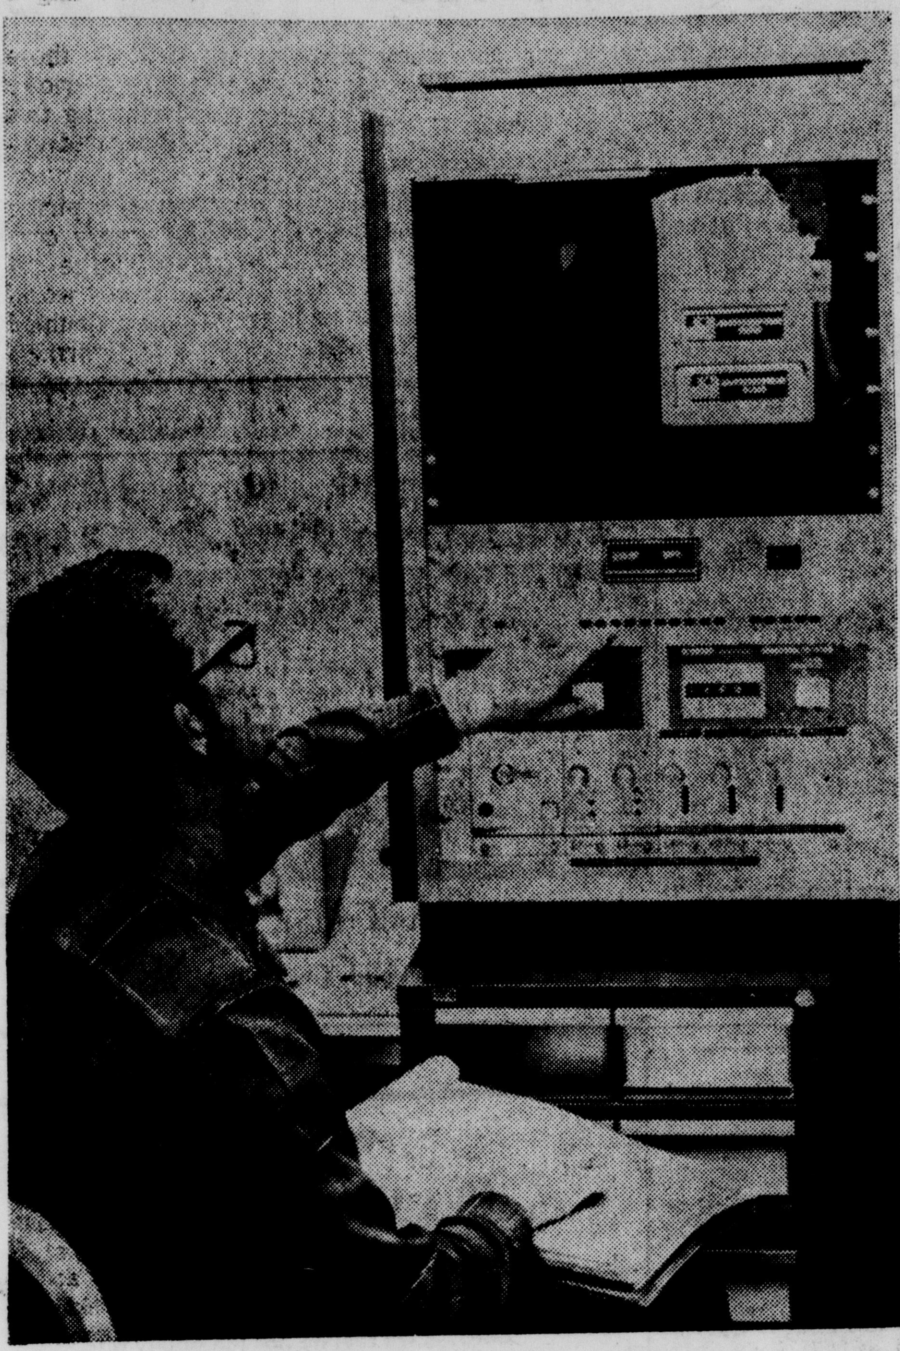
Local weather forecasting gets boost with Kaiser Steel station



SCANNING THE WEATHER

Robert F. Holtz of Kaiser Steel Co.'s environmental quality control staff adjusts a newly installed automatic weather monitoring device located at the Fontana plant.

FONTANA — A newly installed computerized weather station at the Kaiser Steel Co. plant here has increased the accuracy of local weather measurements.

The device is a meteorological monitor located in the environmental quality control building. It's coupled to weather-sensing instruments located on top of the building and also on a tower which rises 70 feet above the plant's 16-story-high, sheet-galvanizing building.

Information from the devices assists many local and Southern California agencies, said Robert F. Holtz of the environmental quality control staff.

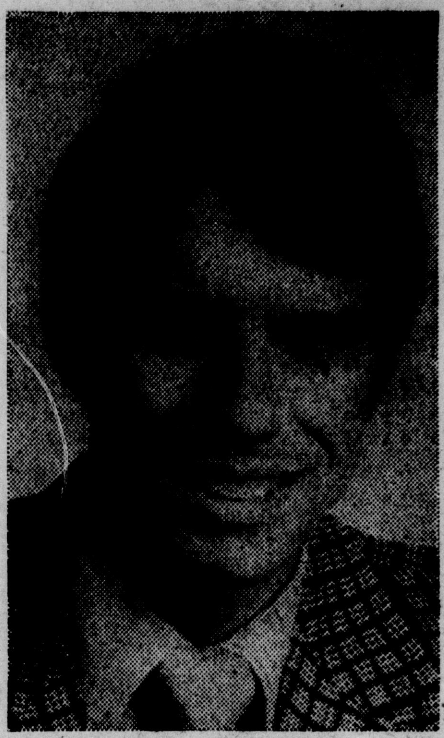
"Kaiser Steel is situated in the middle of the Santa Ana wind belt. Both Ontario and Los Angeles airports frequently telephone us for wind speed indication. Kaiser also provides the data to the Rialto Airport on a regular basis.

"From the 16-story tower, we receive wind direction and velocity information. The instruments on our own building provide us with statistics on relative humidity, barometric pressure, temperature and precipitation levels," he added.

The meteorological monitor records information from the weather-sensing devices on both perforated tape and a teletype printout. The printout is used for ready reference.

"The real beauty of the system is that it not only eliminates human error but also reduces man-hours involved in paperwork. Years of reading can be stored on tapes.

"Whenever we get a call from an airport, insurance agency, local industry, news media or anyone who needs the data we can give them accurate information from either the teletype printout or the computer," said Holtz.



HUGH D. FREEMAN of Chino has been promoted to district manager for Pacific Finance Loans. He will supervise 10 offices in Southern California, including two in Pomona and one each in Montclair and Upland. His office is at 437 E. Holt Ave., Pomona. Freeman joined the firm in November, 1966, as a branch representative. He later managed offices in Lancaster and Pomona. He and his wife, Carolyn, have two children.

Orange crop doing well despite dry February

SAN BERNARDINO — Farmers had no help last month from the weather.

Little rain and dry, gusty winds posed a threat to dryland grain plantings and pastures, said county agriculture officials.

Gusty winds further depleted soil moisture, causing a return to irrigation schedules. Only a trace of rain was recorded in the San Bernardino area on Feb. 20.

Despite drying conditions, the navel orange crop continued to be of "excellent" quality and larger than normal in size, officials added.

The harvest, however, is nearing completion for one of the shortest crops in recent years.

Workers increased their picking of lemons during February, with the harvest expected to continue into spring. The quality of fruit showed improvement over previous crops.

"Bud formations are developing under the influence of favorable weather conditions," announced Warren Burr, assistant agricultural commissioner. "New estimates show an increase of five boxes per acre."

Officials had previously estimated the lemon crop yield at 253 field boxes per acre. All 2,482 acres of yielding lemon groves are in the West End of San Bernardino County.

In other crops, pruning and spraying of deciduous fruit trees and vines are near termination; first cutting of alfalfa hay is under way; barley and oats are being cut for green feed; and dry onion plantings continue.

State approves of $58,000 aid for O-M school project

ONTARIO — An amount of $58,000 has been approved by the State Department of Education for an Ontario-Montclair School District project designed to allow trainable mentally retarded children to develop to the best of their ability skills that will suit them for real life experiences.

The project, "A Chance To Be Children," a unique program using the learning center approach to teach trainable mentally retarded students, will be implemented in September at Linda Vista School.

Mrs. Jeanne McMillan, principal of the school, will be the director of the project which was written by the teaching staff at Linda Vista School under the direction of Mrs. Darlene Gray, Miss Dianna Zets and Mrs. McMillan.

In programs created individually for each child's needs, students at Linda Vista will use learning centers that provide for motor learning, sensory perception, self-help skills, visual perception, auditory perception, communication, preacademic learning and workshop activities.

Student progress will be measured by recording individual mastery of the selected skills within each area.

OPARC puts stress on 'Citizen'

ONTARIO — The Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens (OPARC) has substituted the word "Citizens" for "Children" as part of its name in keeping with national trends to recognize that a retarded individual is a citizen and is often an adult contributing to the life of a community.

The name change became official at a recent meeting of OPARC. During the meeting past presidents were awarded lifetime OPARC memberships and officers were installed.

Local people receiving life memberships were Mrs. Ernest Keechler, Mrs. Libby Swartz, Mrs. Dorothy Weeks, Keith Mulrooney and Steve Ramaley, all of Claremont; Mrs. Irving Mandel of Ontario; Mrs. Harold Joss and Harold Rizner, both of Upland; and Mrs. Del Reid of Pomona.

New officers of the organization are Mat Castellaw of Upland, president; George Underhill of Claremont, vice president; Lee Lucas of Upland, treasurer, and Mrs. Reid of Pomona, secretary.

Don Lugo drillers win big trophy

CHINO — The Don Antonio Lugo High School drill team took its first sweepstakes trophy in the recent Temple City Camelia Festival Parade.

The drill team, two years old and with 44 members, captured the sweepstakes trophy with a score of 95.9. Debbie Jones is the team leader and Karen Whitlow is the adult coordinator.

Applicants for human relations position sought

ONTARIO — Applicants to fill a position on the Ontario Community Relations Commission are being sought, according to Mayor Howard J. Snider.

An Ontario resident is appointed to the nine-member commission by the mayor with the approval of the City Council. Commissioners serve a three-year term.

The Community Relations Commission was created by the City Council in 1971. Among the duties of the commission members are promoting mutual understanding and respect among racial, religious and ethnic groups in Ontario; to cooperate with community agencies engaged in serving human needs; and to receive and investigate complaints concerning community tensions and acts of racial, religious or ethnic discrimination.

Atop Mt. Washington

A job that calls for all seasons

MT. WASHINGTON, N.H. (UPI) — Norman Michaels looked 90 mile per hour winds in the face, protected by a thermal pane window and the world's strongest wood frame building, and talked about what it takes to make a man from Brooklyn happy.

"It's not a job you do for the money. You do it because you like being here. It's beautiful in its own way."

Michaels is one of five men who staff the Mt. Washington Observatory year round. Mt. Washington, at 6,288 feet, is the highest peak in the Northeast and boasts some of the worst weather in the country. It holds the record for strongest wind ever recorded in the world—231 m.p.h., back in 1934.

The observatory staff works in two-man teams, a week on the summit, a week off. Michaels, 25, a 1971 graduate of Brooklyn College in New York City, has worked on top of the mountain for three years.

The observatory is operated by a private, nonprofit firm with contracts for weather observation, scientific research and testing equipment. Michaels receives $375 a month for 19 12-hour days, taking instrument readings and maintaining the station.

"One of the largest misconceptions people have is that this is a rough job," the bearded, dark haired man said. "Most of the time, in contrast to what people think, there is more sitting around and eating than going out and braving the wind."

Michaels, like his companion during a recent week on the summit, got the job directly from college. He was writing a senior paper on glaciation in the White Mountains and while visiting the observatory, he dropped off an application.

John Lingel, 27, the man working with Michaels, visited the observatory as a tourist before applying for a job. "I happened to have the right qualifications—a jack of all trades with a scientific background," he said.

Lingel, like Michaels, enjoys the job because it is unstructured. National Weather Service readings are taken every three hours, but there is no one hanging over a shoulder telling what has to be done next. Lingel, single, has been building his own house in Randolph, N.H., and likes the change of pace working on and off the mountain.

"The week off is nice to have down in the valley," he said.

Biggest challenge

"I usually get in enough trouble in a week to want to come back up."

For Michaels, who is married, there are different advantages. "Sometimes getting away for a week is just what you need. Other times it is rough. My wife has adjusted to it okay," he said.

The biggest challenge in the work is getting along with the men on the crew. Michaels estimates that is half the job. "The last guy was driven out because everyone finally refused to work with him," Michaels said. Cabin fever comes when the men are forced to stay inside their 45 by 24 foot wooden building by driving winds and cold. The men talk about the record wind in 1934, two years before the cabin was constructed of railroad ties bolted to bedrock.

"Around 130 m.p.h., the building will shake pretty bad," said Lingel, born and raised in Ohio. "It can give you an uneasy feeling. It gets hard to sleep sometimes, but I can cure that with a little Scotch every now and then."

Other hazards

There are other hazards on the job. Tourism. Some 50,000 persons visited the summit last year. "They left everything you can imagine," Michaels said. Another summertime nuisance is low flying airplanes buzzing the summit. Michaels said a military jet swept over the summit last summer at 100 feet, rocking the quiet with sonic boom. "It was very annoying. You don't expect things like that up here."

With winter, the crews are occasionally called out to search for missing hikers. "I like to help those people although we curse at them for being so stupid," Michaels said. "They usually come ill equipped."

On a clear winter weekend day, the crew may get a dozen visitors who have hiked up from the valley. The crew itself comes in by snow cat, the shifts changing every Wednesday.

"When this building starts shaking because of the wind, you sometimes wonder. But the only thing you really ever worry about is will the weather let you down on Wednesday," Michaels said.

Average U.S. worker absent 9 days a year

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average American worker is absent from his job nine days each year for reasons ranging from commuting problems to alcoholism and including plain irresponsibility, a survey of the nation's business and industry has revealed.

This rate of absenteeism costs employers an average of $146.30 annually for each person on their payrolls.

These and other conclusions were drawn from a study on job absenteeism and lateness conducted by the editorial staff of Prentice-Hall, Inc., the publishing firm, in cooperation with the American Society for Personnel Administration.

The survey covered 931 firms in various fields of business, industry and research throughout the United States.

Manufacturing firms had the highest average rate of absenteeism, losing 10.58 work days annually per employe, even though manufacturers as a group kept the closest watch on employe absences.

Research and development firms, retail stores and hospitals all had absentee rates of nine to almost 10 days annually per employe, insurance firms and other offices were between eight and nine. Public utilities at 6.86 and banks with 6.70 days lost annually to employe absence had the lowest rates.

The highest cost of absenteeism was $207 annually per employe among the research and development firms. Lowest was $123.45 in the category of general office work.

Employe illness and problems of a personal nature were the prime reasons for absence in all categories. Alcoholism and drug abuse were the least common reasons. Employe irresponsibility ranked fairly high, particularly in manufacturing, as another reason.

"Irresponsible attitude toward work, especially among younger employes," said one of the firms responding to the study's query on reasons for absence.

TV the answer?

Congressmen concerned by drop in public confidence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of Congress, glum over their plunging public confidence ratings, are thinking about televising Senate and Huse debates to improve their image.

Supporters of the idea say it will result in better attendance by usually absent senators and representatives and provide Americans with a new understanding of what Congress is all about.

But a major concern is a recent Harris poll showing public confidence in the lawmakers has dropped to 20 per cent, a rating lower than President Nixon's.

Among the ideas raised during recent hearings was establishing a special channel solely for congressional proceedings.

But network executives are urging that the dors to both chambers be opened to their cameras on an equal footing with the print media, and that they will decide when and what to televise.

A few skeptical members, though, think television coverage would be an "absolute bore."

"You couldn't make people watch," declared Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., the vice chairman of the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations which has been holding hearings on the proposal.

"You'd have to chain them and prop their eyeballs up."

But a stream of witresses from the broadcast industry at last week's hearings disagreed.

ABC President Elton H. Rule noted that an average of 40 million people regularly watch network evening news programs each weekday.

Televised coverage of House and Senate debates on "critical issues," Rule argued, would make an invaluable contribution toward a more informed public.

"Give broadcast journalism full and open access to the important events taking place in the well of the Senate and the floor of the House," said CBS President Arthur R. Taylor.

Henry Loomis, Public Broadcasting president, said coverage would "bring the American people closer to all of the workings of the legislative branch. By allowing the public to virtually sit in on debates, hearings and other facets of the legislative process, people can be motivated to participate in helping to make our government function better," he said.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said Congress had to use "new ways to inform the people directly, without intermediaries" and that television is "the only medium that can carry such a message for us effectively."

Foyt, Rutherford '100' winners

Starting grid set

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Foyt, Rutherford, and fuel grabbed the headlines away from rain, wind, cold, delay, and accident Sunday at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Foyt, the stocky Texan known as A.J., won the first of the day's Twin 100 races. He did so in the same spectacularly easy fashion he had exhibited Saturday in winning the pole position for the 500.

"Super Tex" led all 40 laps. It was his 46th National Championship victory in USAC competition, an all-time record.

Rutherford, first name Johnny, took the second hundred miler. In doing so he became the first two-time winner of the qualifying races which were first introduced last fall.

More than a few eyebrows were raised when it was announced that Rutherford still had 4½ gallons of fuel left in his tank after winning.

Foyt had run out of fuel shortly after taking the checkered flag and had to be towed in.

Eleven other drivers ran out BEFORE they finished.

Mario Andretti and Al Unser were two of the more notable. Andretti ran out of fuel on the 37th lap of the second race while LEADING. The younger Unser ran out on lap 39 when it looked like he was going to catch Rutherford.

Both drive for Parnelli Jones, assuring much re-hashing and refiguring in that camp. Others finding too many laps for the amount of fuel on board were Gordon Johncock, Wally Dallenbach (last fall's 500 winner), Dick Simon, Billy Vukovich, Mike Mosley (twice), Tom Bigelow, and Tom Sneva all in the first race, and George Snider and John Martin in addition to Andretti and Unser in the second.

For the second day in a row, morning rain caused all events to be delayed. And again it was cold and windy.

The gusty wind lifted daredevil Debbie Lawler too high in her motorcycle jump of 15 Datsuns. The front wheel came up and the cycle nearly cleared the entire landing ramp.

It came down on the rear wheel near the end of the ramp. Miss Lawler lost control, veered to the right, fell and slid into the pit wall alongside the main track.

She was taken to the hospital where it was announced she had suffered contusions and abrasions but no broken bones.

The first race, scheduled for 1:30 p.m., got underway at 3:46, the second started at 5:15 p.m. The coffee concession did a brisk business while the beer found few takers.

Among the drivers experiencing trouble were Jerry Grant (magneto failure) and Gary Bettenhausen (loose wing flap). Earliest demise was that of Bob Harkey's number 93 car. Harkey was blackflagged on the second lap of the second race.

Profiting (other than money) the most in the two races were Jimmy Caruthers, Steve Krisiloff, Lloyd Ruby, Jim McElreath, and Roger McCluskey.

Caruthers was only the 14th fastest qualifier Saturday. His second place finish in the second race Sunday moved him up 10 places to the inside of the second row for the 500.

Krisiloff moved up seven notches to the middle of the second row with Ruby on the outside, also a gain of seven places.

McElreath moved up eight notches to the inside of row three. McCluskey moved up eight notches to the outside of row three with Al Unser holding the middle.

Foyt, Rutherford, and Bobby Unser had clinched the front row positions Saturday by virtue of having the three fastest qualifying times.

Suffering the worst setbacks in position because of disappointing performances Sunday were Johncock, Bettenhausen, Andretti, and Grant.

Johncock, the fifth fastest qualifier Saturday, barely made the outside of the sixth row, a loss of 13 places, for the 500. Bettenhausen, who qualified fourth fastest dropped to 12th or the inside of the sixth row. Grant is in the middle of that row, a drop of seven places.

Andretti was the sixth fastest qualifier Saturday. But running out of fuel Sunday caused him to finish ninth in the race and drop eight notches to the middle of row five in the 500 lineup.

Quotes of the day: A.J. Foyt: "We had our own ideas of gas mileage and it worked out." Johnny Rutherford: "I don't know what he (Foyt) has got, but it must be something." Mario Andretti: "We made some changes that I don't really think we needed."

Olivares faces Hafey tonight

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Former world bantamweight king Ruben Olivares meets Canada's young and strong Art Hafey tonight in a 12-round rematch of a fight the veteran from Mexico City would just as soon forget.

The 26-year-old Mexican ex-champion is listed as a 10-8 favorite despite the stunning fifth-round upset he suffered against Hafey, 22, at Monterrey, Mexico, last September.

In the first fight, Olivares was on the canvas three times before surrendering.

"You didn't take the punches," he told newsmen after the fight. "I did. They hurt. I should know."

"I'm rather certain this fight won't go the distance either," said Hafey, from Stellarton, Nova Scotia. "And I think I will be the one on my feet when it ends."

Olivares has been fighting professionally 10 years and he is one of boxing's all-time knockout specialists. He has a 71-4-1 record with 65 knockouts —an .855 percentage.

"I've been in training two months," he said. "I feel very good. I'm confident I'm going to win. I'm taking this fight much more seriously than I did the last one."

Now a resident of San Diego, Hafey is a 5-2 bulldog who doesn't know what backing up means. He is unbeaten in his last 20 bouts and he won 11 of his last 13 fights by knockouts.

"I want to show everybody that what happened in Mexico wasn't a fluke," Hafey remarked. "Olivares is a helluva puncher but I believe I can outpunch him."

For Olivares, a popular fighter here, it will be his 15th appearance at the Forum in a ring where he stopped Lionel Rose of Australia for the world bantamweight crown nearly five years ago.

In his 14 previous Inglewood appearances, the cards he has appeared on have grossed $2,576,000, an average of $184,000 per card.

A 10-round fight on the card matches Bobby Chacon of Sylmar, Calif., a featherweight with only one loss in 23 fights, against Japan's Genzo Kurozawa.

'V' IS FOR VICTORY

A. J. Foyt gives the victory sign in the Victory Circle after winning the first of the two Twin 100 qualifying races at Ontario Motor Speedway. A. J. will be sitting on the pole position next Sunday.

Foyt has it all figured out?

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

ONTARIO — A. J. Foyt has the new United States Auto Club fuel restrictions figured out down to the last whiff of fumes.

Foyt, three-time Indianapolis 500 champion and captor of various other races during his long career, has been grinning like a Chesire cat all week long around the Ontario Motor Speedway garage area and the weekend's qualifying activity for the California 500 showed why.

After easily capturing the pole position during Saturday's time trials, Foyt turned around Sunday and grabbed the first of the Twin-100 qualifying races with ridiculous ease.

"Super Tex" finished the 40-lap preliminary by a good 17 seconds over the Olsonite Eagle of Bobby Unser, but he cut it close. His Coyote-Foyt used up its last drop of gas as he crossed the finish line and stalled out completely in Turn Two.

"It started missing on me between Three and Four coming up to the checkered flag," Foyt revealed after the race. It worried me like hell," he added with a grin.

Foyt's Coyote is equipped with a control whereby he can change the boost in the cockpit, and intelligent boost control may have been the single most important factor in his runaway victory.

"I learned it down quite a bit before the race," Foyt explained, "and I thought maybe I had burned a piston to be honest."

Unser took off at the start of the race and led the pack into Turn One. It was then that Foyt decided to play with the mixture a little bit.

"When Bobby took off on me that's the reason I didn't catch him," Foyt said of the original lean setting. "I changed the boost going down the back straightaway."

The change was immeditely apparent, as Foyt had caught Unser going away mid-way down the back stretch and starting building a lead on the white Eagle couldn't dent.

"I was figuring, well, I'll run out of fuel early then if he's going to run that hard. I backed it up a little bit after I built up the lead."

While the in-board boost control was essential for Foyt's victory, he stressed that any changes have to be approached with caution. "It's not just a matter of having a deal to change it. You have a lot of things to do, and if you do it wrong, you're liable to burn a piston."

The victory in the 100-mile race may represent something of a comeback for the 39-year old USAC veteran.

"I used to win everything, and now it's very unusual when I win," Foyt lamented. "But we're still going to be around."

When asked how long he planned to be around Foyt replied, "That's hard to say. I've always said that the day I walk away from it, that will be it."

Persistent rumors have been repeated among USAC drivers, crewmen, and officials that 1974 will be Foyt's final year, and if that be the case then he will obviously be attempting to go out strong.

APC, Westmont meet in playoffs

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA MIRADA — "The outcome of the game will depend on boards and defense."

The speaker was Azusa Pacific College coach Cliff Hamlow. APC (26-4) faces Westmont College (17-9) of Santa Barbara tonight at 8 p.m. in the second round of the NAIA District Three basketball playoffs at Biola College.

Westmont got here by defeating USIU 70-65 Saturday night. Hamlow's team had a bye in round one by virtue of being the top-seeded team in the event.

In Saturday's other round-one game, SCIAC champion Whittier dealt Fresno Pacific a 70-63 setback. Whittier will play the winner of tonight's APC-Westmont game for the District Three title Wednesday night. The winner of that game will advance to the national tournament at Kansas City.

Westmont lost its All-American center, Fred DeVaughan, through graduation. But the Warriors have played good ball this season after a slow start.

Kurt Kraushaar, 6-6 and 200 pounds, has moved from forward to replace DeVaughan at center. The forwards are Greg Smith and Mark Miller. Both are also 6-6. Smith is the team's leading scorer and averaged about 16 points per game.

The guards are 6-3 Walt Kelly and 6-0 Randy Johnson.

"Westmont is a team a lot like Point Loma," said Hamlow, "except that their defense is not quite as good. Their offense is up and down and they can explode anytime."

Hamlow's teams have been in the district playoffs each of the last six years. But each year they've been stopped short of a title and the coveted trip to K.C.

"I think the team is ready for it," Hamlow opined. "It's an exciting challenge. We've missed our chances before. Maybe this will be our year."

Against district opponents, the Cougars were 20-2 during the regular season. The victories include a 97-82 win over Westmont. The losses were to Whittier (78-69) and Point Loma (75-73).

In playoff competition, Westmont has a 2-1 edge on APC. The Warriors have beaten the Cougars in the finals the last two years. There scores were 67-58 in 1972 and 60-57 last year.

While the Cougars have compiled an impressive 183-54 record during the past seven seasons, they are only 4-7 in the playoffs. Four times they have advanced to the final round, only to lose. They have done well (4-2) in opening round games.

"We'd like to make up for some lost time," Hamlow remarked. "We have had a good season and it's one game at a time for the bad ones. We can't stop now."

Lakers win but it's all uphill—Sharman

By United Press International

Pressure is the name of the game in the NBA as the season heads down the stretch and Los Angeles coach Bill Sharman realizes it will continue to mount despite the Lakers' seven-game winning streak and Sunday's victory over the Golden State Warriors.

"It will be all uphill from here," Sharman said after a 108-104 win over the Warriors that pulled the Lakers to within one-half game of first-place in the Pacific Division for what will likely be the final Western Conference playoff spot.

"I'm sure the division will be decided by injuries and the team that is able to win the close ones," Sharman said. "This one was more important for us to win than for Golden State. If we'd have lost it we'd be four games down in the loss column with only 13 games left."

Capitalizing on the Warriors' frigid shooting in the first period, the Lakers spurted to a 23-8 lead. Rick Barry, who had averaged 42 points in his last four games, went 1-for-11 in the half.

Cazzie Russell, who ended up leading all scorers with 29 points, came off the bench in the second period to help cut the Laker lead to 57-47 at the half.

The Lakers, paced by a 26-point effort by second-year guard Jim Price, led 104-93 with 5:34 to go. The Lakers could manage only four free throws in the final 5:34 as the Warriors charged back. With the score 105-102 with 21 seconds remaining, Connie Hawkins sank a free throw to put the game away.

Gail Goodrich ended with 19 for the Lakers, while Hawkins had 17 and Pat Riley scored 15 in relief. Jeff Mullins had 20 for the Warriors, while Nate Thurmond and Jim Barnett had 16 each.

Barry, who left the game with a slightly twisted ankle in the third quarter, had only 11 points. Warrior coach Al Attles said Barry would not miss any games because of the ankle injury.

The Warriors host Detroit Tuesday night, a team they haven't beaten in three meetings this season. The Lakers are at Portland Tuesday night and return home Wednesday to host the Boston Celtics. In the next two weeks, the Lakers play Boston, New York and Golden State twice each.

In other NBA action Sunday, New York edged Boston 108-102 in overtime, Capital clipped Cleveland 98-93, Milwaukee downed Houston 112-106 in overtime, Phoenix tripped Kansas City-Omaha 113-100 and Detroit beat Portland 99-95.

Knicks 108, Celtics 102

Dave DeBusschere got a reprieve Sunday afternoon when Paul Silas missed a potential tie-breaking free throw with two seconds left in regulation time. DeBusschere had been called for a loose ball foul. Silas, with two shots, hit the first but the second bounced off the rim into the arms of DeBusschere as the buzzer sounded. DeBusschere then hit the first basket in overtime and from then the Knicks roared to victory in the nationally televised game.

"I thought it was a loose ball foul," DeBusschere said, "but still I felt relieved when he missed the second shot. As far as the team, they knew after that they had a darn good chance of catching the Celtics."

Walt Frazier, stone cold with only six points in regulation, broke the overtime period open on a three-point play. "I guess I didn't do too much during the game," he said, "but it was nice coming back. It was a matter of pride. We got bombed out by them Saturday. We didn't want to have it happen again. I think it was a big lift winning here the way we did. As far as catching them for first place, I doubt it. Not unless they drop dead.

Bill Bradley added two field goals in the overtime to finish with 25 points but DeBusschere, who fouled out midway through the extra session, was high for New York with 26. Earl Monroe added 20 for the winners.

Don Nelson led Boston with 29 points and Jo Jo White added 27 for the Celtics, who beat the Knicks in New York Saturday night 104-88. The Knicks trail Boston by five games in the Atlantic Division, but the triumph enabled them to clinch at least a runnerup spot in the playoffs.

Bullets 98, Cavs 93

Elvin Hayes scored 16 of his 25 points in the second half to lift the Bullets from a 44-41 halftime deficit. Phil Chenier added 14 of his 20 points in the third period to help the Bullets to an eight-point lead going into the final quarter.

Bucks 112, Rockets 106

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored a season-high 44 points to lead Milwaukee to its overtime victory. The Bucks' center scored 12 points in the fourth quarter as Milwaukee tied the score at 85 with 3:33 left. Rudy Tomjanovich led Houston with 24 points and Calvin Murphy added 23. Bob Dandridge had 22 and Lucius Allen 21 for Milwaukee.

Pivac state's best wrestler

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College's Steve Pivac, a sophomore from Ganesha High, was selected the meet's Outstanding Wrestler Saturday night at the state junior college finals at American River College in Sacramento.

Pivac completed his outstanding season by winning the state championship in the 118-pound class.

He was the only Mountie to win his state crown. MSAC placed seventh in the team standings with 36 points. South Coast Conference rival Santa Ana won the team title with 76½ points followed by Bakersfield with 70½.

Must stay in Cleveland

Indians go on sale

By United Press International

If you're trying to find a present for the man who has everything, how about a major league baseball team?

The Cleveland Indians can be purchased—if you're willing to leave the team in Cleveland.

Alba T. (Ted) Bonda, the executive vice president of the club, says that since the club currently has more than 40 partners, the ownership of the team is a bit unwieldly. The fact that the team has been losing—on the field and at the box office—doesn't help, either.

Bonda says that several out-of-town interests have expressed a desire to buy the club but Bonda said, "I'm totally dedicated not to sell the club out of town."

However, he said he'd probably talk to Edward J. Debartolo, a Youngstown, Ohio builder and entrepreneur, about purchasing the club.

"If someone like Debartolo came along and it looked a lot better to me than what we have now and would stay in Cleveland, I'd really recommend we'd go that route."

The Indians were a power in the American League in the late '40s and early '50s but since then, they've slid steadily downhill. The team hasn't won the American League pennant since 1954 and hasn't even been in contention in recent years.

Meanwhile, the Indians have another problem. The team got Ken Suarez in a trade with Texas. But Suarez, who had submitted his salary to arbitration, claims that his trade was made for disciplinary reasons and he's refused to report to Cleveland.

A hearing will be held Wednesday in Sarasota, Fla. to decide on Suarez' future. John Gaherin, the counsel for the owners, will meet with Marvin Miller, the executive director for the Players Association, to discuss the issue.

Suarez was traded for Leo Cardenas.

In other camp news, the MVP golfed with the Veep. Reggie Jackson, the American League's MVP, got in an 18-hole round with Vice President Gerald R. Ford in Arizona.

Sparky Anderson, the Cincinnati manager, got in the quote of the day. He has a young pitcher from the Dominican Republic named Jack Andujar, who has a sensational arm but a quick temper. Anderson said, "I told Andujar that if he no longer go loco he can make mucho dinero pitching in the major leagues. But I told him that if he continues to go loco, he might just as well grab himself a machete right now and start whacking away at the sugar cane."

Horace Clarke, Sparky Lyle and Celerino Sanchez are still New York Yankee holdouts...the Yanks insist they haven't made a final offer even if they don't seem too anxious to make another offer to the players.

Joe Ferguson became the last member of the Los Angeles Dodgers to sign a contract for the season...Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins is still holding out.

Sports news in brief

THE LONG BEACH Relays, in which Mt. San Antonio College, Cal Poly and Chaffey College were scheduled to compete, were cancelled Saturday due to rain and will not be made up.

RICHARD PETTY dominated the Carolina 450 Stock Car race Sunday, finishing more than a lap ahead of Cale Yarborough at the North Carolina Motor Speedway.

Petty, winner of the Daytona 450 earlier this year, pulled his Dodge around Yarborough for a one-lap lead with about 30 miles remaining. But it had been evident since midway through the race that only an accident or mechanical failure would keep him out of the winner's circle.

GENE ROMERO, 1970 American Motorcycle Association National Champion, set a new record for the one-hour run Sunday on the tri-oval course at the Daytona International Speedway.

Romero, riding a 700 cubic centimeter Yamaha, was clocked at 150.8419 miles an hour over the 62 laps he coverd during the hour. He ran out of gas on the backstretch and had to coast in for his one pit stop.

HIGHER WAGES, better insurance, improved scheduling and automatic assignment to World Series and All-Star games were included in three-year contract accepted by Major League Umpires in a telephone vote.

BRAULIO BAEZA will take a win any way he can get it—especially in a stakes race.

"Yes, he's always in close ones," agreed Baeza after piloting talented Triple Crown to a narrow victory in the $59,200 San Jacinto Stakes on a muddy track at Santa Anita Sunday.

CAL POLY SAN LUIS OBISPO, qualifying nine of its 10 men for the semifinal rounds, has earned its seventh straight NCAA Division II wrestling title.

In the two-day competition ending Saturday night at Cal State Fullerton, Cal Poly SLO set a new college division record of 131½ points. Cal Poly had two winners in Saturday's finals, while Northern Iowa, the second place finisher with 95½ points, had three firsts in the final round.

Claremont looks for soccer title

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

Will the Orange County CIF jinx continue to haunt Pomona Valley teams?

That's the question Claremont High's soccer squad will be trying to answer in the negative Tuesday as they travel to Santa Ana High for the semifinal match in the CIF soccer playoffs.

The Orange County schools have held a strange mastery over locals in the basketball playoffs of late, and the Wolfpack doesn't want a reoccurrance of that on the soccer field. From all indications, Claremont should prevail, but then anything can happen in the CIF matchups.

Claremont has beaten Palm Springs 6-0 and Pioneer 3-0 to advance this far, while Santa Ana squeaked by Nogales 3-2 on penalty kicks in their CIF opener and edged Baldwin Park 1-0 last Friday.

The Pack was less than impressive in beating Pioneer, but that seemed more the result of the physical game Pioneer played than from any lack of skill on the part of the pack.

Claremont has the talent, make no mistake about that. Led by Gesner DoCarmo on offense and Ralph Hawes on defense, coach Otto Rieger's crew has put together a 24-2-1 season mark. That mark includes wins in their last 17 games and 15 shoutouts so far.

Santa Ana has been putting together some impressive statistics of their own. Led by Abel Dorado, who has accounted for 34 goals already this season, Santa Ana has posted a 19-5-2 season record. They went 11-2-1 to win the Orange County League and have scored 80 goals to only 25 for opponents. Santa Ana ranked 10th in the last CIF soccer poll, while Claremont was voted the number two team in Southern California.

Claremont has two foreign-born players on their team in DoCarmo and John Laast, while Santa Ana has one of their own in goalie Hector Mendez. Mendez is a freshman who hails from Mexico, and at five-foot-nine is rather short for a goalie.

Santa Ana comes into the contest as a defense-oriented squad, but Claremont has been able to score on all their opponents so far this year so the Orange County team will have their hands full trying to stop "Rieger's Raiders," as the Pack is rapidly becoming known as.

Claremont won't know for sure as to the exact site and time of the Santa Ana match until this afternoon. Tuesday's other semifinal game will pit West Torrance vs. number-one ranked South Torrance, with the winners to meet on Friday for the championship.

Mike Walton beats sharks

ST. PAUL, Minn.(UPI) — Mike Walton scored a three-goal hat trick in the third period and set up a fourth goal to lead the Minnesota Fighting Saints to a 5-3 World Hockey Association victory over Los Angeles Sunday night, offsetting a hat trick by L.A.'s J. P. LeBlanc.

Walton blasted in his own rebound at 1:47 of the final period while the Saints were shorthanded to put Minnesota ahead 3-2, scored again with 5 ½ minutes left, and completed the hat with his 40th goal of the season, hitting an open net with 21 seconds left.

It was the Saints' eighth straight game without a loss and the Sharks' fifth straight defeat. The Saints have won 15 of their last 18 and solidified their hold on second place in the WHA.

Angels count on Epstein

HOLTVILE, Calif. (UPI) — The California Angels are hoping Mike Epstein can turn it around in 1974.

The husky first baseman, who clubbed 26 homers for the world champion Oakland A's in 1972 but slumped to only nine with the Texas Rangers and the Angels last season, has impressed Angel coaches in the early days of spring training.

"Epstein is really starting to hit the ball well," Angels' manager Bobby Winkles said Sunday after his team went through a hitting drill. Epstein came to the Angels from the Rangers in a trade last May 20.

Winkles was also impressed by pitchers Andy Hassler and John Andrews. He said Hassler "just overmatched the hitters" during his stint on the mound.

Joe LaHoud is the only Angel not performing at 100 per cent. LaHoud is still recovering from a back muscle spasm.

MSAC (10-1) launches bid for SCC title

Sporting the winningest record in the Pomona Valley, Mt. San Antonio College launches its bid for a South Coast Conference baseball championship this week.

Coach Art Mazmanian's Mounties (10-1) visit highly regarded Fullerton for a 2:30 p.m. game to open the conference campaign. MSAC completes the week by hosting Orange Coast Thursday and visiting Orange Coast Saturday.

Freshman lefthander Bob Chaulk (3-0) or veteran righthander Charlie Fallon (3-0) will go against Fullerton in Tuesday's game.

In other community college baseball action, Citrus (5-4) hosts cross-valley rival Chaffey (7-3) in a key Mission Conference encounter Tuesday at 2:30 p.m.

Citrus completes the week by hosting Saddleback Thursday and visiting San Bernardino Saturday. Chaffey entertains Palomar Thursday and travels to Riverside Saturday.

The Owls were rained out of their game at San Diego Saturday and were scheduled to make it up today at 2:30 p.m. The defending conference champions are 2-0 going into that encounter.

Citrus claimed its second Mission victory Thursday as Ron Walton pitcched a two-hit shutout to beat Riverside, 1-0. Walton had a no-hitter going through 8 1-3 innings.

Rain postponed Chaffey's games last week with Southwestern and Grossmont. The Panthers will make up those encounters later in the season.

Chaffey takes a 2-0 conference record against Citrus, and coach Howard Lowder has tentatively scheduled freshman righthander Steve Gibson (3-1) to face the Owls.

JOHN NEWCOMBE regained dominance in the World Championship Tennis Blue Group Sunday by edging Stan Smith, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4, in the final of the $50,000 Michelob Classic.

Poly, USC battle on baseball field

POMONA — The one thing a baseball team suffering through a two-week span without a win does not need is a game with defending national champion University of Southern California.

But that's the situation Cal Poly's Broncos find themselves in Tuesday as the Trojans of coach Rod Dedeaux will be invading the Poly campus. Game time is slated for 2:30 p.m.

Coach John Scolinos' squad now sports a 4-7 season mark after a 5-0 loss to UC Riverside Friday. The Broncos were rained out of a Saturday doubleheader with Riverside, so if nothing else the pitching staff should be well rested for the Trojans.

Inconsistency in all departments has hurt Poly this year. Last year's ace hurlder Vic Bernal is the holder of a 0-4 mark so far in 1974. Last year's batting star Steve Ludewig is struggling to stay at the .250 mark. Indeed, at this point things have not been too rosy for the Broncos.

The thought of playing powerhouse USC does not exactly cheer things up in Broncoland, either.

While Dedeaux's bombers have lost some of the personnel from last year's squad, what they have left is impressive enough. Grid star Anthony Davis, Marvin Cobb, and Rich Dauer (all back from last year) lead the hitting attack for the Trojans. Pitchers George Milkey, Brian Huebllien, and Russ McQueen make it tough on opposing batters.

Of course, a win over Southern Cal could turn things around in a hurry for Cal Poly, and that's what Scolinos will be hoping for. Senior righthander Dee King (2-1 so far this season) is expected to get the assignment for Poly of stopping the Trojans.

Evening of fun to help Broncos

POMONA — A "Put the Buck Back in the Broncos" Night will be held Tuesday from 3 p.m. to 2 a.m. at the Pic and Pan, 1964 W. Holt Ave., Pomona.

All proceeds from the affair will be donated to the Cal Poly football program. Season ticket applications for next fall's games will be available.

All Dodgers in camp

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Catcher Joe Ferguson, who hit 25 home runs for the Los Angeles Dodgers last season, has agreed to terms for the 1974 season.

But the 27-year-old Ferguson won't start working out with the team until Wednesday because he has the flu.

Ferguson arrived in camp Sunday and signed a pact for an estimated $42,500, becoming the last member on the Dodgers' roster to agree to terms.

Relief pitcher Mike Marshall is the only Dodger away from spring training camp. Marshall, acquired in a winter deal with the Montreal Expos, has been given permission to continue work on his doctorate at Michigan State for the next two weeks.

Clowns' tilt at Chaffey

ONTARIO — Basketball Monkeyshines!

That's what West End fans will see when the world famous Harlem Clowns bring their show to the Chaffey High School gymnasium tonight at 7:30 p.m. They will play a Chaffey faculty-staff team.

The glabe-trotting Clowns have been criss-crossing the United States and Canadian provinces as well as the rest of the world for more than 35 years.

They are sponsored here by the Chaffey High School A.S.B. as a fund raising project for the United Way.

Kings, Goring hungry for shot at playoffs

INLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Butch Goring, who has brought the Los Angeles Kings back into contention in the last week, is "hungry" for a shot at the NHL playoffs.

Goring, a 5-9 center who has scored in five straight games to set a club record, got the winning goal Saturday night in a 4-2 conquest of the St. Louis Blues. The Kings are now tied with the Blues for fourth place in the NHL West, one point back of third-place Atlanta.

"I guess after all these years I'm just as hungry for playoff money as anyone could be," Goring said. "I just want to keep on playing this way. We have to keep winning."

"It was a big game," said coach Bob Pulford, "But there's still a long way to go."

The Kings are in the early stages of a nine-game homestand. Only three of their remaining 15 games are on the road.

The Kings host the California Golden Seals Tuesday night and the Chicago Black Hawks Thursday night.

Indiana coach blasts officiating for upset loss

By United Press International

Bobby Knight is furious; UCLA is still struggling they're still looking for "the streaker" in Florida; and 10 more teams have qualified for the NCAA playoffs after a wild weekend of college basketball action that saw three top 10 teams fall victim to upsets.

Of the upset victims, probably none took it harder than Indiana coach Knight who, after watching his team fall 85-79 to Ohio State at Columbus, O., ripped into the officials. Said Knight: "This trio will never officiate another game that I coach. This was the worst officiating I've ever seen."

Maybe so, but Knight now must face the prospect of a playoff with Michigan as the loss dropped his sixth-rated Hoosiers into a tie with the Wolverines for the Big Ten's first place with a game to go. Third place Purdue, one game back, also has a shot at the NCAA berth.

Seventh-ranked Marquette, which already has its NCAA independent berth locked up, also was beaten, dropping a 92-77 decision to Cincinnati and the Bearcats must now be considered a favorite for an NIT bid today. The third top 10 team to be upset was Alabama, but we'll get back to that in a minute.

Out California way, they're getting ready for another of those patented USC-UCLA finales—the two Pacific Eight giants deadlocked for first place with the league title, the NCAA berth and possibly the defense of the national title all riding on the outcome of next Saturday's showdown at Southern Cal. But John Wooden's third-ranked Bruins are still showing some of the ominous effects of their lost weekend in Oregon, being forced to struggle from behind in the waning seconds to nip Stanford 62-60 Saturday night.

Elsewhere, there were berths galore being filled in the NCAA's post season tourney. Furman, off its 62-60 victory over Richmond, captured the Southern Conference tournament and the NCAA bid, while No. 20 Louisville wrapped up the Missouri Valley Conference by downing runner-up Bradley, 87-84.

Eighteenth ranked New Mexico took the topsy-turvy Western Athletic Conference by whipping No. 19 Texas-El Paso; St. Joseph's won the Middle Atlantic Conference by subduing LaSalle 76-71 in the finals of their tourney; Ohio U. copped the Mid-American Conference's bid with a 71-70 trimming of Bowling Green; San Francisco nailed down the West Coast Athletic Conference crown downing St. Mary's 80-70; Los Angeles State, with Long Beach State ineligible, gained the Pacific Coast Athletic Association bid with a 93-87 triumph over Santa Barbara;

Texas, with a 1-10 record outside its league, nonetheless will represent the Southwest Conference in the NCAA's with a 12-14 overall mark, while Pennsylvania wrapped up its customary Ivy League crown with back-to-back wins over Columbia and Cornell.

As for the Southeastern Conference, well, Vanderbilt has won the NCAA bid no matter what, but they're still trying to find the "streaker" who preceeded Florida's surprise victory over Alabama by running naked across the Gainesville, Fla. court and out the door before the officials and police could apprehend him.

The Gators, apparently aroused by such a courageous performance, went on to upset the 10th ranked Crimson Tide 64-61. That assured Vanderbilt the SEC berth in the NCAA and the Commodores responded by putting away Kentucky 71-69, thus solidifying the Wildcats' worst record in more than 40 years. Adolph Rupp where are you now?

In other games involving NCAA-bound or nationally-rated teams, No. 1 North Carolina State tuned up for the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney by besting Wake Forest 72-63, giving the Wolfpack a perfect 12-0 league mark; No. 2 Notre Dame crushed Villanova 115-85 to up its record also to 24-1; Southern California kept pace with UCLA in the Pac-8 by edging California 70-67; No. 4 North Carolina overcame an eight point deficit with 17 seconds left to whip Duke 96-92 in overtime; No. 5 Maryland belted Virginia 110-75.

No. 11 (tie) Pittsburgh topped West Virginia 83-7. No. 11 (tie) Long Beach State toppled Pacific 76-52; No. 12 Providence embarrassed NIT-bound St. John's 85-67; No. 14 Kansas squeaked by Colorado 70-68; No. 15 Kansas State was shocked by Nebraska 58-54; and No. 16 (tie) South Carolina mauled Houston 104-68. Only No. 16 (tie) Creighton was idle.

Heard feels he has shot at Masters

ORLANO, Fla. (UPI) — For whistling Jerry Heard the signs were right, his wife said, and a bogey on the first hole didn't shake his confidence one whit.

"I feel like I have a real good shot at the Masters now," said the 26-year-old Californian who won the $150,000 Citrus Open Sunday for the second time in three years, his first PGA victory in 22 months. "That's my goal, to win a major championship."

Never trailing in four rounds of golf in the sixties on the par 72 Rio Pinar course, Heard bogeyed the first and last holes Sunday, along with another, but got five birdies to finish with a 69-273, 15 under par.

Whistling and humming as he toured the 6,929-yard layout, Heard said he was confident from the start. His wife, Nancy, had told him "it was supposed to be the week" for a Taurus.

"It certainly was," said Heard, who won the Citrus in 1972, but has been winless since the Colonial Invitational in Fort Worth the same year.

The six-foot 200-pounder, who quit worrying about improving his swing and learned to relax, finished three strokes ahead of Jim Jamieson, 67-276, and Homero Blancas, 70-276.

"It boosts your confidence to win now and then," he said. "But I felt I really should win out there today. I was playing with ease."

Heard likens his renewed confidence to that of his friend, Johnny Miller, who won the first three tournaments this year.

"Johnny just found out what he had been doing wrong quicker than I did," he said. "There are very few players who actually know how to play golf. You have to find out what is best for you."

Jamieson, who had to go to town to buy a brace for his back after the second round, had a bogeyless round Sunday, with five birdies. He said his caddy — Joe Burder had been giving him tips on how to putt.

"I owe a lot to my caddy," he said. "He's been showing me how to hold my head when I putt."

Blancas had an up-and-down round with five birdies and three bogeys and said, "I felt great hitting the ball.

"From tee to green," he said, "I played better this week than I have in years."

Bobby Cole, a skinny South African billed as the next Gary Player, shot a 69 to end in a tie with chunky Bob Murphy at 11-under-par 277, three strokes behind Heard.

One stroke farther back were Lee Elder, Bruce Crampton, Leonard Thompson and Chi Chi Rodriguez.

Heard said it didn't bother him when he missed a six-foot putt on the first hole for a bogey.

"Actually it took a little of the pressure off," he said.

He also didn't mind missing par on the last hole. He was four strokes ahead at the time. "I really didn't care whether it went in or not," he said.

Banking a $30,000 first-place check—almost twice as much as he had made up to this stop on the tour—Heard said he will be humming a new tune since he found a winning swing.

Mitchell loses bid for a mistrial

NEW YORK (UPI) — Federal Judge Lee P. Gagliardi today denied a mistrial in the Mitchell-Stans case, and defense attorneys in their opening statements portrayed the two former powerful figures in the Nixon administration as men of high character who had contributed their lives to public service.

Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans are accused of using their political influence to try to impede a major federal investigation of the fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco in exchange for his secret $200,000 contribution to the Nixon 1972 campaign.

Mitchell's attorney, Peter Fleming Jr., told the jury of eight men and four women that the evidence would show "there's not a single speck, fragment, of evidence that John Mitchell did anything to fix, to stop, to influence an investigation of Robert Vesco."

He said Mitchell did not even know Vesco and added: "Would this man with his background with a lifetime of hard work, public servicce, fix a case of a man he didn't even know?"

Stans' attorney, Walter J. Bonner, told the jury that Stans would take the witness chair in his own defense. Fleming said nothing about Mitchell taking the stand.

In ruling against the mistrial motion made by the defense Friday, Gagliardi said he had concluded that the jury could not have drawn an inference of guilt from the opening statement Friday of prosecutor James. W. Rayhill.

The judge said that the jury had been amply instructed on the fact that an indictment is merely an accusation and that all defendants stand innocent unless proven guilty.

The defense had objected that when Rayhill had told the jury to "put yourselves in the place of the grand jurors" who indicted the defendants there would be a natural inference of guilt.

Gagliardi said that reading of the opening statement convinced him the prosecution had not planned an inference of guilt .

Fleming in his opening statement said that the $200,000 Vesco contribution was a part of $60 miillion "contributed by the people of this country, some poor some rich" to the Nixon campaign.

"Whatever the prosecution may argue, the amount involved was less than one third of one per cent of all the money contributed," Fleming said.

"The evidence will show that Mitchell never acted in any way according to his lights other than what was best for his country."

Fleming said that the Vesco contribution "was as if in an election costing $100 Vesco had contributed 32 cents."

He asked that the jury consider "whether in essence John Mitchell would sell his life for 32 cents."

The two are charged with perjury, obstructing justice and conspiracy. The attorneys said the charge of lying under oath to the grand jury was "one man's word against another" and asked that the jury consider the character of each man against that of the people called to testify against him.

345 killed in worst air crash

Bomb may have caused jet crash

PARIS (UPI) — A preliminary report on the crash of a Turkish Airlines DC10 jetliner said today a bomb explosion could have brought down the wide-bodied aircraft which nosedived to earth from 13,000 feet Sunday, killing 345 persons in aviation's worst disaster.

Orly airport sources said specialists had prepared a report for Airport Director Gilbert Dreyfus who is leading the inquiry. "The report states that the possibility of an explosion is supported by an important number of them," the sources said.

Turkish airline sources in Istanbul said the airline had information that three Japanese and two Arabs aboard the crashed plane were guerrillas. They said the five had planned to sabotage a British Airways flight from Paris to London but were transferred to the Turkish plane because of a strike by British engineers in London and that their bombs exploded in flight.

The airline sources said there also was a possibilty the reported guerrillas were linked with the seizure later in the day of a British Airways jet after takeoff from Beirut. Arab commandos blew up the aircraft in Amsterdam after letting 102 persons on board flee the plane.

Most of the victims in the Turkish Airlines crash were believed to be Britons, including a police amateur rugby team, although no passenger list was available. The number of Americans aboard also was not known but the U.S. Embassy in London said the victims included its cultural attache, Dr. Wayne Wilcox, his wife and two of their children. Japanese embassy sources said 49 Japanese were aboard. The Turks said there were 15 Turkish nationals on the plane.

Turkish President Bulent Ecevit told newsmen in Istanbul:

"At present I cannot say whether the plane was sabotaoged or not but we are reviewing every possibility. The question of whether the plane was sabotaged or not will be cleared following technical examinations which I presume will last a couple of weeks."

Orly field sources said the passenger search before takeoff was normal and that the plane was searched for explosives and none was found. Hand baggage was searched but not the suitcases of the 216 persons who joined the flight in Paris.

Police said they found six bodies at a spot seven miles before the impact point. Newspapers said this could have happened only if the plane was breaking up as a result of an explosion or some other cause before it hit the woods.

France's secretary of state for transport, Aymar Achille-Fould, surveyed the crash site —a pine forest 25 miles north of Paris —and said: "Since some bodies were discovered six miles from the crash, it might seem the explosion of the plane took place in flight."

Gold coin fever rises among average workers in the U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Americans in increasing numbers are taking their money out of banks and exchanging paper currency for gold coins.

"We have people coming in here with their entire life savings and buying gold coins with it," said Les Fox, numismatic director of Deak and Co., Inc., the largest foreign exchange dealer in the Western Hemisphere.

"Until about a month ago we were doing most of our business with collectors interested in rare coins," he said. "Now 90 to 95 per cent of the people in here—and there are a lot of them—are average working people buying gold simply to protect their money."

It has been against the law since 1934 for Americans to own or trade gold bullion. But they are allowed to have coins of gold within certain limitations of the minting date.

The most popular gold coin in the current buying rush is the Mexican 50-peso piece, last minted in 1947 but currently being restruck with that date by the Mexican government.

The Mexican coin, which contains 1.2 ounces of gold, has a currency exchange value of only $4 but sold for as high as $277 during the past week in New York coin shops.

Golda delays announcement of resignation

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir today delayed plans to announce her resignation formally and political sources said she may either be reconsidering her decision to step down or searching for a suitable replacement.

Mrs. Meir had planned to tell President Ephraim Katzir at 11:30 a.m.that she was giving up her unsuccessful efforts to form a minority government. The meeting was at first postponed to 5 p.m., then to 7 p.m. as she continued talks with party colleagues pleading with her to remain in office.

"The postponement has led to speculation that she may be reconsidering her decision," a political source said. "She's meeting with various people at the moment."

Mrs. Meir announced her decision to step down Sunday night at a meeting of her Labor party.

The decision by the 75-year-old grandmother put the Jewish state on the brink of new elections, political sources said, and opened the possibility of a new coalition including rightwing factions opposed to Israel's postwar negotiations with the Arabs.

Sources in the National Religious party (NRP), which has refused to rejoin Mrs. Meir's government in a dispute over religious law, said the postponement could mean she is trying to find a new candidate to replace her as prime minister.

The newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said Mrs. Meir might be approaching other members of her Labor party to form a government, including deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon, Foreign Minister Abba Eban or Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir. Allon conferred with Mrs. Meir for several hours during the morning.

"There's no doubt that she can make the best prime minister in these days," Allon said on emerging from the talks. "We shall do our best to convince her to change her mind."

Asked if Mrs. Meir still planned to resign by returning her government-forming mandate to Katzir, Allon said, "I suspect that yes, she will, but I don't know if the president is obligated to accept it."

Allotments arriving

Gas supply looks better this week

Pomona Valley motorists with even-numbered plates were expected to have a good day at the gas pumps today, as most service stations have received their monthly allotments.

In fact, according to a Progress-Bulletin survey, the gas situation looks brighter for the rest of the week — with more stations expected to be open, with shorter lines of cars.

Those with license plates ending in odd numbers, however, took their lumps at the pumps Sunday as barely 1 per cent of Southland stations were open, according to the Southern California Automobile Club.

Only 81 stations in Los Angeles County were open, according to the Gasoline Control Center of the county's energy commission.

The few stations in the Pomona area that were open had long lines of cars, according to a spot check.

Buck Dickinson, operator of a Shell station at Orange Grove and Garey avenues in Pomona, said he had three-block-long lines all day Sunday, and "100 cars waiting for gas when we ran out."

He called the new odd-even gas marketing plan "one of the biggest foul-ups they've pulled yet. I had threats of physical violence Sunday. One guy said he'd sue me if I didn't give him gas, and another threatened to knock out my station lights."

The gas situation was expected to be better today, however, and during the rest of the week, according to Clovis Watson, supervisor with the Auto Club's Pomona office. Lines seem shorter today because the even numbers got gas Saturday. It could be rougher Tuesday because odd numbers had to go four days (if they were unable to fill up Sunday) without gas."

Several stations, including a Mobil at Holt and Erie avenues in Pomona, indicated lines were shorter today. "Lines are moderate; maybe this odd-even plan is working," said Chaffey Shepherd, owner of the station.

Kissinger reports progress in Europe

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today reported some progress was being made in two declarations of principle redefining U.S. relations with its European allies and that President Nixon might come to Europe to sign them if the declarations are satisfactory.

Kissinger met with ambassadors of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and briefed them on his just-completed tour of the Middle East. Joseph Luns, the NATO secretary general, described the talks as "very useful, lively and pleasant."

Asked at a news conference whether a trip to Europe by President Nixon had been set, Kissinger said there was "a tentative plan" that if two declarations being drawn up are satisfactory, "the President will come to sign them."

Kissinger said there was "very good progress" made on a declaration on security matters being drawn up within NATO and "we are quite optimistic" about the documents on economic and political relations being drawn up by the European Common Market.

Kissinger said he found "a considerable unity of views as to the objectives" which Western Allies should follow toward the Middle East.

Kissinger proposed the declaration in a speech last April saying it should "redefine U.S.-European relations." He proposed a new basis for the North Atlantic Alliance.

After his news conference, Kissinger went to see Walter Scheel, the West German Foreign Minister and current chairman of the Common Market Council of Ministers at the German Embassy.

Scheel briefed Kissinger on the Common Market's three-stage plan for cooperation with 20 Arab states and of its plans to begin talks with Israel.

He arrived from Bonn where he briefed West German Chancellor Willy Brandt on prospects for peace in the Middle East.

Call P-B for valley voting

Voters take to the polls in eight Pomona Valley cities Tuesday, casting ballots for municipal offices, and, in two areas, on bond proposals.

As a public service, the Progress-Bulletin will offer a running tally of all vote counts on election night. From 9 to 11 p.m. P-B workers will take calls.

Polls open at 7 a.m. in all areas, closing at 7 p.m. except in the communities of La Verne, Claremont and Walnut. In those three cities closing time is 8 p.m.

Driver uses pistol to get gas at Ontario station, pays bill, leaves

ONTARIO—Police this morning are searching for a motorist who pulled a revolver on a service station owner, ordered him to fill up his tank with gasoline, paid, got change and drove away.

Police said the station owner, Guilherme Dias, 38, reported the incident just after his C and F Arco station, 1437 Euclid Ave., closed about 2:40 p.m. Saturday. Dias said a brown 1949 sedan witah two men inside pulled up to the gas pumps. Dias said the driver of the car displayed a .38 caliber revolver and ordered him to fill the car's gas tank. Dias said the driver kept the gun pointed at him whe he filled the tank with $3 worth of gas.

After filling the tank, Dias said the man with the gun gave him a $10 bill. Dias gave the gunman back $7 in change and the gunman's car drove off towards De Anza Park.

Police said the driver is described as a Caucasian, 27, 5 feet 11, 150 pounds wearing a light colored shirt and black pants. The passenger in the vehicle was described as Caucasian, 25, 6 feet, 140 pounds wearing a brim hat, brown shirt and blue jeans.

Police said the men were wanted for investigation of brandishing a firearm.

Resignation of Heath 'certain'

LONDON (UPI) — The Liberal party today rejected an offer by Prime Minister Edward Heath to join his Conservatives in an anti-Socialist coalition. Instead, it proposed a "Grand Alliance" of Conservatives, Labor and Liberals to rescue the country from its economic crisis.

But political informants said the "Grand Alliance" suggestion was unacceptable either to Heath or to Labor party leader Harold Wilson.

They said this left Heath virtually no choice except to resign and to advise Queen Elizabeth to summon Wilson to form a Labor party minority government.

Wilson has said he is ready to do so.

In a further blow to Heath's hopes of carrying on an "anti-Socialist" government, 10 ofsthe 11 hard line Protestant militant members of parliament from Northern Ireland agreed in Belfast to go it alone and not to join any government in London.

They decided to set up a "United Ulster Unionist parliamentary coalition.

Acting as spokesman for the group, Rev. Ian Paisley said it will support whichever party helps Ulster.

Labor party sources said if Wilson is summoned to form a government, he will do so with the 301 Labor party members of parliament alone, even though they do not constitute a majority of the new 635-member House of Commons.

They said he will push ahead with Labor's program, including nationalization of additional key industries, until the party is defeated in parliament and that Wilson then will call a new general election to seek a full majority.

Earlier, Heath, still clinging obstinately to power despite a stinging rebuff from the voters in Thursday's general election, held a two-hour meeting of his cabinet.

Government officials said it discussed a possible deal with the Liberals.

No statement was released afterwards.

For airlines

Simon would equalize price for domestic, overseas fuel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing "skyrocketing costs" of jet fuel for U.S. overseas airlines, energy chief William E. Simon proposed today a plan to equalize the price paid for fuel by domestic and foreign carriers.

Under the present system, U.S. lines such as Pan American and Trans World must buy sharply higher priced imported jet fuel.

In a proposed rule to be published Tuesday, Simon would place the U.S. overseas airlines under the allocation program used for domestic airlines.

The U.S. overseas airlines purchase imported "bonded fuel," which formerly was cheaper than domestic jet fuel. But the energy crisis has more than doubled the price of bonded fuel.

Simon said that "skyrocketing costs to the international airlines" had made the problem "serious enough to consider broadening the current allocation program."

Domestic airlines, which get 95 per cent of the amount of jet fuel they used in comparable 1972 periods, opposed sharing their allocation with the overseas carriers.

Simon's proposal would place "bonded jet fuel under the same FEO allocation and price control as other jet fuels, thereby equalizing distribution and prices."

Pan American argued that failure to include overseas airlines in the original allocation program was discriminatory and threatened to sue the FEO.

Administtration energy policy and President Nixon's planned veto of the emergency energy bill came under attack from Sens. Henry M.. Jackson, DWash., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Jackson told a national housing conference that Nixon's veto, which he plans formally on Tuesday, would outrage the public.

Kennedy said at the same conference that administration policies on energy and other matters had been disastrous for middle and low-income Americans.

Man, 2 juveniles are charged in kidnap-robbery

POMONA — A man from Los Angeles and two local juvenile boys were booked Sunday afternoon in the kidnaping and robbery of an Upland woman here.

The victim, Carmen Campo, 30, said she and 7-year-old Shirley Campo were walking on Valley Boulevard near Ganesha Boulevard when they were forced into a car by a young man armed with a small pistol. She was forced to surrender $5 from her purse and write a $50 creck for her captors before being freed, she said.

Police later located a car at 2350 Belinda Ave., similar to the one used in the incident, and arrested three suspects at that location. They were identified by the victim, officers said.

The adult seized was Marcus Patterson, 18, of 11661 S. Avalon Blvd. He and the others were booked on suspicion of kidnaping and robbery.

Seven on plane lost in Rockies

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — A plane carrying seven persons, including the brother-in-law of Sen. Lowell, P. Weicker, R-Conn., and his family, is missing on a flight from Houston, Tex., to a Colorado ski resort.

The search for the plane, which disappeared Saturday with William G. Godfrey, of Houston, his wife and four children, and a pilot aboard, has been delayed by "severe turbulence" authorities said Sunday. It was to continue today.

Godfrey is the brother of Weicker's wife, Marie Louise. "Weather—severe turbulance, lowering cloud ceiling and heavy snow—forred the aerial search to halt in the afternoon," said Carol Patton, information officer for the Colorado Civil Air Patrol.

The pilot of the twin-engine Mitsubishi turbo prop, which was bound for Aspen, Colo., about 50 miles from where the craft was believed to have crashed, was identified as Bernard Gallaher of Houston. Mrs. Patton said he was a highly qualified pilot who had logged 10,000 air hours.

A ski tow operator in the area told authorities he saw a red and white airplane disappear over a ridge and heard an explosion Saturday afternoon. Officials said, however, the loud noise could have been a sonic boom, which are common in the area.

Six inches of snow fell in the area between the time the plane went down and Sunday evening, officials said. The snow, coupled with high winds, forced authorities to call off the search.

Spokesmen for the..Pitkin County sheriff's office said the search was called off at 5:30 p.m. Sunday and would resume despite predictions of continuing snowfall.

"We can't get in there. If we don't find it by air, we don't move on the ground. We're not even sure of the area the plane went down," a sheriff's spokesman said.

Two rape cases reported to Claremont police

CLAREMONT — Authorities reported two separate cases of rape here during the weekend, one of which occurred in a dormitory at Scripps College.

In that incident, the 19-year-old victim said she was awakened shortly after 2 a.m. Saturday by a young man who had entered her room. The intruder, described as white, 19 to 20, 5 feet 10 with blond hair, attacked the young woman before fleeing. Campus police Sunday night arrested a suspect in the incident. They said they found him hiding in a women's restroom on the campus. William Robert Ryan, 22, 4454 N. Towne Ave., was booked on suspicion of burglary and rape.

A young woman visiting from Northern California said she was grabbed early Sunday near Pitzer College's McConnell center., where she was attending a dance. She said she was forced into their car and attacked before being put out in Pomona.

Police reported finding the victim, 18, weeping at Mission Boulevard and Monte Vista Avenue shortly before 4 a.m. She described her attacker as a Negro, 28 to 30, 5 feet 5 weighing 140 pounds.

Ex-Marine gets life for bombing

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI) — The youthful "propaganda minister" of the Rights of White People (ROWP) has been sentenced to life in prison for the bombing of the Wilmington Journal, a black newspaper.

It took an all-white jury of eight women and four men only 25 minutes deliberation before returning the guilty verdict Saturday against Lawrence R. Little, a 19-year-old ex-Marine.

New Hanover County Superior Court Judge Bradford Tillery imposed the life sentence while Little stood quietly. Little's court-appointed attorney, John Newton, said the verdict would be appealed.

A CASE OF ARSON

A fireman clears debris at Roosevelt Elementary School in San Leandro where an arsonist cause blaze extensively damaged one wing of the school. The fire caused damage estimated at $100,000. Twelve blazes were started.

Lines longer than ever despite increased prices for gasoline

By United Press International

The price of gasoline soared by as much as 13 cents a gallon in some parts of the country during the weekend, but most motorists seemed eager to pay the higher prices. Lines waiting at filling stations in several areas were reported longer than ever, and many stations were closed because their storage tanks were dry.

"Gasoline availability has slipped to its lowest point since the surveys began last June," said Jim Walls of the Georgia Motor Club. He said a fourth of the state's filling stations were sold out and closed for the weekend.

The situation was described as the worst since the energy shortage became severe five months ago also in Michigan and parts of California. Lines in the San Francisco area were longer than ever, stretching as far as five blocks.

The Automobile Club of Michigan said the situation was the same throughout the state: higher prices and less gasoline than ever. Ten per cent of the stations in the Detroit area were sold out and closed, although the problem was not as severe in the northern part of the state.

The price of gasoline leaped by 13 cents a gallon at two filling stations in Tallahassee, Fla. The stations, both Spur Centers, raised their prices from 45.5 cents to 58.5 for regular and from 49.5 to 62.5 for premium. Manager Ed Mathew said the 13 cents reflected a government-allowed 2-cent hike in the retail price, plus a higher cost for wholesale fuel.

The Hoosier Motor Club surveyed 118 service stations in Indiana and found 10 per cent were closed for lack of fuel, twice as much as the previous week.

About 200 dealers in Augusta organized the Maine Gasoline Dealers Association. Philip Pimentel, owner of a Shell station in Augusta, said the group would offer the state's operators a chance to have a unified voice in dealing with the Federal Energy Office. Pimentel urged the dealers not to shut down over dissatisfaction with federal rulings because he said as dealers they have "an obligation to the consumer to act as responsible businessmen during this crisis."

In other developments:

—In New York, where a mandatory odd-even rationing plan is in effect, about 40 amputees in wheelchairs or on crutches demonstrated at Gov. Malcom Wilson's office to demand special treatment at gas pumps. They said they "require their vehicles in order to maintain their everyday existence."

—The price of gasoline could hit 75 cents a gallon, according to the chairman and chief executive officer of Phillips Petroleum Co., W.F. Martin. But Martin did not say when. Prices are already over 60 cents a gallon in some areas.

—In Washington, John Swearingen, board chairman of Amoco, said the gasoline shortage will last another six to 12 months.

—And in Welch, W.Va., coal miners engaged in a week-long work stoppage complaining they can't buy gasoline to drive to work, have decided to continue the strike. About 400 southern West Virginia coal miners met Sunday night and voted to continue their work stoppage in protest of Gov. Arch Moore's order forbidding gasoline sales to motorists who have more than a quarter of a tank.

Weekend search for missing balloonist proves fruitless

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon evaluated data from a fruitless weekend search for missing balloonist Thomas L. Gatch today, but associates said responsibility for the survival of the 48-year-old adventurer was up to Gatch himself.

"It sounds cruel, but it's right," said William Armstrong, a Federal Energy Office employe who helped in the preparation of Gatch's craft "Light Heart."

"It's up to Tom Gatch to come back," he said.

Relatives of Gatch, believing him to be down in the water in some floatable device for at least the last 11 days, have renewed their pleas that the Pentagon continue its air surveillance of a 95,000-square mile area where computer projections indicate he may be.

Gatch's balloon was last confirmed sighted 11 days ago by a Liberian ship 1,000 miles west of the Canary Islands at an altitude of 1,000 feet.

Armstrong said a number of experts, including noted authority Vincent E. Lally, program manager for the global atmospheric measurements program at the National Center for Atmospheric research, said there was "no way a man could get up again from that altitude."

When Gatch was spotted by the ship, his 190-pound gondola was supported by only eight of the 10-helium filled balloons he started with. The first burst only 76 minutes into his flight, causing him to drop from a planned altitude of 39,000 feet to 35,500.

Armstrong said the observation by the ship lasted for "two hours and theoretically the sun's heat would have caused the balloons to rise.

"There is no indication that Tom was in the gondola at the time....I don't know if that point has been raised before."

Armstrong said Gatch would have left his craft "as early as Tuesday night," Feb. 26, and could be adrift on the Atlantic in a raft.

Gatch left Harrisburg (Pa.) International Airport Feb. 18 in the Light Heart in his attempt to make the first transatlantic manned balloon crossing.

Jocklyn Armstrong of New York, Gatch's niece, said although the balloonist carried provisions for only 10 days he might have rationed them to last longer and could be surviving by drinking rain water.

Supreme, Court rules in favor of cable television operators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled, 6 to 3, today in a major copyright case that CATV operators have the right to pick up and transmit network and other original programs any distance they wish.

The Court urged Congress however to legislate on the complex issue of copyright protection in the broadcasting field.

The decision, affirming part of a 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling, held that the long distance transmission of programs for use of cable antenna television does not infringe on any copyright held by originators of the material.

The ruling came after a prolonged controversy which arrayed the networks and conventional broadcasters against the growing CATV industry which uses high altitude antennas and microwave to transmit programs to pay subscribers mainly in remote areas.

In other major actions, the Court:

—Ruled 8 to 1, with Justice William O. Douglas dissenting, that the Veterans Administration has the constitutional right to deny GI Bill of Rights educational benefits to conscientious objectors who perform nonmilitary duties instead of serving in the military.

—Agreed with lower court decisions that federal courts lack jurisdiction over union requirements that candidates for office must sign noncommunist affidavits.

—Held that a New York law prohibiting marriages by prisoners serving life sentences is constitutional.

—Agreed to hear an appeal by a group of 62 Illinois delegates to the 1972 Democratic national convention who are threatened with contempt in a state court as a result of a seating dispute with a group led by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley.

In the CATV case, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Douglas and Justice Harry A. Blackmun dissented.

White House guards armed with missiles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Secret Service has added an antiaircraft missile system to its arsenal since an Army private landed a helicopter on the White House lawn, according to Aviation Week magazine.

Aviation Week in its current issue said the missile was the "Redeye," an antiaircraft system which can be fired from the shoulder and was used in Vietnam.

The Secret Service today described the report as inaccurate but declined to discuss what new security measures had been invoked since the helicopter incident on Feb. 17. A spokesman said the service had a long standing policy of not discussing security changes.

There had been speculation the Secret Service would strengthen protective equipment after the private commandeered a helicopter from Ft. Meade, Md. and landed the craft on the south lawn of the White House in a hail of shotgun fire. President Nixon was in Key Biscayne, Fla., and no member of his family was in the mansion at the time.

into the Ermenonville Woods five minutes after takeoff from Orly Airport on a flight to London.

The Paris afternoon newspaper France-Soir said an anonymous caller telephoned its office at 6.35 a.m. and said the plane had been sabotaged as an act of protest against the French government.

The U.S. embassy said a delegation from the U.S. National Safety Transportation Board arrived in Paris and joined the investigation at the crash site. Turkish and French investigators part in the inquiry because the DC10 was U.S.-built.

Airport sources said the black box tape-recorder was taken to the Civil Bretigny sur Orge, 35 miles south of Paris, where experts began to study precrash flight data.

French radio said the regional flight control center of Athis-Mons south of Paris recorded a faintly heard distress signal or alarm bell aboard the plane. But a spokesman said later this was only a horn indicating that oil pressure was normal.

Controlled avalanche isn't; Tahoe road blocked 3 hours

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A ski resort demolition team overestimated their explosives power Sunday.

Instead of a small, controlled avalanche meant to remove dangerous snow accumulations on Mount Rose, the blast triggered a huge slide which carried trees, brush and tons of snow.

The debris blocked the Mount Rose Highway, a main artery to the Lake Tahoe Basin, for more than three hours before it was cleared.

Empty gas cans used for dramatization

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressional candidate Jerry Olivet has brought empty gasoline cans to Washington in an attempt to dramatize the plight of the new 33rd congressional district and the rest of the state.

Olivet, a medical doctor, hopes to meet with House Speaker Carl Albert and Sen. John Tunney. He also plans to meet with Sen. Alan Cranston and Rep. James Corman.

Olivet said he feels the gas shortage is "contrived."

"as station operators tell me they have all the gas they want," he said, "but they're not allowed to sell it."

Olivet's trip to Washington was spurred by long gasoline lines and the fact that "my wife has to wait two hours to get gas. We must have gasoline for emergencies."

Olivet said he would like to see California's allocation increased and says Gov. Reagan's "market organization' is really gasoline rationing.

State is auditing Cal Poly faculty

POMONA — Cal Poly Pomona campus is one of six campuses of the state university system being audited to determine if faculty members are teaching fewer hours than they are being paid for.

The audit team was on campus in late January and early February, officials report, but as yet has submitted no report.

Fred Dalton, chief auditor of the state university, said teams of special auditors were sent out to find out "whether faculty members have been using a variety of techniques to falsify how many hours they spend each week teaching."

The investigations are being carried out on campuses in San Francisco, Hayward, San Luis Obispo, Long Beach, San Bernardino and Pomona.

Dalton said a pilot study has already been completed at the Los Angeles campus, and still another campus may be added to the list for investigation.

"Auditors at the Los Angeles campus found professors were illegally taking teaching credit for such routine duties as advising students, double credit for extra large classes, and indulging in a variety of other policy violations," Dalton reported.

Driver held after crash in San Dimas

SAN DIMAS — A motorist was arrested late Sunday afternoon after his pickup truck went out of control, hit a parked vehicle, jumped a curb, slammed through a block wall, hit a mobile home and a utility pole, authorities said.

The accident occurred at 1635 W. Covina Blvd. as Larry H. Darren, 31, of 412 S. Kimberly Drive, was eastbound. Sheriff's deputies said the vehicle went out of control when Darren's passenger, Deborah Ann Marchetti, 21, of the same address, put on the vehicle's brakes.

About 25 feet of 4-foot-high block wall was damaged before the pickup hit a 55-foot mobile home belonging to Louis Castro. Darren was booked on a drunken-driving charge, deputies said. There were no injuries.

2 students suspects in house fire

WALNUT — Two 17-year-old high school students are suspected of setting a fire Sunday afternoon that resulted in $15,000 damage to the residence of Hector Garcia, 19050 N. Northan St.

Officers at the Industry sheriff's station said the two young men were questioned about the fire and about several items from the home that were reported missing including comic books, liquor and change.

The hall, living room and dining room of the three-bedroom house were fully involved in flames when firemen arrived at the scene at 5:56 p.m. Sunday. Smoke and heat damage was extensive throughout the structure, firemen said.

Mother and 2 tots injured in D.B. crash

DIAMOND BAR — A mother and her two small children were injured when their car jumped a curb and struck an Edison pole on Prospectors Road west of Golden Springs Avenue Saturday night.

Mrs. Dixie Lee Edge, 28, of 211 Cottonwood Ave., Diamond Bar, told the highway patrol she hit a curb on a curve and the car went over the curb and hit the power pole.

She and the children, Trent E. Edge, 3, and Norma Lee Edge, nine months, were taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Mrs. Edge was reported in good condition there this morning, and Trent was in satisfactory condition. Norma Lee was treated and taken home.

Arraignment facing guard in boy's death

CHINO —A 23-year-old Riverside security guard who allegedly shot and killed a 13-year-old Chino youth during "horseplay" in a new housing tract on Magnolia Avenue Saturday will be arraigned on manslaughter charges in Chino Municipal Court today or Tuesday, police said.

The security guard, Gary Reese of Riverside, was arrested for investigation of manslaughter shortly after 13-year-old Raymond Vasquez of 6134 Chino Ave. was pronounced dead on arrival at Chino General Hospital Saturday afternoon. The youth died of a single gunshot wound of the head fired from a .357 magnum revolver.

Police said that the guard and young Vasquez and another youth were acquainted. The three were sitting in the security guards car, apparently horseplaying, when the gun discharged.

Police said Reese is suspected of possible criminal negligence in the youth's death.

$2 minimum new wage in California

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The $2 minimum hourly wage goes into effect in California today, bringing pay raises to about 1.5 million workers.

The increase from $1.65 an hour especially will benefit youths, employes of small retail shops, students, waitresses and workers in recreation industries.

For the first time, men and household domestic workers will be given the benefit of state wage standards.

The increase to $2 an hour was authorized by the legislature last year and implemented by the state Industrial Welfare Commission.

Thousands of tar balls wash ashore

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Thousands of tar balls washed ashore on a mile-long stretch of beach between Whites Point and Point Fermin in San Pedro.

"Some were as big as baseballs and others were as large as basketballs," said lifeguard Scott Linkletter.

Arabs mum on hijacking of jetliner

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Two Arabs refused today to tell police interrogators why they hijacked a British Airways VC10, forced it to fly to Amsterdam, freed the 102 passengers and crew and then set the airliner afire with whisky, perfume and explosives.

Police said they had questioned the two continuously since their capture on the tarmac of Amsterdam's Schiphol airport Sunday night.

"They told us nothing at all," an airport police spokesman said.

Two young Arab hijackers seized the British Airways VC10, carrying 92 passengers and 10 crewmen, Sunday afternoon 90 minutes after the four-engine jetliner took off from Beirut on a flight to London.

Three hours later, the guerrillas ordered passengers and crew out of the blue, silver and white plane at Amsterdam's Schiphol airport and used the duty-free whiskey and perfume aboard as fuel to burn and blow up the aircraft.

The police spokesman said airport police had questioned the hijackers until midnight. State police then took them away to a place "somewhere in the country safe behind locked doors" for further interrogation, he said.

Although the hijackers spoke only broken English with authorities, police "had the impression they were good in English but preferred to keep their mouths shut," he said.

When the Arabs left the plane, the spokesman said, "they took a terrible risk by not keeping any of the passengers as hostages. Sharpshooters sitting in armored cars had their fingers on the trigger."

A police officer "unwittingly kept them from firing by walking toward the hijackers with his hands up," he said. The officer persuaded the skyjackers to give up their ammunition, he said.

A Justice Ministry spokesman said the case "is now in the hands of the public prosecutor of the city of Haarlem under whose judicial authority the airport is."

Doctors have highest rate of alcoholism

SAN FRANCICSO (UPI) — Physicians suffer the highest alcoholism rate of any profession in America, the California Medical Association was told Sunday.

"We lose the equivalent of one medical school class a year," said Dr. Charles E. Becker, head of alcoholic detoxification at San Francisco eneral Hospital.

Becker, also an assistant professor at the University of California Medical Center, urged Physicians to be more alert to early symptoms in themselves and their patients.

Energy shortage still at crisis stage, oilman says

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The energy shortage is still in the crisis stage and gasoline prices might get as high as 75 cents per gallon if all controls are lifted, according to the chairman and chief executive officer of Phillips Petroleum Co.

W. F. Martin, in a television interview aired Sunday in Oklahoma City, said he wished he shared the optimism that President Nixon has in saying the energy shortage has passed the crisis stage.

"I think that we're going to have to live with some shortages for quite a period of time," Martin said. "While we might have gotten over a crisis here recently, maybe this is what the President was talking about, we were all concerned about having enough heating oil, and I think we are over that problem.

"But we're entering into the gasoline consuming season and we have some problems on the supply of gasoline," he said.

Martin was asked what would happen to gasoline prices if all controls were lifted.

"You have to go back and say: what's going to happen to the prices of crude oil overseas," Martin said. "I think we're seeing the price of crude oil start to stabilize. In some cases it's been brought down a little bit.

"However, I would feel that over a period of time, with inflation, that we would expect the price of crude oil to continue to rise, so I would think that the price of motor fuel would rise."

Martin said the maximum point to which gasoline prices might rise would be anybody's guess.

"If I would guess, and I'm sure this will be read back to me sometime, I would say that maybe it might get as high as 75 cents, I don't know," he said.

The head of the Bartlesville-headquartered oil firm also questioned the possibility of the United States becoming self-sufficient in energy in 1980, as President Nixon said was the goal.

"I'm not at all sure that we can ever actually meet all the requirements of the people of this country of oil and gas right from this country alone," Martin said. "I think we're going to have to continue to be involved in overseas operations and overseas exploration efforts and if we're not, of course, some other company from another country would be, and I think it's in the best interest of our country that United States companies be involved in overseas production."

"If we were just thinking about being self-sufficient in energy absolutely by 1980, I think that's a pretty early date to anticipate that," he said.

Martin made his comments on a program titled "Profile of a Major Oil Company," aired as part of WKY-TV's weekly Spectrum series.

Tennessee takes over as U.S. streak capital

By United Press International

Tennessee may be replacing Texas as the streak capital of the United States.

Although only three fraternity pledges actually streaked on the campus of Memphis State University at 11:15 p.m. EDT Sunday, other pranks brought 12 police units wearing riot gear and carrying shotguns to the campus along with two of police helicopters.

Administration officials said disciplinary action would be taken against the three streakers, who ran naked across the university's dormitory area in spring-like 69 degree temperature.

In addition, UPI has learned, students on the normally quiet campus secretly have formulated plans for a "super streak," tentatively planned for this week and expected to set a host of national streaking records.

Traffic was blocked for three hours by "wall to wall" streakers Saturday night at the University of Tennesseee's main campus in Knoxville, while 10 male students streaked the Trinity University campus in San Antonio, Tex.

The incident at a women's dormitory with reports of a panty raid. Fraternity members and other male students then zipped across the area on motorcycles, stopped near the dorms, dropped their trousers and rode off again into the night.

It ended with the three fraternity pledges dashing totally naked through the area, which then was sealed off by the huge contingent of police. Ten nude men jumped out of cars and ran by the women's dorm on the Trinity campus in San Antonio. Coeds were at almost every window. Following their short dash, the men jumped back in their cars and drove around the dormitory with the coeds cheers ringing in their ears.

A one streaker — a rarity in the latest collegiate team sport raced across the gym floor on the University of Florida campus Saturday, moments before florida was to play Alabama in a basketball game.

The home team, perhaps inspired by the man who ran naked across the court and out the door before officials and police could apprehend him, went on to upset the nationally ranked Crimson Tide.

In Knoxville, police Sgt. Floyd Patty said "at the outside there were 50" persons involved in the streak with several thousand spectators. Patty said one tavern offered a free bag of beer for any woman streaker and within minutes a nude woman jumped from a car, dashed for the tavern, and left carrying a bag, presumably containing beer.

"They were staying out having a good time, drinking and throwing cans," Patty said. "There was no serious damage."

Eight in race for Teague's Congress seat

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The political impact of Watergate will undergo its first major California test Tuesday in a special congressional election where Democrats have made President Nixon their chief issue.

One Republican, veteran state Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, faces a crowded field of seven Democrats seeking to succeed the late GOP Rep. Charles Teague, who held the seat for almost 20 years.

The winner in the Southern California coastal district embracing Ventura and Santa Barbara counties must receive 50 per cent of the votes cast, plus one. Otherwise, the two top vote-getters will runoff in an April 2 election.

Democrats, who hold a slim 48 to 45 per cent registration edge in a region where citizens often vote the man and not the party, pinned their strategy on forcing Lagomarsino into a runoff. They conceded in advance they had no chance of defeating him outright Tuesday.

Michigan voters last month handed Democratic congressional contenders in California a psychological lift when they elected Richard VanderVeen to the House seat of Vice President Gerald Ford. VanderVeen had made Nixon and Watergate major issues.

But unlike the Michigan election where VanderVeen faced only one Republican contender, the 13th California House District race pits Lagomarsino against seven Democrats.

Democratic hopes were further bouyed when a federal grand jury in Washington, acting just four days before the election, returned indictments against seven former top-level aides to Nixon in the coverup of the Watergate break-in.

An attorney first elected to the legislature in 1961, Lagomarsino is running in a district almost identical to his Senate district and has pulled Democratic votes in his four election victories.

Mayor James Loebl of Ojai, 46, considered the Democratic frontrunner, said the basic issue in the campaign "is Richard Nixon, his policies and whether to support them or not."

Actress dies on location

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Actress Barbara Reick Williams, 42, died here while on location for a film called "California Split," a family spokesman said Sunday.

She was best known for her role in the 1950s film version of "Carousel." Her death Saturday was attributed to natural causes.

Mrs. Williams is survived by her widower, film composer John Williams; mother actress Lorene Tuttle; and three children, Jennifer, Mark and Joseph. The family lives in Los Angeles.

Funeral services were pending.

"Where Food is Made with Butter 'n' Love"

Everybody's offering tips for stretching these days—the miles per gallon and items on the food budget. We at Griswold's can give tips, too. The Indian Hill has specials for the early diners—great food and atmosphere at a budget pleasing price. The SMORGASBORD is always a value—a hearty lunch with all the tempting variety of food can make a light supper at home a budget stretcher.

According to NRA Pres. Richard J. Hartman, a 1973 study showed the price of food in the grocery store went up 21.5% but restaurant meals were up only 9.5%. "The restaurant meal is one of the best consumer values today."

Wall Street Briefs

CHICAGO (UPI) — China is more interested in diffusion of its trade with the United States than in rapid expansion, Van S. Lung, president of Sino-American Exports-Imports Co., told a World Trade Conference in Chicago Thursday.

Lung, whose father was the first vice chairman of the People's Republic of China years ago, also said Americans need have no concern over reports of a "new cultural revolution" in mainland China. He said social and political affairs change and evolve as constantly under China's communist regime as they do in the United States but in much the same orderly way.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Amoco Chemicals Division of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) said it will increase output of terephthalic acid and dimethyl terephthalate at its Decatur, Ala., plant to make total output of the company 1.9 billion pounds yearly. These chemicals are used in making polyester fiber and film for a wide variety of finished products.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Japanese steel industry has succeeded at the Keithin steel plant at Tokyo in desulfuring sintering exhaust gases to a huge degree, Yoshikazu Asano, New York manager for Nippon Kokan, Japan's second largest steel company, said Thursday. Sulfur dioxide emissions from sintering plants have been a serious air pollution problem for Japan, he said, and the results at Keithin indicate the problem now can be eliminated.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Riley Co. said its Riley Stoker subsidiary at Worcester, Mass., has won a $17 million contract to build a turbo-furnace steam generating unit for South Carolina's proposed Moncks Corner power station. The unit will burn pulverized coal. The contract is subject to arrangement of financing by the South Carolina Public Service Authority.

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Major Realty Corp. said it is joining Timber Development, Inc., of Lakeland, Fla., in the purchase of 24,100 acres of woodlands 17 miles from Panama City in the western part of Gulf County for $8.75 million from Hamilton Kenner of Panama City and G.A. Robinson, Jr., of Memphis. About 7,000 acres of the tract is planted in soy beans and wheat.

BOISE, Idaho (UPI — Morrison-Knudsen Co. said its Northern Construction division at Vancouver has won a $20 million contract to build artificial island offshore petroleum drilling sites in the Beaufort Sea in the Canadian Arctic region of Imperial Oil, Ltd., of Toronto. Drilling platforms willl be made of sand and gravel dredged from McKenzie Bay about 200 miles north of the Arctic circle.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The next several weeks are likely to be erratic as the bear market approaches what could be its conclusion," says Merkin & Co. Inc. Although many stocks have hit their final lows, the firm continues, they are not likely to perform well until some of the blue chips and flyers reach their bear market bottoms within the next two months. "Traders and investors are advised to remain on the sidelines until the technical conditions are conducive to relative low risk buying," it adds.

The tiers in the 1973 market pyramid have been destroyed by the bears, according to Harris, Upham & Co. It says "the breadth of the market is beginning to outperform some of the more popular price averages" now that the "beardozer" has leveled the previous stock market structure. Since the great majority of stocks have hit final lows, "serious base-building activity is becoming evident—the type of evidence that is necessary if a sustainable advance is to develop," the firm notes.

Motorists pay to charlatan

CARSON, Calif. (UPI) — A young charlatan raked in about $100 during the weekend, convincing 20 motorists waiting in a gasoline line that they had to pay him in advance for the fuel.

They did without question and the young fellow smiled and handed them receipts in return.

But when the motorists pulled up to the Standard Oil pumps Saturday they were told the receipts were worthless. By that time, police said, the "station employe" had disappeared.

Painful venom

A black widow spider's venom—more potent drop for drop than a rattlesnake's—causes intense pain. Deaths, however, occur from only four or five of the more than 1,000 bites reported in the United States each year.

Microwave oven denial is challenged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Once, the expert was saying, there were shoe store X-ray machines that could hurt your bone marrow and radium-dial watches that over-dosed watch factory workers.

Those things are no more, he said, but they triggered radiation scares over household products that use a much weaker type of electromagnetic power—such as TV sets and, now, microwave ovens.

Mark Grove's message was: Microwave ovens are harmless if you use them sensibly, with the doors firmly closed, and, in any case, their radiation is much too weak to cause genetic damage or eye cataracts. What they could do, if misused, is burn you, he said.

"The conclusion of our roughly year-long study is that there is no reason to suspect there's any danger to a person from microwave ovens that meet Department of Health, Education and Welfare emission standards, provided they are operated safely and sensibly," said Grove, an electrical engineer representing the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers.

But Carol Cowgill, an attorney for Consumers Union who attended Grove's news conference, challenged him.

She said Consumers Union had no quarrel with the emission levels set by HEW but wanted government testing standards raised to reflect the little things that can go wrong in the kitchen.

Cowgill told a reporter, for example, that government tests now use perfectly sealed ovens. When the Bureau of Radiological Health experimentally tested 200 ovens with little impediments causing door-seal leaks, she said, "the radiation nearly knocked the needle off the meters."

Grove said so far as he knew all microwave ovens on the U.S. market met HEW radiation leakage standards—a quantity he said was 100 times weaker than the lowest level known to cause serious burns.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A biologist reports science probably will discover within a decade or two how to reactivate genetic "clocks" which seem to contribute to the infirmities of old age.

"This potential moderation, control or even reversal of man's most universal enemy, the mental and physical debilities of old age, is, I believe, within the reach of our generation," said Dr. Bernard L. Strehler, of the University of Southern California.

He said in a paper at the final day of the week-long meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that all high forms of life possess internal genetic clocking systems that cause specific weakening events to take place as the individual ages. Some genes seem to switch off as the life cycle proceeds, making it impossible for the body to draw on information they contain to help produce new cells to replace parts damaged by disease or mishap.

The key question that needs to be answered, Strehler said, is how do genetic on and off switches work?

"For, once that particular question has been answered, it is not unlikely that pharmacological or other means for resetting the switches will also become feasible," he said in a paper.

He predicted researchers will answer this question within the next five years. He said it is probable that a means will be developed five to 10 years later to reactivate some of these turned off genes to restore some of the body's lost functions.

In an earlier session on aging, Dr. Robert R. Kohn, professor of pathology at Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, pointed out that humans deteriorate and die in highly predictable and characteristic ways even when they have the best genes, nutrition and environment and in spite of all efforts to keep them alive.

"In many highly developed societies, the survival limits have been reached in recent decades, and no significant increases in life expectancy or lifespan can be anticipated until basic aging processes are understood and altered," he said Thursday.

Dr. Nathaniel Calloway, physician at Madison, Wisc., General Hospital and a lecturer at the University of Wisconsin, cited some statistics to show that people are not living longer than their ancestors. He said senators elected between 1789 and 1860 lived an average 68 1-2 years. Senators elected between 1931 and 1966 achieved an average age of 69.

"This means that all of our glamorous developments, diets, flashing warning lights, records, discoveries and medical care have added only 1-2 year to the life of senators," he said.

Substitute trade

Though Ceylon is the world's second largest producer of tea, exceeded only by India, its major export formerly was cinnamon. When the cinnamon trade dropped off, coffee plantations were started as a substitute. Not until blight destroyed coffee crops in the 1880s did tea become a major crop on the island.

Leaves from fourth branch

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

If I have seemed a little distrait in the past few days, I would like to apoligize. Fact is I have been seriously debating whether I want to be a "White House spokesman" or Undersecretary forPolynesian Affairs, yum.

In case you weren't at the weekly assembly at St. Paul's School in Concord, N.H., recently, the principal (only) speaker was old grad Archibald Cox, former special Watergate prosecutor. He told the students of his alma mater that "the news media seems to be setting itself up as the fourth branch of government."

This is similar to the Fourth Estate that plagued France some years ago. The three influential groups were the royalty (Napoleon), nobility (barons and earls) and the clergy (Cardinal Richelieu). America's equivalents today are royalty (King Richard), nobility (Congress, oil companies) and clergy (Billy Graham).

Under steady attack by the first estate ever since the famous kick-me-around speech, the fourth estate was losing ground in public esteem until three significant events — the release of the Pentagon Papers, the break-in at Watergate, and the revival of "The Front Page." Since then people have re-awakened to the value of a free press ("Watchdog of Democracy") and started believing a lot of what they read in newspapers and hear on radio and television.

Cox told the students at St. Paul's "The media certainly is turning gradually to a more active role in shaping the course of events through their news columns and commentaries, as well as on their editorial pages."

(Cox, like the rest of us, has trouble in deciding whether news media is singular or plural. Actually news media are a collective noun and should be dealt with accordingly. Here are the news.)

This "Fourth branch of the government," about which Cox told his listeners he has "quite a few misgivings," would, or will draw freely upon the other branches of its hierarchy. The chief nut on the fourth branch would undoubtedly be Howard Cosell, but after that the positions are up for grabs.

Choice of a leader for the new group is a tossup between Walter Cronkite and Harry Reasoner. Art Buchwald could handle the equivalent of Secretary of State, Jim Murray would make a good Speaker of the House, and Joe Garagiola could represent surveillance or law, whichever comes first. Dr. Brothers and Eric Sevareid are likely selections for the fourth estate version of Health, Educationa and Welfare. William Buckley would heead the Fourth Estate Un-American Activities Committee, and other editors, columnists and reporters, from Associated Press and United Press International would vie with newscaster and pundits from the TV networks for responsible committee posts.

I think I'll settle for Secretary of Treasure.

Asteroids vary in size

The asteroids that circle the sun range in size from dust particles and sand pebbles to rock chunks as big as Alaska.

Little shrimp

A single shrimp may produce more than a million eggs, but most of the billions of larvae spawned each year never reach adulthood. In their early stages, they starve unless food floats to them, and they make a tasty morself for everything that swims —including older shrimp.

Campaign Committee for McDonald, Sherrin Bentley, Chairman

I have the only DC-10s to both Houston and New Orleans.

I'm Judy and I was born to fly.

I've got a lot going for you to Houston including nonstop DC-10 service twice a day.

And I've got a lot going for you to New Orleans, too. The only DC-10's.

My Houston schedule has daily nonstops, from early in the morning until late at night, including the only DC-10 night coach for $90 one way including tax, a nominal airport security surcharge is extra.

Here's the way it looks:

Lv. Los Angeles (all nonstop)	Ar. Houston
9:10am	2:00pm
2:30pm (DC-10)	7:20pm
1:15am (DC-10 night coach)	6:05am

My New Orleans schedule has the only DC-10 service from Los Angeles, a nonstop every morning, and a money-saving DC-10 night coach.

Here's the way it looks:

Lv. Los Angeles	Ar. New Orleans
9:10am (direct)	3:27pm
10:05am (nonstop DC-10)	3:27pm
2:30pm (direct DC-10)	8:42pm
1:15am (DC-10 night coach)	7:37am

You'll love flying my big, wide-bodied DC-10. It's the most luxurious, comfortable plane in the sky (and the quietest).

With twin aisles, and two-abreast seating throughout (so you're never more than one seat away from the aisle). And multi-channeled stereo entertainment.

Something else, when you're flying to Houston or New Orleans you can fly my Las Vegas Stopover Fare on any flight.

For just $1 more than the regular coach fare you can stop off in Las Vegas. Coming or going. You can't beat the fun in Las Vegas. And you can't beat the value of my $1 Stopover Fare.

Fly me to Houston or New Orleans.

Bill Walton's a vegetarian

No vegetarian should forget that UCLA's big Bill Walton also does his daily duties without benefit of meat dishes.

Am advised Minneapolis and St. Paul are the only sizable towns in the country where the baseball fans prefer hamburgers to hotdogs.

As for birds, before they mate, they court, and before they court, they flirt. All birds flirt. Thus spoke a professor of science to our Love and War man, who was infinitely pleased with the information.

Pregnant

A lot of young men want their girlfriends to become pregnant. Even though they don't want to marry said girlfriends. And even though they don't want to take responsibility for the offspring. Researchers say this peculiarity comes clear in interviews with numerous expectant mothers in maternity homes. Exactly 27 per cent of the unmarried girls interviewed therein said their boyfriends definitely wanted them to get pregnant. But they couldn't explain why. The mental experts think they can explain it, though. Many is the lad, they say, who feels compelled to grow a moustache, get drunk on boilermakers, crack up a car, fight with a lawman, and father a youngster, just to prove once and for all he has passed puberty.

Bauxite

Q. "Do the Australian aborigines own their own land?"

A. Used to. Until somebody discovered bauxite on their property. Then the courts there decided they didn't own the land.

Exactly why the enormous majority of buyers prefer white rather than colored handsoap I just don't know.

Some things are better after the new wears off, after they're broken in, after they've endured a season: Leather boots, a desk chair, rose bushes, asphalt paving, or a tyepwriter. And some things are never better than when they're just unwrapped, diminished not a whit, unmarked by fingerprints and dusk, whistling crisp; A ream of white paper, a bar of soap, a box of bullets, a cord of firewood, or a barnful of baled hay.

You know a hand in bridge that contains no card higher than a nine is called a Yarborough. But do you know why? The second Earl of Yarborough, an English nobleman, bet 1,000 to one just before the turn of the century against the dealing of such a hand.

Your hand is said to be normal if your thumb is as strong as the four fingers opposing it.

California Poll

Hayakawa led, but barred from ballot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Poll said today the State Supreme Court scratched the leading GOP contender in the U.S. Senate race when it barred Dr. S. I. Hayakawa from running as a Republican.

The survey showed Hayakawa "had a clear lead in Republican voter popularity over two other Republican U.S. Senatorial candidates, State Sen. H. Richardson and former State Director of Health and Welfare, Earl Brian," the poll announced.

The poll said the survey was completed just before the court decision barring the Japanese-American educator and before James E. Johnson, former assistant secretary of the Navy, announced he would run for the GOP nomination.

The survey, taken February 2 to 11, disclosed that 51 per cent of the Republicans queried would vote for Hayakawa if the primary were held then. Richardson received 23 per cent and Brian 10.

In a poll of voters of all parties, Hayakawa received 39 per cent of the vote compared to 52 per cent for incumbent Democrat Alan Cranston.

Both Richardson and Brian moved up in the poll of GOP voters when second choice preference of those favoring Hayakawa were allocated to them. Richardson got 44 per cent while Brian had 20 per cent. Undecided voters made up 36 per cent.

Hayakawa took over as president of San Francisco State College five years ago and took a hardline against student and faculty strikers.

He resigned last year and planned to run in the Republican primary after switching his registration from the Democratic Party.

The Supreme Court ruled last Tuesday he failed to comply with a state law that a primary election candidate for the Senate must have been a member of no other party for an additional nine months prior to filing time.

ARCH victor for defense

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "The code word ARCH: Analyze the lead, Review the bidding, Count your winners and losers. How can I make this contract? is also very likely to help the defense if they stop to apply it."

Oswald: "H" becomes How can I beat this contract? Also they seldom get a chance to count both winners and losers, but they certainly can Analyze the lead and Review the bidding."

Jim: "One of the first things bridge players learn is the rule of third hand high. Then they learn when to disregard it."

Oswald: "East analyzes the lead as fourth best. He reviews the bidding and notes that South opened one notrump. East has 10 high-card points as does dummy. That leaves 20 for West and South and since South's bid has shown 16-18 West can't have much. Furthermore, it looks as if his king of diamonds is the only trick the defense can take outside the spade suit."

Jim: "This review and analysis should be made quickly because if East wants to beat the hand he must play his queen; not the ace. If he plays the ace South will hold back his king until the third spade lead. If he plays the queen, South will be afraid to duck and when East gets in with the king of diamonds the spade suit will run."

Entourage of 24,000

An entourage of 24,000—noblemen with their families, servants, plus household goods—accompanied the Empress Elizabeth of Imperial Russia whenever she moved the 400 miles between her palaces at St. Petersburg and Moscow. At her death in 1761, Elizabeth's closets contained 15,000 dresses.

The doctor comments

Constipation woes can strike children

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a little granddaughter who is 3½ years old. She has been given physics most of her life and many enemas. She screams on the stool for as mush as an hour at a time with my daughter or others at her side, either encouraging or demanding that she release it.

My daughter insists that when she is kept on a strict diet that she doesn't have nearly as much trouble. We all try to abide by this, little or no sweets, in order to help the child.

I have watched all this go on for a long period of time. My daughter and other members of the family insist that all this is psychological and my concern is that perhaps it is not.

I am neither a doctor nor a psychologist; but neither are they. In behalf of the child I contend that a physical examination should be made of this area as a first step. Am I wrong?

Will you please advise me, Doctor? I have no one else to turn to without causing family trouble.

DEAR READER — It is an important problem. And, your daughter is probably right in the context that psychological factors can be very important in such cases. However, it really doesn't make any difference whether it is psycholigical or because of some other problem, it does require proper treatment. Usually this is not laxatives and enemas.

The idea that sweets should be limited and the diet should contain more roughage; vegetables, cereals, whole wheat products, is wise. Even a child needs sufficient bulk in the diet for proper funtion of the colon.

It is important to develop good bowel habits early in life but that specifically does not include taking laxatives and enemas. A laxative habit at any age can be harmful. It is just possible that the little girl already has a spastic colon because of her bowel habits and the use of laxatives. And, believe me, that can be painful. This may be why she screams.

Yes, she needs an examination. This might need to include a study of her colon to see how it is functioning. She needs to be put on a diet that will help her more. It may be that she will need a bowel training program, which includes developing regular bowel habits. That means plenty of warm liquids at breakfast and each morning sitting on the commode for 15 minutes. A bowel movement is not necessary.

I think the amount of attention she gets from the present ritual is not conducive to good habits. She should be allowed to go to the bathroom and left there. If she doesn't have a bowel movement, okay, she may have one the next day.

It is not necessary ot have a bowel movement every day. Why don't you encourage your daughter to take her to the doctor and try to develop a good program for her.

For more detailed information about constipation write to me, in care of this newspaper. P.O. Box 1551 Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10022, and ask for the "Constipation" booklet. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

Bowel training can have effects on the psychological reactions of a person later in life. The idea of withholding a bowel movement to punish the parents gets started fairly early in life. The child can reward or punish anxious parents by their actions. Sometimes a child with real severe problems needs help from a child psychologist or psychiatrist.

Christmas Lights

Martin Luther was perhaps the first man to use lights on a Christmas tree. Luther put lights on his tree to represent the glory and beauty of the stars above Bethlehem on the night of Christ's birth.

LOVELY LINEUP—Mary Gonzales, choreographer, rehearses the chorus line for the Chaffey College production of "The Merry Widow." The Franz Lehar operetta will be staged in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. General admission is $1. From left the dancers are Carol Harmer, Roxanne Garrison, Marisa DeJoseph and Linda Page. The show is directed by Ralph Strane, drama instructor.

'The Merry Widow'

Chaffey College to stage

ALTA LOMA — Chaffey College will present Franz Lehar's operetta, "The Merry Widow," in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. Admission is $1.

Lehar wrote "The Merry Widow" in seven days to bridge a three-week open period in the summer season of a Vienna theater where he was director of music. It proved such a success that it played for a year and eventually scored top rating in a debut in New York City. The musical was so appealing to American audiences that at one point six productions were going on at the same time.

"The Merry Widow" has remained popular through the years because of its beautiful music, dancing and comedy.

The operetta tells of the mythical Marsovian Embassy in the Paris of the early 1900's and of the intrigue of courtly romance. Ambassador Popoff is assigned the seemingly impossible task of convincing Marsovian Prince Danilo that he should marry the lovely and wealthy widow Sonia. Popoff is assisted in the matrimonial project by his aide, Nish.

The conspiracy to trap Prince Danilo into marriage is abetted by General Novikovich and Counselor Khadje and wives Olga and Sylvaine.

The prince ultimately forfeits the benefits of bachelorhood in favor of marital and fiscal bliss. The assumption is that the prince and the widow, played by Raymond Slatinsky and Linda Finley, then waltz happily ever after.

Taking the part of the ambassador's aide is Doug Dowd. In the roles of the general, the counselor and their respective spouses are Petr Kowalski, Les Carnahan, Donna Sweeney and Teri Thompson.

The cast, including chorus and dancers, numbers 60.

Director of the Chaffey College presentation of "The Merry Widow" is Ralph Strane, creative arts division chairman. Joyce Shannon is music director; Mary Gonzales, choreographer, and Michael Noll, technical director.

Silent film

CLAREMONT — Buster Keaton stars in "The General," 1927 silent film spoof of the Civil War, to be shown at the Garrison Theater of the Claremont Colleges Saturday at 2 and 8 p.m.

A masterpiece of visual comedy, "The General" contains one of the most sustained and hilarious chase scenes in movie history. William G. Blanchard will accompany the film on the organ.

Tickets are available at Bridges Auditorium office, ticketron agencies and at the Garrison boxoffice before each showing.

Ellis Island shows effect of 20 years abandonment

By BARBARA SLAVIN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ellis Island, the "Golden Door" to America for more than 16 million immigrants, lies boarded up and neglected in New York City's upper bay.

Congress has repeatedly refused funding for rehabilitation of the island, proclaimed a national monument by President Johnson in 1965, and which from 1892 to 1954 served as a self-contained city and reception point for immigrants from every corner of the globe.

The island's 36 brick and stone buildings show the effects of 20 years of abandonment to sea and weather.

"They're deteriorating every day due to the high humidity and considerable vandalism," said Howard Crane, a Parks Service official who administers Ellis Island. "Three or four builidngs are probably beyond redemption."

The recorded history of the island began in the mid-1600's when it was an oyster fishery and picnic ground for wealthy Dutch settlers. Its original name, "Oyster Island," was changed when Samuel Ellis acquired it in the 1790's.

Later, the island was bought by New York State, which sold it to thhe Federal government in 1808 for $10,000 for use as a military garrison and the spot where many notorious pirates were hung.

In 1890, the U.S. Immigration Service moved there, and the first immigrant passed through its facilities on Jan. 1, 1892.

Between 1905 and 1914, nearly 10 million immigrants went through the island. As many as 5,000 a day were ferried from ships in barges to be tagged and lined up for medical and immigration service inspections.

The 30-acre island was equipped with male and female dormitories, a dining hall, and recreation facilities for the average of 10 days immigrants spent there before entering the United States.

"The quarters occupied by detained aliens consist of large, well-lighted, ventilated rooms. Dormitories are of white tile and each person is alloted a single bed with a good quality mattress, pillow, blankets and linen," wrote Cyprian Shandowsky, a U.S. Immigration Service interpreter, in his 1932 personal and unofficial history of Ellis Island.

Mrs. Minnie Eisenberg, now of Brooklyn, N.Y., was 16 years old when she arrived at Ellis Island in 1912 from Warsaw, Poland, and remembers it differently.

"I was sleeping on a bare bed with no sheets or blankets," Mrs. Eisenberg said. "There was a lot of people there but I was young, and I didn't care. I just wanted to get to America." After Congress imposed rigid quota restrictions in the early 1920's, immigration slowed to a trickle, and by 1930 Ellis Island was used mainly as a deposit for "undersirable aliens" awaiting deportation.

By 1954, the Immigration Service decided that it had no further use for the island and gave it back to the Federal government's General Services Administration.

Eskimos do well on test of abstract

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eskimos possess extraordinary abstract reasoning ability, more advanced than most preindustrial peoples, University of Chicago researchers have found.

The latest issue of Human Behavior magazine reports the findings by two University researchers of a nonlanguage test to measure the ability to reason abstractly.

Carol Feldman said Eskimos scored similarly to rural children in Illinois. This finding was "extraordinary" because people in preindustrial societies routinely score below average on standard Western measures.

Feldman said the scores "showed what we were looking for—human adaptability."

Co-researcher R. Darrel Bock said the high abilities of the Eskimos "bodes well for their future. Periods of radical change may lie ahead, for the traditional hunting way of life is being rapidly replaced by a cash economy," he said.

Ex-priest lobbying to regain voting rights of ex-convicts

By ROLAND LINDSEY

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Saying his best lobbyists are still behind bars, former priest Charles Sullivan is leading a campaign to get voting rights restored for ex-convicts.

Sullivan, a boyish looking Alabaman who moved to Texas after quitting the priesthood in 1969 and took up the cause of prison reform, is leader of a group called Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errants—or CURE.

The group sponsors regular bus trips to carry inmates' families to state and federal prison units for visits. He is trying to convince delegates to the Constitutional Convention to adopt a provision that would return voting rights to felons as soon as they are released from prison.

At present, Sullivan said, CURE has about 1,500 members, and more than half of them are prisoners who aren't even permitted to communicate with Sullivan or his wife, a former nun.

The prisoners can, however, write directly to their state legislators without having their mail censored, Sullivan said, and are doing so very effectively in support of the voting rights proposal.

The convention committee on Rights and Suffrage three times has turned down the voting rights for felons proposal. The question now goes to the full Constitutional Convention, where it is scheduled for debate Friday.

"It's still an uphill battle, but I think the telegrams and letters from prisoners and their families are softening some of them up," Sullivan said.

"We can't incorporate our organization because our best lobbyists are in prison," Sullivan said. "They are the ones who get their families involved. We hope we can eventually incorporate and have prisoners on our board of directors and even have meetings, but at present they cannot even write us and we cannot write them."

Sullivan does send a publication of his group to prisoners whose families suggest it, however, and now has more than 800 on his mailing list. The publication encourages prisoners to write their legislators on the voting and other prison reform issues.

"Our problem is we're writing letters to people that already agree with us," he said. "Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Houston, gets about 100 letters a week from prisoners, and he's already with us all the way. What we've got to do is work on people from rurals areas and from conservative urban areas."

Sullivan and his wife receive no pay for their work with CURE, and live on a $200 a month salary they jointly receive from the American Friends Service Committee for operating the bus service for prisoners' families.

"People are usually surprised at our financial situation," Sullivan said. "I think there's definitely a religious nature in how we live. It's very simple because we lived in the clergy and in a convent."

Sullivan said his group is making progress toward convincing rural conservative legislators that ex-convicts should be permitted to vote.

"I never thought that it would be such an asset to have a southern accent, be white and dress pretty straight," he said. "And I think my religious background helps. I find the conservatives are very direct and I like that."

Still Westward Ho! but . . .

Some of migration now going south

By United Press International

Many Americans in search of a new life still heed Horace Greeley's advice of more than a century ago to "go West, young man." But a growing number are turning to a resurgent South in which to settle.

Population experts report that westward migration has accelerated remarkably in recent years, attracted by new industries, wide open spaces and the benefits of a cleaner envrionment than the industrialized Eastern states.

California still is the most popular, but Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Idaho, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas are sharing in the new settlers in the West, and Georgia and North Carolina in the South.

Heavily industrialized Michigan reports a drain in migrants the past three years, and Illinois migration picture showed it was about zero.

California's Population Research Unit estimates 100,000 more Americans made their homes there in 1973. Officials project net migration will remain at about the same figure up until the year 2000 when the state's population is expected to reach 29.2 million.

A big moving company said that last year it transported 20,460 families into California, and 15,895 out of the state.

One-third of those who left moved to states where lifestyles are what many had sought in California, but had become caught up in the sunny state's sprawling urbanization.

Dr. James Weiss, director for the Center on Population and Census in Oregon, said the state had a net migration in 1973 of 32,000, but the total population of 2,224,900 has remained almost stable.

"I think more than anything, people realize that Oregon is one of the cleanest states in the Union," he said, referring to a host of measures to keep the landscape clean.

Washington state has been hit in recent years by the aerospace slump and the effects on the big Boeing plant there.

John Walker, chief of Washington's Population and Enrollment Office, said that 10,600 persons were listed as moving out of the state in 1973, lower than the two previous years.

Arizona's population grew fastest in the nation by 16.1 per cent to 2,085,000 in the first three years of this decade, with migration accounting for 212,000 of the total.

The growth is attributed by state officials to the boom in retirement communities in the state where winters are sunny and mild and the lifestyle casual.

But it is not without a price. The major cities of Phoenix and Arizona are becoming clogged. Street, sewage and water facilities lag far behind population increases

Many obstacles to final Syrian agreement

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Syria figures her 1973 war losses in the billions of dollars.

She is under intense pressure not only by the super-powers but by Egypt as well to reach agreement with Israel on a disengagement of forces on the Golan Heights.

But despite this, and despite whatever early successes may be achieved by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in his shuttle trips between Damascus and Jerusalem, final agreement may be hard to come by.

There are several reasons for it.

Economically, the Golan Heights have little value, comprising some 500 square miles of land suitable for little more than olive trees and sheep grazing. But they are a matter of national pride to the Syrians who are determined to win them back.

Syria lost territory in the 1973 fighting. Egypt showed some gains and thus could claim at least a moral victory.

Syrian President Hafez Assad insists that disengagement must be only the first step in an Israeli withdrawal. A further condition is the return of 170,000 refugees driven, according to the Syrians, from the heights in the fighting of 1967 and 1973.

Syria spends between a quarter and a half of her national budget on military outlays but despite the heavy burden the Syrian people appear to support the government's determination to regain the lost territory. In some ways the country is in better shape now to fight than it was at the outbreak of the October, 1973, war.

President Assad speaks with considerably less authority than Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who can reach his own decisions and make them stick. Assad rules over an uncertain coalition of members of his own Baathist party, Socialists, Communists and Nasserites.

A further contrast lies in economic development plans of the two countries.

Egypt is counting heavily upon Western investment to help restore the Suez canal to use, in reconstruction of cities in the canal zone and resettlement of the Sinai.

The Syrians are counting mostly on the rich, oil-producing Arab states.

Kuwait is contributing some $600 million.

Saudi Arabia has pledged $2.2 billion.

Abu Dhabi has promised to finance a new oil refinery.

Although Israeli bombing heavily damaged Syria's main refinery at Homs and her Mediterranean tanker terminals at Banias and Tartus, she scarcely has felt the energy shortage. A rationing program was abandoned after two weeks.

Her only big Western loan is $73 million from the U.S.

Because veterans have traditionally been successful at Cal Poly, Pomona, you as a veteran and a California resident, will receive special consideration for admission. Our experience at Cal Poly, Pomona indicates that it is not necessary to apply regular admissions criteria when considering the admission of a veteran. Rather, our primary question is: Are you ready to pursue a university education? Because our concern involves maturity and motivation, each case is considered individually on its own merits.

Individual counseling is available to all veterans through the office of veterans' affairs. If necessary, tutoring can be arranged, and paid for in addition to your regular benefits. For the average veteran regular benefits will be received in cash amounts as shown below, and assistance is provided in filing the necessary forms to receive these benfits.

Wig shop to help leukemia victim, 11, facing hair loss

Our grandson, 11, has leukemia.

In April he will have radiation treatments and the doctor tells us he will lose all his hair. That, along with his being so sick, would be just too much for a little boy so we have promised to get him a wig.

Can you give us the name of a wig maker who does that kind of work?

Expense is quite an item at this point, too.

I hope you can help. —A.E., Pomona.

Hamilton Brewart, owner of the House of 1001 Wigs at 285 E. Ninth St., Upland, told us that a custom made wig would be expensive.

He suggested that you take the boy to his place of business before he has the radiation treatments. He believes he may be able to fit him with a ready made wig with a small cap.

The price range he gave us was a very low one.

I took my son to a clinic on Dec. 3, 1973. Staff members ran some tests on him that day.

On Dec. 12 I took insurance papers into the clinic. Around the end of the month I received a bill for $22.05.

I had another appointment on Jan. 3. On that day I went to the desk to pay my bill in full.

The woman at the desk called to pediatrics for the charges. I was told they were $34.65. This is the amount I paid.

On Feb. 13 I received a bill for $52.50 for a pediatric consultation. I called the clinic to see if a mistake had been made. I told the woman I talked with that on Jan. 3 I had asked what the full charges were and was told just $34.65. She said this was a mistake and that I did owe the $52.50 for just talking to the doctor.

The insurance company will pay only $24.55 of that amount.

When I first went to the clinic in December I was never told or saw the price of anything charged. I never thought to ask, either, so now I can see I made a big mistake.

At no time did I ask to have a consultation with the doctor. On the first visit in December my son and I were taken to the examining room. When the doctor came in, he asked me to go to his office to talk and left my son in the room by himself. He also at no time told me about any charges of $52.50 or any amount for a consultation.

I honestly think that $52.50 for just talking to a doctor is a ridiculous amount to pay and that the patient or parents be made aware of the charges beforehand. —K.D., Claremont.

We were unable to get a reduction of the fee of $52.50 listed on your second bill for a pediatric consultation.

Joseph E. Steinmetz, assistant administrator of Magan Medical Clinic in Covina, told us that the pediatrician had apparently turned in his bill in January instead of December.

He followed up our conversation with a letter and itemized bill that showed the two visits including laboratory work cost a total of $87.15.

Steinmetz said that the $52.50 charge represented an interview with you and a complete physical examination of your child.

"These charges are correct and charged at our usual and customary clinic fees," he wrote.

Four months ago I sent a label from a can of B and M Beans, a product we use quite often, with $3.95 for a baked bean pot.

The check was cashed the same month. As I didn't hear from the company, I wrote a letter but received no answer.

I would like the bean pot or a refund. —Mrs. J. M., Pomona.

We wrote to the address where you had sent your check and label. Six weeks later you and we were notified you would receive both a bean pot and a gift pack in appreciation for your loyalty and patience.

The firm, William Underwood Co., explained that the outside supplier engaged to handle redemptions had not provided the expected service.

Your bean pot arrived, along with two cans of baked beans and a can of brown bread.

Project will remove Valley Blvd. curves

POMONA — Valley Boulevard is about to lose some of its curves.

That 1.5-mile section between Pomona Boulevard and Grand Avenue will be realigned and widened to handle an increased volume of traffic.

Officials hope to start construction by summer and have the project completed by December. The total cost is estimated at $1.7 million.

About half of the project site is within the City of Pomona. The remainder is in the unincorporated county area, Walnut and the City of Industry.

"We have been trying to accomplish this road work since 1968," said Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire. Valley Boulevard, he explained, is a major artery serving Mt. San Antonio College, Frank G. Bonelli Regional Park, and an industrial area.

It also provides a major link between Pomona, Walnut, Industry and La Puente.

Getting the project started resulted from recent meetings held by Lepire and Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum

"This is a prime area to the city's industrial and commercial development. The project will make the area more accessible," said Lepire.

At present, Valley Boulevard is 45 feet wide and has four travel lanes, said Ed James, Pomona's city engineer. "The street is too narrow and the roadway is in bad condition."

Officials propose to widen this section to 100 feet, with the wider four travel lanes divided by a center island.

When completed, it will be able to handle 10,000 vehicles per day. The present count is 5,500 vehicles per day.

Pomona's portion of the cost is estimated at $750,000, with $250,000 coming from the county, $250,000 from city funds and $250,000 from state and federal funds.

"The county has agreed to advance Pomona $250,000 as its portion of aid-to-city funds," said Lepire. "This will be paid back over a two-year period."

Safety conference report is scheduled

Abandoned house funds sought from government

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A Poman Valley delegation met today with U.S. Department of Labor officials about getting federal funding for the Valley Association of Cities (VAC), a nine-city effort against abandoned housing.

"They were sincerely receptive," Mayor Ray J. Lepire reported. He added that a final decision on the request for funds will be made at the department's regional office in San Francisco.

The four are in Washington in conjunction with their attendance at the eighth annual Congressional City Conference co-sponsored by the National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

The valley representatives met earlier in the day with the league's California delegation and also were expected to get together today with Rep. Jerry Pettis, R-33rd Dist., and possibly Senators John V. Tunney and Alan Cranston.

Lepire said he would talk to Pettis to oppose federal legislation on overtime pay for firemen the mayor said would be an added cost of some $2 million for Pomona city government over a five-year period. The legislation also is being opposed by the California Fire Chief Association.

The valley delegation also will meet with representatives from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

At an organizational meeting Friday, VAC's board of directors voted to apply for some $149,000 in federal funds to pay for the organization's multi-faceted fight against abandoned units for a six-month period. Lepire was authorized to represent VAC in Washington.

Cautious council wants more info

Two-tree removal bid must wait

POMONA — Memories of recent controversies stirred up over the destruction of mature trees are still fresh in the minds of city officials and as a result, City Hall is proceeding with extreme caution before allowing two more trees to be removed...

Mel Bunnell Chevrolet, 363 E. Holt Ave., has requested city permission to remove two mature camphor trees from a parkway in front of a residence at 358 E. Pasadena St.

E. L. Cortese, service manager, said the removal is part of a plan to expand parking facilities for the body department. The plan includes paving, erection of a concrete block wall and landscaping.

The Parks and Recreation Commission held a hearing on the removal Feb. 14 but no opposition was voiced from citizens.

"These are the only two trees remaining on the south side of the street and they do not fit into the planned decor of the nicely planned landscaping of this commercial use," Parks and Recreation Director Jack Hoxsey worte in his recommendation for approval to the City Council.

After receiving the recommendation last Monday, the council declined to act on it, saying additional information is needed.

"We all know what happens when you start monkeying around with trees," remarked Councilman Charles W. Bader.

Bader had just been elected to the council in 1971 when a dispute arose over the proposed removal by the city of two old and stately magnolia trees on N. San Antonio Avenue. Those trees were saved. Subsequently, two other controversies arose over the removal of trees on Gordon Street and at the site of the Pomona Financial Center.

Councilman Adrian T. Wright said he figures the two trees on Pasadena are 50 years old and that it would not make sense to tear the trees down unless they are causing damage.

A resident, Ed Harrison, suggested that every time a tree is taken out the city require it be replaced with a tree — the same age.

The council held the matter over to March 18 to give Hoxsey time to come up with a more detailed explanation.

City Engineer Edward R. James said the public works department had no objection to the removal as long as the trees were replaced with the type of landscaping existing along the remainder of the south side of Pasadena.

"There are a large number of camphor trees along the north side of Pasadena, and the removal and relandscaping described will not detract from the aesthetics of the neighborhood," said James.

"These two trees have been root pruned and the sidewalk has been replaced on many occasions. Sufficient room no longer remains to care for these trees and the use of this residential property for commercial purposes is reason for approval," wrote Hoxsey.

After the Gordon Street dispute, the city tightened up on a procedure requiring that public notice be given on proposals for the removal of specimen trees.

Walnut school bonds rate 'Yes'

Voters in the Walnut Valley Unified School District Tuesday should vote "yes" on a proposed issue of $5 million in bonds to finance construction of new classrooms.

Voting "yes" on the bond proposal is a sound investment in the community's future. Construction of new space cannot be put off—as it is, even with passage of the proposal, the district must plan next year to cope with more students than it can house. This is the regrettable result of state restrictions on school construction.

Overconfidence is the worst danger facing the district in this important election. With a two-thirds majority required for passage, the bond election depends on every voter going to the pollls to vote "yes."

Mrs. Gibbs best for Citrus board

There appears to be very little public interest in Tuesday's special election in Claremont to fill the community's seat on the Citrus College board of trustees. There has been a vacancy on the board since the resignation of Ralph Lewis, who moved out of the district.

Of the five candidates running for the position we believe that Mrs. Margaret Gibbs is the best prepared and qualified candidate. Mrs. Gibbs has had many years of community service, including a term as a member of the Claremont City Council. She would add stature to the board and give Claremont the kind of representation it deserves.

'Yes' on Upland tax measures

The two revenue measures on the Upland ballot on Tuesday are worthy of citizen support. The first, a general tax hike of 5.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, would raise $44,000 to implement a much needed new police retirement system that eliminate inequities in the present system. This would enable the city to maintain and improve its effective police services.

The second, a $2.5 million water bond issue, would require only a modest water rate hike but no increases in taxes. It would allow the construction of two 10-million-gallon storage tanks that would expand water services to cope with growth in the northern portion of the city and boost reserves during possible rolling blackouts.

From unbelievable to commonplace

A little more than 16 years after the headlines announced the amazing fact that a manmade satellite circled the earth, the return of the astronauts of Skylab 3 from a record 84 days in orbit was not deemed newsworthy enough to pre-empt scheduled afternoon soap operas.

In less than two decades of space exploration, the unbelievable has become the commonplace—a tribute both to human ingenuity and to our ability to weave the most incredible changes into the ordinary fabric of our lives.

In 1972, for example, the Mariner 9 space probe photo-mapped the entire planet of Mars (something that has not yet been done for earth), enabling scientists to construct the first photomosaic globe of another planet using pictures beamed back over millions of miles of space.

A similar globe for Venus appears unlikely. Photographs taken by another probe, Mariner 10, as it swept by that planet a few weeks ago revealed no break in its solid cloud cover, though patterns that showed up in the photographs will tell much about the dynamic of earth's nearest planetary neighbor.

Even as Mariner 10 sped inward toward the sun, Pioneer 10 crossed the orbit of Jupiter, experiencing a close call in that planet's enormously strong magnetic field, on its journey beyond the solar system itself.

Next planet to undergo the electronic scrutiny of men will be Mercury, when Mariner 10 flies by on March 29 to take the first close-up photographs of this planet that is closest to the sun.

Radar observations of Mercury made by astronomers at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory suggest that it is dotted with hills and valleys, plus some large craters, among a number of "intriguing" shapes and features. Mariner 10 may tell us what they are, and possibly how they came to be.

Thus in less than two decades, men have gone from tossing grapefruit-sized satellites into orbit around the earth to plumbing the inner-and outermost depths of the entire solar system.

Since the glory days when it had almost unlimited funds at its disposal, the space program has shrunk to a shadow of its former self. Yet it continues to rack up accomplishments that are no less amazing for having become routine, and continues adding impressively to our knowledge about the universe we live in.

Oil allocation program mismanaged

WASHINGTON — We have uncovered evidence that unscrupulous brokers are selling oil on the black market for staggering profits. This is added to the soaring prices that the consumers must pay as they shiver in underheated homes and wait in long gas lines.

Our investigation has taken us from the backrooms of Washington to the oil-rich shiekhdoms of the Middle East. We found plenty of oil available, but the distribution has been thrown out of whack by bumbling bureaucrats and greedy middlemen.

In Saudi Arabia, we were told that the Arabs are pumping more oil than came out of the Middle East a year ago. At the American Petroleum Institute, we learned that gasoline in U.S. storage tanks exceeds the level last year at this time.

Why, then, do motorists have to line up for gas and pay exorbitant prices?

Inside sources tell us that the oilmen are keeping their storage tanks full—some say as a hedge against future shortages, others say as a holdout for higher prices.

Whatever the reason, the result is that there's less gas available at the pumps.

The federal allocation program has also been badly mismanaged. The federal energy wizards failed to determine, on a regional basis, the extent of gas scarcity and the availability of supply. They made no real attempt to monitor the flow of gas in or out of the 10 regions.

The gas was allocated, therefore, using fragmented and sometimes inaccurate information.

The Federal Energy Office also used 1972 as the base period for calculating the allocations. But the population growth and the travel patterns have changed. A large number of gas stations, particularly in low-income neighborhoods, have also closed. None of these factors were taken into account.

The fast-buck boys, meanwhile, have taken advantage of the oil panic to buy bootleg oil abroad and resell it at a premium to American wholesalers. They do business by telephone and Telex, demanding cash in the bank before they will complete a deal.

Some oil vultures operate outside the law, bribing government officials in the oil-producing countries. Most black-market oil comes from Indonesia, libya, Nigeria, Rumania and Venezuela—less from the Persian Gulf states.

For a supertanker full of crude, a broker can clear up to $5 million above the market price. Smaller tankers yield around $1 million for the middlemen.

Black marketeers operating on the West Coast, for instance, bought oil in Rumania and refined it in Italy. They demanded up to $25 a barrel.

A large volume of black-market petroleum is processed in Italian refineries. The probable reason, say our sources, is that Italy has surplus refining capacity. But this has led to whispers, which our sources cannot verify, that the Mafia has moved into the oil brokerage business.

Despite plentiful petrolum, meanwhile, many Americans are forced to pay bootleg prices for their gasoline.

Footnote: An American Petroleum Institute spokesman denied that oil companies are hoarding stocks. Industry sources admitted, however, that some gasoline is held back because it is difficult to obtain.

Yet the major oil companies have refused to purchase available crude oil on the world market, claiming government regulations make it unprofitable. Our sources suggest that the oil companies also fear a flood of foreign oil would drive gasoline prices down.

The Federal Energy Office acknowledged that its information was incomplete at the time allocations were made. The agency is now trying to make adjustments. A spokesman also noted that all oil entering the United States is checked by Customs. Therefore, he claimed, all imported gas is subject to the federal allocation plan.

PAUL HARVEY

The next President better be tough

I do not know who will be the next President of the United States, but whoever he is, he'd better be tough. I don't know anything more than you do about those kidnapers, East and West. But from having studied the voluminous communications from them during the kidnapings—I'm referring particularly to the Hearst case in California and the Murphy case in Georgia—and from reading those communications and listening to those "negotiation" tapes, I would guess that the kidnapers in both cases were hopheads, at least, and probably hallucinating.

And that is scary. Because a handful of drug addicts you can count on your fingers may influence the course of United States history.

Our wonderful land of the free is going to be less free. Recent Supreme Court decisions favoring lawmen over lawless men resulting from the street and campus riots of the Sixties are just a sample.

Upcoming high court decisions will be influenced by these irresponsible characters, left and right. And the selection of the next President of the United States is now very likely to reflect a renewed public demand for toughness.

The rights of all Americans—including the decent, self-disciplined, behaving Americans—will be abridged because some few who are free don't deserve to be. Atty. Gen. William Saxbe says, "Political kidnapers should be executed."

This is the highest law officer in the U.S. government. He says terrorists must receive no amnesty; they've proved worldwide that they will do as much evil as they can get away with. So, he says, kill 'em!

And the frightened-for-its-life American electorate says "Amen!" In recent weeks we've seen a graphic demonstration of how extremists on the left, who get away with it, beget extremists on the right—with the nonviolent majority trapped in the merciless crossfire.

And when the California kidnapers were still professing to be concerned about food for poor people, some of us who have been poor could not imagine anyone accepting free food under such circumstances.

But sure enough some did. Then the Hearst daughter kidnapers went on to clarify the real nature of their ignominous mission—an effort to spring from prison two of their own kind.

Similarly, the Atlanta kidnapers asked for money but they also demanded that every federal official resign and new elections be held. They objected to what they called "left-wing bias" by the news media.

That criticism, to a degree is a valid criticism, now has been profaned and discredited by their ugly, intemperate, illegal overaction. If there's anything the lunatics, left and right, should not want, it's a police state which will not tolerate any political deviation. But they're asking for it.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . letters

Government hiring

Sen. Cranston is proposing the government hire another half million people to help prevent a recession. It is amazing how Congress in every economic situation finds an excuse to hire more people.

The hiring and spending proposals are not too difficult to understand. Most of us can find endless reasons to increase our spending. Unfortunately we have limits to our income and must curtail wilder impulses. Government does not seem to have this problem. If our variety of taxes won't cover, there is always deficit spending. These deficits are badly hampering efforts to control inflation; however, very little deters our Congress from meeting our every need—real imaginary, or created. After all, spending is good for votes. Those who receive are grateful; those who pay are told it is absolutely necessary or better still that the rich will pay. It isn't explained that rich is defined as anyone above the poverty level.

What bothers me is government's insatiable desire to do more when it obviously can't handle the job. I notice that after endless talking and accusing Congress usually turns the job over to the President with instructions to do the best he can. This provides someone to blame when the outcome is not ideal. It also leaves a lot of people confused and depressed not to mention broke. Perhaps we should take Gov. Reagan's suggestion to reduce the amount government can spend on our behalf. Who knows, with less cumbersome money to disperse, Congress may reduce government activity to a practical level and one conducive to honesty. Without all the excess agitation the other problems may just disappear.

Cranston's proposal sounds plausible and humanitarian. Few would disagreee with his concern for those unemployed by economic upheavals. Unfortunately, this plan has been tried with countless variations and hasn't worked. A country's economic health including jobs available depends on its ability to produce salable goods and services at a price that people will pay. It is not improved by making half a million potentially productive people nonproductive — probably permanently. Government created jobs seldom disappear. Congress has repeatedly tried to prevent unemployment by creating nonproductive jobs and unemployment persists. In countries more concerned with producing what people want to buy, unemployment is not a problem. Perhaps time has come for our leaders to take note.

Strong exception must be taken to one final point in the Senator's proposal. He implies the additional hiring won't really cost anything. Only a congressman could believe that line.

Gossip for today

A lot of women are undoubtedly going to feel mighty sorry for themselves when they learn it is now estimated that the average housewife, were she being paid for her homework, would be earning a salary of $12,140 a year.

But even though they aren't getting paid for those homemaking efforts, they can at least take patriotic pride in the fact that they are not undermining this country's well being like some of the liberated career women they may be envying.

On that score they have the word of an aspiring Congressman who contends that, since energy consumption is increased because of the affluence resulting from two jobs per family, it is wives working in the business world who have almost doubled our per capita energy consumption. —And furthermore, if it is any consolation, statistics also prove that housewives live longer than career girls.

INSIDE REPORT

Mondale tests water in Calif.

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

LOS ANGELES — A week-long expedition to California by Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota as a potential presidential candidate, unexciting and largely unnoticed, was most remarkable in his decision not to seek out the 1972 McGovernites now frantic over the rise of Sen. Henry M. Jackson.

Such a quest would not have won much anyway. Fatcats who bankrolled Sen. George McGovern in 1972 have recently committed themselves privately to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for 1976. But even if they were available, Mondale would not have been camping on their Beverly Hills doorsteps. At this early date he is consciously seeking a base broader than just McGovernite ideologues.

That is what makes Mondale an important option for the Democratic party despite his deficiencies in money, organization and charisma. With his Senate voting record more liberal than either Kennedy's or McGovern's, Mondale is acceptable to the left if Kennedy does not run. Yet, he is seeking to avoid the ideological sectarianism that destroyed McGovern.

Mondale's visit here coincided with rising concern over Jackson's progress by well-heeled activists in the old California peace movement who can never forgive Jackson for the Vietnam war. Most influential and most generous of these is retired computer tycoon Max Palevsky, who contributed heavily to McGovern and is prepared to do the same for Kennedy.

But during seven days in California, Mondale did not make a pilgrimage to Palevsky's hilltop house in Bel Air. Nor did he visit other McGovernite millionaires. The one Beverly Hills contributor Mondale sought out, Lawrence Weinberg, is considered a Jackson man.

Concentrated on labor

Moreover, Mondale made no contact with any segment of the old McGovern apparatus. He concentrated on seeing labor leaders and other Democrats who backed his Minnesota colleague, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, against McGovern in the 1972 California primary.

What Mondale wants to avoid above all is any identification as the heir of McGovernism. At a reception in Palo Alto, Mondale winced when an admiring liberal compared his present lowly position to McGovern's in 1970. A few minutes later at the same reception, Mondale (once considered Mr. Busing in the Senate) was less than overjoyed when a Stanford law professor commended his unvarying support of school integration.

In his speeches here, Mondale avoided party-splitting issues such as school busing and concentrated on party-unifying economic issues and attacks on President Nixon's refusal to cooperate with the special Watergate prosecutor.

One such speech, before a Democratic state central committee luncheon, helped diminish Mondale's unwanted reputation for total boredom achieved during past visits to California. One Democratic activist, claiming she had not managed to stay awake through previous Mondale speeches, contended Mondale is too much the Midwestern hayseed for California Democratic tastes. "A guy who wears Thom McAn shoes can never make it here," she told us.

But she stayed awake this time, explaining after the speech: "I've changed my mind about him a little." Working hard to spice up his oratory, Mondale has added a routine of self-deprecating humor (revealing the rule that Minnesota must always have a presidential candidate) and an eloquent demand that Mr. Nixon be subject to the law ("He is not a king!" Mondale concludes).

Fails to impress executive

That night, however, Mondale lapsed into mind-numbing banalities at a fund-raising dinner for Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin attended by major corporate and bipartisan figures. "If that young fellow talked as good as he looks, he'd be something," one corporation executive grumbled. "He doesn't seem to be presidential timber to me."

Indeed, Mondale's week here stirred little interest among Democratic politicians, preoccupied with the hot race for governor. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, another presidential hopeful arriving here just before Mondale, seemed to win considerably more praise. In particular, one prominent Democratic leader was raving about Bentsen as a rare Senator with genuine managerial talents.

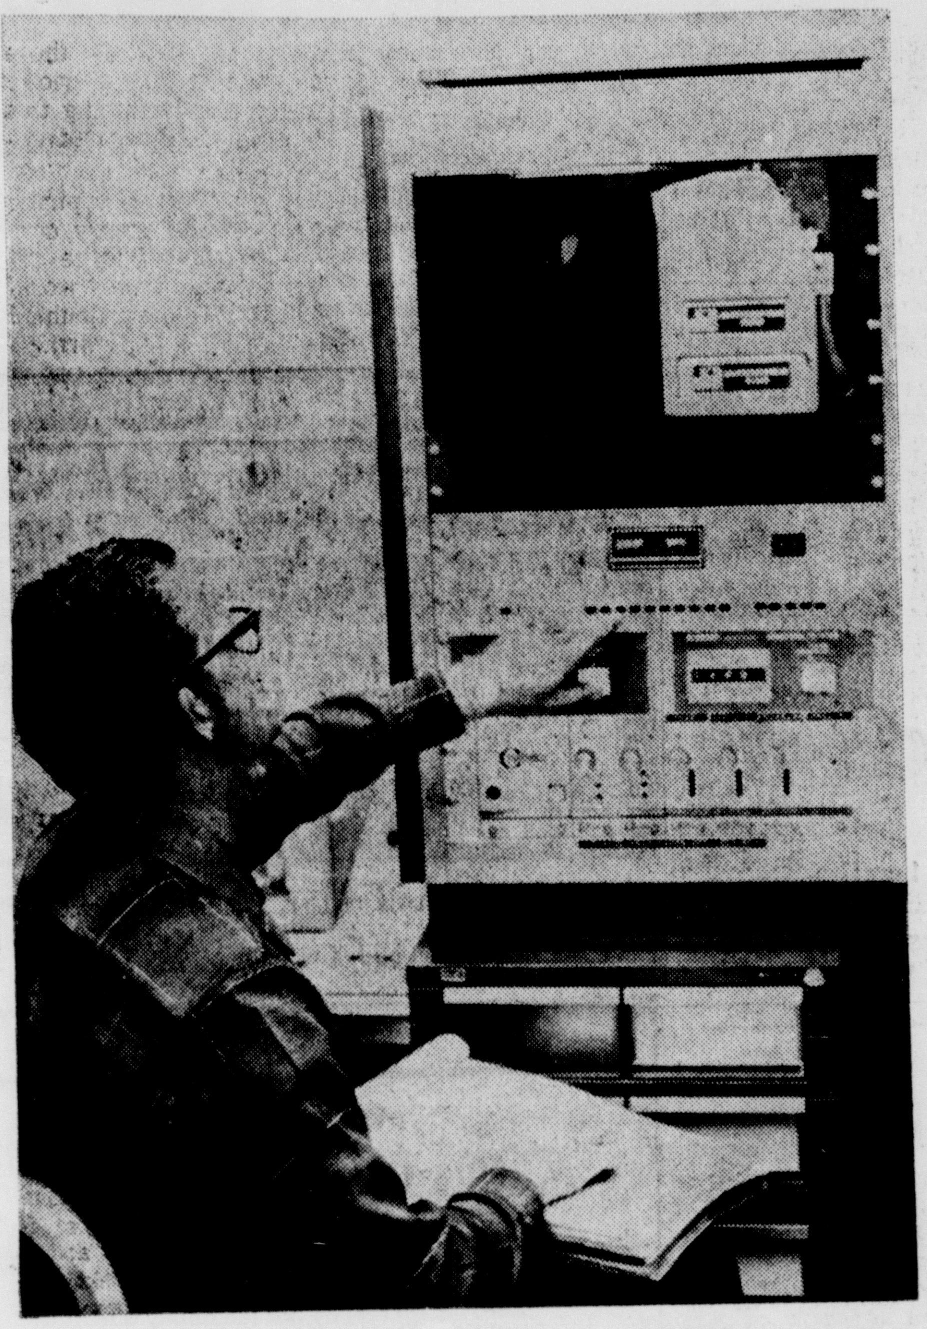
Local weather forecasting gets boost with Kaiser Steel station



SCANNING THE WEATHER

Robert F. Holtz of Kaiser Steel Co.'s environmental quality control staff adjusts a newly installed automatic weather monitoring device located at the Fontana plant.

FONTANA — A newly installed computerized weather station at the Kaiser Steel Co. plant here has increased the accuracy of local weather measurements.

The device is a meteorological monitor located in the environmental quality control building. It's coupled to weather-sensing instruments located on top of the building and also on a tower which rises 70 feet above the plant's 16-story-high, sheet-galvanizing building.

Information from the devices assists many local and Southern California agencies, said Robert F. Holtz of the environmental quality control staff.

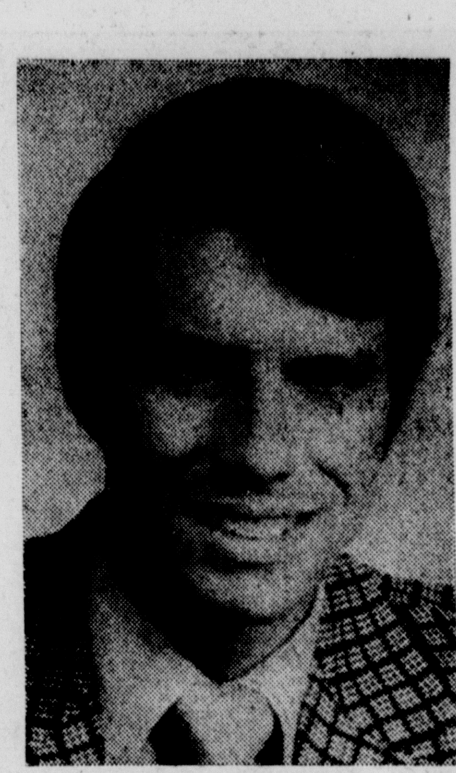
"Kaiser Steel is situated in the middle of the Santa Ana wind belt. Both Ontario and Los Angeles airports frequently telephone us for wind speed indication. Kaiser also provides the data to the Rialto Airport on a regular basis.

"From the 16-story tower, we receive wind direction and velocity information. The instruments on our own building provide us with statistics on relative humidity, barometric pressure, temperature and precipitation levels," he added.

The meteorological monitor records information from the weather-sensing devices on both perforated tape and a teletype printout. The printout is used for ready reference.

"The real beauty of the system is that it not only eliminates human error but also reduces man-hours involved in paperwork. Years of reading can be stored on tapes.

"Whenever we get a call from an airport, insurance agency, local industry, news media or anyone who needs the data we can give them accurate information from either the teletype printout or the computer," said Holtz.



HUGH D. FREEMAN of Chino has been promoted to district manager for Pacific Finance Loans. He will supervise 10 offices in Southern California, including two in Pomona and one each in Montclair and Upland. His office is at 437 E. Holt Ave., Pomona. Freeman joined the firm in November, 1966, as a branch representative. He later managed offices in Lancaster and Pomona. He and his wife, Carolyn, have two children.

Orange crop doing well despite dry February

SAN BERNARDINO — Farmers had no help last month from the weather.

Little rain and dry, gusty winds posed a threat to dryland grain plantings and pastures, said county agriculture officials.

Gusty winds further depleted soil moisture, causing a return to irrigation schedules. Only a trace of rain was recorded in the San Bernardino area on Feb. 20.

Despite drying conditions, the navel orange crop continued to be of "excellent" quality and larger than normal in size, officials added.

The harvest, however, is nearing completion for one of the shortest crops in recent years.

Workers increased their picking of lemons during February, with the harvest expected to continue into spring. The quality of fruit showed improvement over previous crops.

"Bud formations are developing under the influence of favorable weather conditions," announced Warren Burr, assistant agricultural commissioner. "New estimates show an increase of five boxes per acre."

Officials had previously estimated the lemon crop yield at 253 field boxes per acre. All 2,482 acres of yielding lemon groves are in the West End of San Bernardino County.

In other crops, pruning and spraying of deciduous fruit trees and vines are near termination; first cutting of alfalfa hay is under way; barley and oats are being cut for green feed; and dry onion plantings continue.

State approves of $58,000 aid for O-M school project

ONTARIO — An amount of $58,000 has been approved by the State Department of Education for an Ontario-Montclair School District project designed to allow trainable mentally retarded children to develop to the best of their ability skills that will suit them for real life experiences.

The project, "A Chance To Be Children," a unique program using the learning center approach to teach trainable mentally retarded students, will be implemented in September at Linda Vista School.

Mrs. Jeanne McMillan, principal of the school, will be the director of the project which was written by the teaching staff at Linda Vista School under the direction of Mrs. Darlene Gray, Miss Dianna Zets and Mrs. McMillan.

In programs created individually for each child's needs, students at Linda Vista will use learning centers that provide for motor learning, sensory perception, self-help skills, visual perception, auditory perception, communication, preacademic learning and workshop activities.

Student progress will be measured by recording individual mastery of the selected skills within each area.

OPARC puts stress on 'Citizen'

ONTARIO — The Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens (OPARC) has substituted the word "Citizens" for "Children" as part of its name in keeping with national trends to recognize that a retarded individual is a citizen and is often an adult contributing to the life of a community.

The name change became official at a recent meeting of OPARC. During the meeting past presidents were awarded lifetime OPARC memberships and officers were installed.

Local people receiving life memberships were Mrs. Ernest Keechler, Mrs. Libby Swartz, Mrs. Dorothy Weeks, Keith Mulrooney and Steve Ramaley, all of Claremont; Mrs. Irving Mandel of Ontario; Mrs. Harold Joss and Harold Rizner, both of Upland; and Mrs. Del Reid of Pomona.

New officers of the organization are Mat Castellaw of Upland, president; George Underhill of Claremont, vice president; Lee Lucas of Upland, treasurer, and Mrs. Reid of Pomona, secretary.

Applicants for human relations position sought

ONTARIO — Applicants to fill a position on the Ontario Community Relations Commission are being sought, according to Mayor Howard J. Snider.

An Ontario resident is appointed to the nine-member commission by the mayor with the approval of the City Council. Commissioners serve a three-year term.

The Community Relations Commission was created by the City Council in 1971. Among the duties of the commission members are promoting mutual understanding and respect among racial, religious and ethnic groups in Ontario; to cooperate with community agencies engaged in serving human needs; and to receive and investigate complaints concerning community tensions and acts of racial, religious or ethnic discrimination.

TV the answer?

Congressmen concerned by drop in public confidence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of Congress, glum over their plunging public confidence ratings, are thinking about televising Senate and Huse debates to improve their image.

Supporters of the idea say it will result in better attendance by usually absent senators and representatives and provide Americans with a new understanding of what Congress is all about.

But a major concern is a recent Harris poll showing public confidence in the lawmakers has dropped to 20 per cent, a rating lower than President Nixon's.

Among the ideas raised during recent hearings was establishing a special channel solely for congressional proceedings.

But network executives are urging that the dors to both chambers be opened to their cameras on an equal footing with the print media, and that they will decide when and what to televise.

A few skeptical members, though, think television coverage would be an "absolute bore."

"You couldn't make people watch," declared Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., the vice chairman of the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations which has been holding hearings on the proposal.

"You'd have to chain them and prop their eyeballs up."

But a stream of witresses from the broadcast industry at last week's hearings disagreed.

ABC President Elton H. Rule noted that an average of 40 million people regularly watch network evening news programs each weekday.

Televised coverage of House and Senate debates on "critical issues," Rule argued, would make an invaluable contribution toward a more informed public.

"Give broadcast journalism full and open access to the important events taking place in the well of the Senate and the floor of the House," said CBS President Arthur R. Taylor.

Henry Loomis, Public Broadcasting president, said coverage would "bring the American people closer to all of the workings of the legislative branch. By allowing the public to virtually sit in on debates, hearings and other facets of the legislative process, people can be motivated to participate in helping to make our government function better," he said.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said Congress had to use "new ways to inform the people directly, without intermediaries" and that television is "the only medium that can carry such a message for us effectively."

Atop Mt. Washington

A job that calls for all seasons

MT. WASHINGTON, N.H. (UPI) — Norman Michaels looked 90 mile per hour winds in the face, protected by a thermal pane window and the world's strongest wood frame building, and talked about what it takes to make a man from Brooklyn happy.

"It's not a job you do for the money. You do it because you like being here. It's beautiful in its own way."

Michaels is one of five men who staff the Mt. Washington Observatory year round. Mt. Washington, at 6,288 feet, is the highest peak in the Northeast and boasts some of the worst weather in the country. It holds the record for strongest wind ever recorded in the world—231 m.p.h., back in 1934.

The observatory staff works in two-man teams, a week on the summit, a week off. Michaels, 25, a 1971 graduate of Brooklyn College in New York City, has worked on top of the mountain for three years.

The observatory is operated by a private, nonprofit firm with contracts for weather observation, scientific research and testing equipment. Michaels receives $375 a month for 19 12-hour days, taking instrument readings and maintaining the station.

"One of the largest misconceptions people have is that this is a rough job," the bearded, dark haired man said. "Most of the time, in contrast to what people think, there is more sitting around and eating than going out and braving the wind."

Michaels, like his companion during a recent week on the summit, got the job directly from college. He was writing a senior paper on glaciation in the White Mountains and while visiting the observatory, he dropped off an application.

John Lingel, 27, the man working with Michaels, visited the observatory as a tourist before applying for a job. "I happened to have the right qualifications—a jack of all trades with a scientific background," he said.

Lingel, like Michaels, enjoys the job because it is unstructured. National Weather Service readings are taken every three hours, but there is no one hanging over a shoulder telling what has to be done next. Lingel, single, has been building his own house in Randolph, N.H., and likes the change of pace working on and off the mountain.

"The week off is nice to have down in the valley," he said.

Biggest challenge

"I usually get in enough trouble in a week to want to come back up."

For Michaels, who is married, there are different advantages. "Sometimes getting away for a week is just what you need. Other times it is rough. My wife has adjusted to it okay," he said.

The biggest challenge in the work is getting along with the men on the crew. Michaels estimates that is half the job. "The last guy was driven out because everyone finally refused to work with him," Michaels said. Cabin fever comes when the men are forced to stay inside their 45 by 24 foot wooden building by driving winds and cold. The men talk about the record wind in 1934, two years before the cabin was constructed of railroad ties bolted to bedrock.

"Around 130 m.p.h., the building will shake pretty bad," said Lingel, born and raised in Ohio. "It can give you an uneasy feeling. It gets hard to sleep sometimes, but I can cure that with a little Scotch every now and then."

Other hazards

There are other hazards on the job. Tourism. Some 50,000 persons visited the summit last year. "They left everything you can imagine," Michaels said. Another summertime nuisance is low flying airplanes buzzing the summit. Michaels said a military jet swept over the summit last summer at 100 feet, rocking the quiet with sonic boom. "It was very annoying. You don't expect things like that up here."

With winter, the crews are occasionally called out to search for missing hikers. "I like to help those people although we curse at them for being so stupid," Michaels said. "They usually come ill equipped."

On a clear winter weekend day, the crew may get a dozen visitors who have hiked up from the valley. The crew itself comes in by snow cat, the shifts changing every Wednesday.

"When this building starts shaking because of the wind, you sometimes wonder. But the only thing you really ever worry about is will the weather let you down on Wednesday," Michaels said.

Average U.S. worker absent 9 days a year

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average American worker is absent from his job nine days each year for reasons ranging from commuting problems to alcoholism and including plain irresponsibility, a survey of the nation's business and industry has revealed.

This rate of absenteeism costs employers an average of $146.30 annually for each person on their payrolls.

These and other conclusions were drawn from a study on job absenteeism and lateness conducted by the editorial staff of Prentice-Hall, Inc., the publishing firm, in cooperation with the American Society for Personnel Administration.

The survey covered 931 firms in various fields of business, industry and research throughout the United States.

Manufacturing firms had the highest average rate of absenteeism, losing 10.58 work days annually per employe, even though manufacturers as a group kept the closest watch on employe absences.

Research and development firms, retail stores and hospitals all had absentee rates of nine to almost 10 days annually per employe, insurance firms and other offices were between eight and nine. Public utilities at 6.86 and banks with 6.70 days lost annually to employe absence had the lowest rates.

The highest cost of absenteeism was $207 annually per employe among the research and development firms. Lowest was $123.45 in the category of general office work.

Employe illness and problems of a personal nature were the prime reasons for absence in all categories. Alcoholism and drug abuse were the least common reasons. Employe irresponsibility ranked fairly high, particularly in manufacturing, as another reason.

"Irresponsible attitude toward work, especially among younger employes," said one of the firms responding to the study's query on reasons for absence.

Foyt, Rutherford '100' winners

Starting grid set

LOCAL-NATIONAL

Sports

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Foyt, Rutherford, and fuel grabbed the headlines away from rain, wind, cold, delay, and accident Sunday at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Foyt, the stocky Texan known as A.J., won the first of the day's Twin 100 races. He did so in the same spectacularly easy fashion he had exhibited Saturday in winning the pole position for the 500.

"Super Tex" led all 40 laps. It was his 46th National Championship victory in USAC competition, an all-time record.

Rutherford, first name Johnny, took the second hundred miler. In doing so he became the first two-time winner of the qualifying races which were first introduced last fall.

More than a few eyebrows were raised when it was announced that Rutherford still had 4½ gallons of fuel left in his tank after winning.

Foyt had run out of fuel shortly after taking the checkered flag and had to be towed in.

Eleven other drivers ran out BEFORE they finished.

Mario Andretti and Al Unser were two of the more notable. Andretti ran out of fuel on the 37th lap of the second race while LEADING. The younger Unser ran out on lap 39 when it looked like he was going to catch Rutherford.

Both drive for Parnelli Jones, assuring much re-hashing and refiguring in that camp. Others finding too many laps for the amount of fuel on board were Gordon Johncock, Wally Dallenbach (last fall's 500 winner), Dick Simon, Billy Vukovich, Mike Mosley (twice), Tom Bigelow, and Tom Sneva all in the first race, and George Snider and John Martin in addition to Andretti and Unser in the second.

For the second day in a row, morning rain caused all events to be delayed. And again it was cold and windy.

The gusty wind lifted daredevil Debbie Lawler too high in her motorcycle jump of 15 Datsuns. The front wheel came up and the cycle nearly cleared the entire landing ramp.

It came down on the rear wheel near the end of the ramp. Miss Lawler lost control, veered to the right, fell and slid into the pit wall alongside the main track.

She was taken to the hospital where it was announced she had suffered contusions and abrasions but no broken bones.

The first race, scheduled for 1:30 p.m., got underway at 3:46, the second started at 5:15 p.m. The coffee concession did a brisk business while the beer found few takers.

Among the drivers experiencing trouble were Jerry Grant (magneto failure) and Gary Bettenhausen (loose wing flap). Earliest demise was that of Bob Harkey's number 93 car. Harkey was blackflagged on the second lap of the second race.

Profiting (other than money) the most in the two races were Jimmy Caruthers, Steve Krisiloff, Lloyd Ruby, Jim McElreath, and Roger McCluskey.

Caruthers was only the 14th fastest qualifier Saturday. His second place finish in the second race Sunday moved him up 10 places to the inside of the second row for the 500.

Krisiloff moved up seven notches to the middle of the second row with Ruby on the outside, also a gain of seven places.

McElreath moved up eight notches to the inside of row three. McCluskey moved up eight notches to the outside of row three with Al Unser holding the middle.

Foyt, Rutherford, and Bobby Unser had clinched the front row positions Saturday by virtue of having the three fastest qualifying times.

Suffering the worst setbacks in position because of disappointing performances Sunday were Johncock, Bettenhausen, Andretti, and Grant.

Johncock, the fifth fastest qualifier Saturday, barely made the outside of the sixth row, a loss of 13 places, for the 500. Bettenhausen, who qualified fourth fastest dropped to 12th or the inside of the sixth row. Grant is in the middle of that row, a drop of seven places.

Andretti was the sixth fastest qualifier Saturday. But running out of fuel Sunday caused him to finish ninth in the race and drop eight notches to the middle of row five in the 500 lineup.

Quotes of the day: A.J. Foyt: "We had our own ideas of gas mileage and it worked out." Johnny Rutherford: "I don't know what he (Foyt) has got, but it must be something." Mario Andretti: "We made some changes that I don't really think we needed."

'V' IS FOR VICTORY

A. J. Foyt gives the victory sign in the Victory Circle after winning the first of the two Twin 100 qualifying races at Ontario Motor Speedway. A. J. will be sitting on the pole position next Sunday.

Foyt has it all figured out?

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

ONTARIO — A. J. Foyt has the new United States Auto Club fuel restrictions figured out down to the last whiff of fumes.

Foyt, three-time Indianapolis 500 champion and captor of various other races during his long career, has been grinning like a Chesire cat all week long around the Ontario Motor Speedway garage area and the weekend's qualifying activity for the California 500 showed why.

After easily capturing the pole position during Saturday's time trials, Foyt turned around Sunday and grabbed the first of the Twin-100 qualifying races with ridiculous ease.

"Super Tex" finished the 40-lap preliminary by a good 17 seconds over the Olsonite Eagle of Bobby Unser, but he cut it close. His Coyote-Foyt used up its last drop of gas as he crossed the finish line and stalled out completely in Turn Two.

"It started missing on me between Three and Four coming up to the checkered flag," Foyt revealed after the race. It worried me like hell," he added with a grin.

Foyt's Coyote is equipped with a control whereby he can change the boost in the cockpit, and intelligent boost control may have been the single most important factor in his runaway victory.

"I learned it down quite a bit before the race," Foyt explained, "and I thought maybe I had burned a piston to be honest."

Unser took off at the start of the race and led the pack into Turn One. It was then that Foyt decided to play with the mixture a little bit.

"When Bobby took off on me that's the reason I didn't catch him," Foyt said of the original lean setting. "I changed the boost going down the back straightaway."

The change was immeditely apparent, as Foyt had caught Unser going away mid-way down the back stretch and starting building a lead on the white Eagle couldn't dent.

"I was figuring, well, I'll run out of fuel early then if he's going to run that hard. I backed it up a little bit after I built up the lead."

While the in-board boost control was essential for Foyt's victory, he stressed that any changes have to be approached with caution. "It's not just a matter of having a deal to change it. You have a lot of things to do, and if you do it wrong, you're liable to burn a piston."

The victory in the 100-mile race may represent something of a comeback for the 39-year old USAC veteran.

"I used to win everything, and now it's very unusual when I win," Foyt lamented. "But we're still going to be around."

When asked how long he planned to be around Foyt replied, "That's hard to say. I've always said that the day I walk away from it, that will be it."

Persistent rumors have been repeated among USAC drivers, crewmen, and officials that 1974 will be Foyt's final year, and if that be the case then he will obviously be attempting to go out strong.

APC, Westmont meet in playoffs

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA MIRADA — "The outcome of the game will depend on boards and defense."

The speaker was Azusa Pacific College coach Cliff Hamlow. APC (26-4) faces Westmont College (17-9) of Santa Barbara tonight at 8 p.m. in the second round of the NAIA District Three basketball playoffs at Biola College.

Westmont got here by defeating USIU 70-65 Saturday night. Hamlow's team had a bye in round one by virtue of being the top-seeded team in the event.

In Saturday's other round-one game, SCIAC champion Whittier dealt Fresno Pacific a 70-63 setback. Whittier will play the winner of tonight's APC-Westmont game for the District Three title Wednesday night. The winner of that game will advance to the national tournament at Kansas City.

Westmont lost its All-American center, Fred DeVaughan, through graduation. But the Warriors have played good ball this season after a slow start.

Kurt Kraushaar, 6-6 and 200 pounds, has moved from forward to replace DeVaughan at center. The forwards are Greg Smith and Mark Miller. Both are also 6-6. Smith is the team's leading scorer and averaged about 16 points per game.

The guards are 6-3 Walt Kelly and 6-0 Randy Johnson.

"Westmont is a team a lot like Point Loma," said Hamlow, "except that their defense is not quite as good. Their offense is up and down and they can explode anytime."

Hamlow's teams have been in the district playoffs each of the last six years. But each year they've been stopped short of a title and the coveted trip to K.C.

"I think the team is ready for it," Hamlow opined. "It's an exciting challenge. We've missed our chances before. Maybe this will be our year."

Against district opponents, the Cougars were 20-2 during the regular season. The victories include a 97-82 win over Westmont. The losses were to Whittier (78-69) and Point Loma (75-73).

In playoff competition, Westmont has a 2-1 edge on APC. The Warriors have beaten the Cougars in the finals the last two years. There scores were 67-58 in 1972 and 60-57 last year.

While the Cougars have compiled an impressive 183-54 record during the past seven seasons, they are only 4-7 in the playoffs. Four times they have advanced to the final round, only to lose. They have done well (4-2) in opening round games.

"We'd like to make up for some lost time," Hamlow remarked. "We have had a good season and it's one game at a time for the bad ones. We can't stop now."

Olivares faces Hafey tonight

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Former world bantamweight king Ruben Olivares meets Canada's young and strong Art Hafey tonight in a 12-round rematch of a fight the veteran from Mexico City would just as soon forget.

The 26-year-old Mexican ex-champion is listed as a 10-8 favorite despite the stunning fifth-round upset he suffered against Hafey, 22, at Monterrey, Mexico, last September.

In the first fight, Olivares was on the canvas three times before surrendering.

"You didn't take the punches," he told newsmen after the fight. "I did. They hurt. I should know."

"I'm rather certain this fight won't go the distance either," said Hafey, from Stellarton, Nova Scotia. "And I think I will be the one on my feet when it ends."

Olivares has been fighting professionally 10 years and he is one of boxing's all-time knockout specialists. He has a 71-4-1 record with 65 knockouts —an .855 percentage.

"I've been in training two months," he said. "I feel very good. I'm confident I'm going to win. I'm taking this fight much more seriously than I did the last one."

Now a resident of San Diego, Hafey is a 5-2 bulldog who doesn't know what backing up means. He is unbeaten in his last 20 bouts and he won 11 of his last 13 fights by knockouts.

"I want to show everybody that what happened in Mexico wasn't a fluke," Hafey remarked. "Olivares is a helluva puncher but I believe I can outpunch him."

For Olivares, a popular fighter here, it will be his 15th appearance at the Forum in a ring where he stopped Lionel Rose of Australia for the world bantamweight crown nearly five years ago.

In his 14 previous Inglewood appearances, the cards he has appeared on have grossed $2,576,000, an average of $184,000 per card.

A 10-round fight on the card matches Bobby Chacon of Sylmar, Calif., a featherweight with only one loss in 23 fights, against Japan's Genzo Kurosawa.

Lakers win but it's all uphill—Sharman

By United Press International

Pressure is the name of the game in the NBA as the season heads down the stretch and Los Angeles coach Bill Sharman realizes it will continue to mount despite the Lakers' seven-game winning streak and Sunday's victory over the Golden State Warriors.

"It will be all uphill from here," Sharman said after a 108-104 win over the Warriors that pulled the Lakers to within one-half game of first-place in the Pacific Division for what will likely be the final Western Conference playoff spot.

"I'm sure the division will be decided by injuries and the team that is able to win the close ones," Sharman said. "This one was more important for us to win than for Golden State. If we'd have lost it we'd be four games down in the loss column with only 13 games left."

Capitalizing on the Warriors' frigid shooting in the first period, the Lakers spurted to a 23-8 lead. Rick Barry, who had averaged 42 points in his last four games, went 1-for-11 in the half.

Cazzie Russell, who ended up leading all scorers with 29 points, came off the bench in the second period to help cut the Laker lead to 57-47 at the half.

The Lakers, paced by a 26-point effort by second-year guard Jim Price, led 104-93 with 5:34 to go. The Lakers could manage only four free throws in the final 5:34 as the Warriors charged back. With the score 105-102 with 21 seconds remaining, Connie Hawkins sank a free throw to put the game away.

Gail Goodrich ended with 19 for the Lakers, while Hawkins had 17 and Pat Riley scored 15 in relief. Jeff Mullins had 20 for the Warriors, while Nate Thurmond and Jim Barnett had 16 each.

Barry, who left the game with a slightly twisted ankle in the third quarter, had only 11 points. Warrior coach Al Attles said Barry would not miss any games because of the ankle injury.

The Warriors host Detroit Tuesday night, a team they haven't beaten in three meetings this season. The Lakers are at Portland Tuesday night and return home Wednesday to host the Boston Celtics. In the next two weeks, the Lakers play Boston, New York and Golden State twice each.

In other NBA action Sunday, New York edged Boston 108-102 in overtime, Capital clipped Cleveland 98-93, Milwaukee downed Houston 112-106 in overtime, Phoenix tripped Kansas City-Omaha 113-100 and Detroit beat Portland 99-95.

Knicks 108, Celtics 102

Dave DeBusschere got a reprieve Sunday afternoon when Paul Silas missed a potential tie-breaking free throw with two seconds left in regulation time. DeBusschere had been called for a loose ball foul. Silas, with two shots, hit the first but the second bounced off the rim into the arms of DeBusschere as the buzzer sounded. DeBusschere then hit the first basket in overtime and from then the Knicks roared to victory in the nationally televised game.

"I thought it was a loose ball foul," DeBusschere said, "but still I felt relieved when he missed the second shot. As far as the team, they knew after that they had a darn good chance of catching the Celtics."

Walt Frazier, stone cold with only six points in regulation, broke the overtime period open on a three-point play. "I guess I didn't do too much during the game," he said, "but it was nice coming back. It was a matter of pride. We got bombed out by them Saturday. We didn't want to have it happen again. I think it was a big lift winning here the way we did. As far as catching them for first place, I doubt it. Not unless they drop dead.

Bill Bradley added two field goals in the overtime to finish with 25 points but DeBusschere, who fouled out midway through the extra session, was high for New York with 26. Earl Monroe added 20 for the winners.

Don Nelson led Boston with 29 points and Jo Jo White added 27 for the Celtics, who beat the Knicks in New York Saturday night 104-88. The Knicks trail Boston by five games in the Atlantic Division, but the triumph enabled them to clinch at least a runnerup spot in the playoffs.

Bullets 98, Cavs 93

Elvin Hayes scored 16 of his 25 points in the second half to lift the Bullets from a 44-41 halftime deficit. Phil Chenier added 14 of his 20 points in the third period to help the Bullets to an eight-point lead going into the final quarter.

Bucks 112, Rockets 106

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored a season-high 44 points to lead Milwaukee to its overtime victory. The Bucks' center scored 12 points in the fourth quarter as Milwaukee tied the score at 85 with 3:33 left. Rudy Tomjanovich led Houston with 24 points and Calvin Murphy added 23. Bob Dandridge had 22 and Lucius Allen 21 for Milwaukee.

Pivac state's best wrestler

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College's Steve Pivac, a sophomore from Ganesha High, was selected the meet's Outstanding Wrestler Saturday night at the state junior college finals at American River College in Sacramento.

Pivac completed his outstanding season by winning the state championship in the 118-pound class.

He was the only Mountie to win his state crown. MSAC placed seventh in the team standings with 36 points. South Coast Conference rival Santa Ana won the team title with 76½ points followed by Bakersfield with 70½.

Must stay in Cleveland

Indians go on sale

By United Press International

If you're trying to find a present for the man who has everything, how about a major league baseball team?

The Cleveland Indians can be purchased—if you're willing to leave the team in Cleveland.

Alba T. (Ted) Bonda, the executive vice president of the club, says that since the club currently has more than 40 partners, the ownership of the team is a bit unwieldly. The fact that the team has been losing—on the field and at the box office—doesn't help, either.

Bonda says that several out-of-town interests have expressed a desire to buy the club but Bonda said, "I'm totally dedicated not to sell the club out of town."

However, he said he'd probably talk to Edward J. Debartolo, a Youngstown, Ohio builder and entrepreneur, about purchasing the club.

"If someone like Debartolo came along and it looked a lot better to me than what we have now and would stay in Cleveland, I'd really recommend we'd go that route."

The Indians were a power in the American League in the late '40s and early '50s but since then, they've slid steadily downhill. The team hasn't won the American League pennant since 1954 and hasn't even been in contention in recent years.

Meanwhile, the Indians have another problem. The team got Ken Suarez in a trade with Texas. But Suarez, who had submitted his salary to arbitration, claims that his trade was made for disciplinary reasons and he's refused to report to Cleveland.

A hearing will be held Wednesday in Sarasota, Fla. to decide on Suarez' future. John Gaherin, the counsel for the owners, will meet with Marvin Miller, the executive director for the Players Association, to discuss the issue. Suarez was traded for Leo Cardenas.

In other camp news, the MVP golfed with the Veep. Reggie Jackson, the American League's MVP, got in an 18-hole round with Vice President Gerald R. Ford in Arizona.

Sparky Anderson, the Cincinnati manager, got in the quote of the day. He has a young pitcher from the Dominican Republic named Jack Andujar, who has a sensational arm but a quick temper. Anderson said, "I told Andujar that if he no longer go loco he can make mucho dinero pitching in the major leagues. But I told him that if he continues to go loco, he might just as well grab himself a machete right now and start whacking away at the sugar cane."

Horace Clarke, Sparky Lyle and Celerino Sanchez are still New York Yankee holdouts...the Yanks insist they haven't made a final offer even if they don't seem too anxious to make another offer to the players.

Joe Ferguson became the last member of the Los Angeles Dodgers to sign a contract for the season...Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins is still holding out.

Sports news in brief

THE LONG BEACH Relays, in which Mt. San Antonio College, Cal Poly and Chaffey College were scheduled to compete, were cancelled Saturday due to rain and will not be made up.

RICHARD PETTY dominated the Carolina 450 Stock Car race Sunday, finishing more than a lap ahead of Cale Yarborough at the North Carolina Motor Speedway.

Petty, winner of the Daytona 450 earlier this year, pulled his Dodge around Yarborough for a one-lap lead with about 30 miles remaining. But it had been evident since midway through the race that only an accident or mechanical failure would keep him out of the winner's circle.

GENE ROMERO, 1970 American Motorcycle Association National Champion, set a new record for the one-hour run Sunday on the tri-oval course at the Daytona International Speedway.

Romero, riding a 700 cubic centimeter Yamaha, was clocked at 150.8419 miles an hour over the 62 laps he coverd during the hour. He ran out of gas on the backstretch and had to coast in for his one pit stop.

HIGHER WAGES, better insurance, improved scheduling and automatic assignment to World Series and All-Star games were included in three-year contract accepted by Major League Umpires in a telephone vote.

BRAULIO BAEZA will take a win any way he can get it—especially in a stakes race.

"Yes, he's always in close ones," agreed Baeza after piloting talented Triple Crown to a narrow victory in the $59,200 San Jacinto Stakes on a muddy track at Santa Anita Sunday.

CAL POLY SAN LUIS OBISPO, qualifying nine of its 10 men for the semifinal rounds, has earned its seventh straight NCAA Division II wrestling title.

In the two-day competition ending Saturday night at Cal State Fullerton, Cal Poly SLO set a new college division record of 131½ points. Cal Poly had two winners in Saturday's finals, while Northern Iowa, the second place finisher with 95½ points, had three firsts in the final round.

Claremont looks for soccer title

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

Will the Orange County CIF jinx continue to haunt Pomona Valley teams?

That's the question Claremont High's soccer squad will be trying to answer in the negative Tuesday as they travel to Santa Ana High for the semifinal match in the CIF soccer playoffs.

The Orange County schools have held a strange mastery over locals in the basketball playoffs of late, and the Wolfpack doesn't want a reoccurrance of that on the soccer field. From all indications, Claremont should prevail, but then anything can happen in the CIF matchups.

Claremont has beaten Palm Springs 6-0 and Pioneer 3-0 to advance this far, while Santa Ana squeaked by Nogales 3-2 on penalty kicks in their CIF opener and edged Baldwin Park 1-0 last Friday.

The Pack was less than impressive in beating Pioneer, but that seemed more the result of the physical game Pioneer played than from any lack of skill on the part of the pack.

Claremont has the talent, make no mistake about that. Led by Gesner DoCarmo on offense and Ralph Hawes on defense, coach Otto Rieger's crew has put together a 24-2-1 season mark. That mark includes wins in their last 17 games and 15 shoutouts so far.

Santa Ana has been putting together some impressive statistics of their own. Led by Abel Dorado, who has accounted for 34 goals already this season, Santa Ana has posted a 19-5-2 season record. They went 11-2-1 to win the Orange County League and have scored 80 goals to only 25 for opponents. Santa Ana ranked 10th in the last CIF soccer poll, while Claremont was voted the number two team in Southern California.

Claremont has two foreign-born players on their team in DoCarmo and John Laast, while Santa Ana has one of their own in goalie Hector Mendez. Mendez is a freshman who hails from Mexico, and at five-foot-nine is rather short for a goalie.

Santa Ana comes into the contest as a defense-oriented squad, but Claremont has been able to score on all their opponents so far this year so the Orange County team will have their hands full trying to stop "Rieger's Raiders," as the Pack is rapidly becoming known as.

Claremont won't know for sure as to the exact site and time of the Santa Ana match until this afternoon. Tuesday's other semifinal game will pit West Torrance vs. number-one ranked South Torrance, with the winners to meet on Friday for the championship.

Mike Walton beats sharks

ST. PAUL, Minn.(UPI) — Mike Walton scored a three-goal hat trick in the third period and set up a fourth goal to lead the Minnesota Fighting Saints to a 5-3 World Hockey Association victory over Los Angeles Sunday night, offsetting a hat trick by L.A.'s J. P. LeBlanc.

Walton blasted in his own rebound at 1:47 of the final period while the Saints were shorthanded to put Minnesota ahead 3-2, scored again with 5 ½ minutes left, and completed the hat with his 40th goal of the season, hitting an open net with 21 seconds left.

It was the Saints' eighth straight game without a loss and the Sharks' fifth straight defeat. The Saints have won 15 of their last 18 and solidified their hold on second place in the WHA.

Angels count on Epstein

HOLTVILE, Calif. (UPI) — The California Angels are hoping Mike Epstein can turn it around in 1974.

The husky first baseman, who clubbed 26 homers for the world champion Oakland A's in 1972 but slumped to only nine with the Texas Rangers and the Angels last season, has impressed Angel coaches in the early days of spring training.

"Epstein is really starting to hit the ball well," Angels' manager Bobby Winkles said Sunday after his team went through a hitting drill. Epstein came to the Angels from the Rangers in a trade last May 20.

Winkles was also impressed by pitchers Andy Hassler and John Andrews. He said Hassler "just overmatched the hitters" during his stint on the mound.

Joe LaHoud is the only Angel not performing at 100 per cent. LaHoud is still recovering from a back muscle spasm.

MSAC (10-1) launches bid for SCC title

Sporting the winningest record in the Pomona Valley, Mt. San Antonio College launches its bid for a South Coast Conference baseball championship this week.

Coach Art Mazmanian's Mounties (10-1) visit highly regarded Fullerton for a 2:30 p.m. game to open the conference campaign. MSAC completes the week by hosting Orange Coast Thursday and visiting Orange Coast Saturday.

Freshman lefthander Bob Chaulk (3-0) or veteran righthander Charlie Fallon (3-0) will go against Fullerton in Tuesday's game.

In other community college baseball action, Citrus (5-4) hosts cross-valley rival Chaffey (7-3) in a key Mission Conference encounter Tuesday at 2:30 p.m.

Citrus completes the week by hosting Saddleback Thursday and visiting San Bernardino Saturday. Chaffey entertains Palomar Thursday and travels to Riverside Saturday.

The Owls were rained out of their game at San Diego Saturday and were scheduled to make it up today at 2:30 p.m. The defending conference champions are 2-0 going into that encounter.

Citrus claimed its second Mission victory Thursday as Ron Walton pitcched a two-hit shutout to beat Riverside, 1-0. Walton had a no-hitter going through 8 1-3 innings.

Rain postponed Chaffey's games last week with Southwestern and Grossmont. The Panthers will make up those encounters later in the season.

Chaffey takes a 2-0 conference record against Citrus, and coach Howard Lowder has tentatively scheduled freshman righthander Steve Gibson (3-1) to face the Owls.

JOHN NEWCOMBE regained dominance in the World Championship Tennis Blue Group Sunday by edging Stan Smith, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4, in the final of the $50,000 Michelob Classic.

Poly, USC battle on baseball field

POMONA — The one thing a baseball team suffering through a two-week span without a win does not need is a game with defending national champion University of Southern California.

But that's the situation Cal Poly's Broncos find themselves in Tuesday as the Trojans of coach Rod Dedeaux will be invading the Poly campus. Game time is slated for 2:30 p.m.

Coach John Scolinos' squad now sports a 4-7 season mark after a 5-0 loss to UC Riverside Friday. The Broncos were rained out of a Saturday doubleheader with Riverside, so if nothing else the pitching staff should be well rested for the Trojans.

Inconsistency in all departments has hurt Poly this year. Last year's ace hurlder Vic Bernal is the holder of a 0-4 mark so far in 1974. Last year's batting star Steve Ludewig is struggling to stay at the .250 mark. Indeed, at this point things have not been too rosy for the Broncos.

The thought of playing powerhouse USC does not exactly cheer things up in Broncoland, either.

While Dedeaux's bombers have lost some of the personnel from last year's squad, what they have left is impressive enough. Grid star Anthony Davis, Marvin Cobb, and Rich Dauer (all back from last year) lead the hitting attack for the Trojans. Pitchers George Milkey, Brian Huebelien, and Russ McQueen make it tough on opposing batters.

Of course, a win over Southern Cal could turn things around in a hurry for Cal Poly, and that's what Scolinos will be hoping for. Senior righthander Dee King (2-1 so far this season) is expected to get the assignment for Poly of stopping the Trojans.

Evening of fun to help Broncos

POMONA — A "Put the Buck Back in the Broncos" Night will be held Tuesday from 3 p.m. to 2 a.m. at the Pic and Pan, 1964 W. Holt Ave., Pomona.

All proceeds from the affair will be donated to the Cal Poly football program. Season ticket applications for next fall's games will be available.

All Dodgers in camp

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Catcher Joe Ferguson, who hit 25 home runs for the Los Angeles Dodgers last season, has agreed to terms for the 1974 season.

But the 27-year-old Ferguson won't start working out with the team until Wednesday because he has the flu.

Ferguson arrived in camp Sunday and signed a pact for an estimated $42,500, becoming the last member on the Dodgers' roster to agree to terms.

Relief pitcher Mike Marshall is the only Dodger away from spring training camp. Marshall, acquired in a winter deal with the Montreal Expos, has been given permission to continue work on his doctorate at Michigan State for the next two weeks.

Clowns' tilt at Chaffey

ONTARIO — Basketball Monkeyshines!

That's what West End fans will see when the world famous Harlem Clowns bring their show to the Chaffey High School gymnasium tonight at 7:30 p.m. They will play a Chaffey faculty-staff team.

The glabe-trotting Clowns have been criss-crossing the United States and Canadian provinces as well as the rest of the world for more than 35 years.

They are sponsored here by the Chaffey High School A.S.B. as a fund raising project for the United Way.

Kings, Goring hungry for shot at playoffs

INLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Butch Goring, who has brought the Los Angeles Kings back into contention in the last week, is "hungry" for a shot at the NHL playoffs.

Goring, a 5-9 center who has scored in five straight games to set a club record, got the winning goal Saturday night in a 4-2 conquest of the St. Louis Blues. The Kings are now tied with the Blues for fourth place in the NHL West, one point back of third-place Atlanta.

"I guess after all these years I'm just as hungry for playoff money as anyone could be," Goring said. "I just want to keep on playing this way. We have to keep winning."

"It was a big game," said coach Bob Pulford, "But there's still a long way to go."

The Kings are in the early stages of a nine-game homestand. Only three of their remaining 15 games are on the road.

The Kings host the California Golden Seals Tuesday night and the Chicago Black Hawks Thursday night.

Indiana coach blasts officiating for upset loss

By United Press International

Bobby Knight is furious; UCLA is still struggling they're still looking for "the streaker" in Florida; and 10 more teams have qualified for the NCAA playoffs after a wild weekend of college basketball action that saw three top 10 teams fall victim to upsets.

Of the upset victims, probably none took it harder than Indiana coach Knight who, after watching his team fall 85-79 to Ohio State at Columbus, O., ripped into the officials. Said Knight: "This trio will never officiate another game that I coach. This was the worst officiating I've ever seen."

Maybe so, but Knight now must face the prospect of a playoff with Michigan as the loss dropped his sixth-rated Hoosiers into a tie with the Wolverines for the Big Ten's first place with a game to go. Third place Purdue, one game back, also has a shot at the NCAA berth.

Seventh-ranked Marquette, which already has its NCAA independent berth locked up, also was beaten, dropping a 92-77 decision to Cincinnati and the Bearcats must now be considered a favorite for an NIT bid today. The third top 10 team to be upset was Alabama, but we'll get back to that in a minute.

Out California way, they're getting ready for another of those patented USC-UCLA finales—the two Pacific Eight giants deadlocked for first place with the league title, the NCAA berth and possibly the defense of the national title all riding on the outcome of next Saturday's showdown at Southern Cal. But John Wooden's third-ranked Bruins are still showing some of the ominous effects of their lost weekend in Oregon, being forced to struggle from behind in the waning seconds to nip Stanford 62-60 Saturday night.

Elsewhere, there were berths galore being filled in the NCAA's post season tourney. Furman, off its 62-60 victory over Richmond, captured the Southern Conference tournament and the NCAA bid, while No. 20 Louisville wrapped up the Missouri Valley Conference by downing runner-up Bradley, 87-84.

Eighteenth ranked New Mexico took the topsy-turvy Western Athletic Conference by whipping No. 19 Texas-El Paso; St. Joseph's won the Middle Atlantic Conference by subduing LaSalle 76-71 in the finals of their tourney; Ohio U. copped the Mid-American Conference's bid with a 71-70 trimming of Bowling Green; San Francisco nailed down the West Coast Athletic Conference crown downing St. Mary's 80-70; Los Angeles State, with Long Beach State ineligible, gained the Pacific Coast Athletic Association bid with a 93-87 triumph over Santa Barbara;

Texas, with a 1-10 record outside its league, nonetheless will represent the Southwest Conference in the NCAA's with a 12-14 overall mark, while Pennsylvania wrapped up its customary Ivy League crown with back-to-back wins over Columbia and Cornell.

As for the Southeastern Conference, well, Vanderbilt has won the NCAA bid no matter what, but they're still trying to find the "streaker" who preceeded Florida's surprise victory over Alabama by running naked across the Gainesville, Fla. court and out the door before the officials and police could apprehend him.

The Gators, apparently aroused by such a courageous performance, went on to upset the 10th ranked Crimson Tide 64-61. That assured Vanderbilt the SEC berth in the NCAA and the Commodores responded by putting away Kentucky 71-69, thus solidifying the Wildcats' worst record in more than 40 years. Adolph Rupp where are you now?

In other games involving NCAA-bound or nationally-rated teams, No. 1 North Carolina State tuned up for the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney by besting Wake Forest 72-63, giving the Wolfpack a perfect 12-0 league mark; No. 2 Notre Dame crushed Villanova 115-85 to up its record also to 24-1; Southern California kept pace with UCLA in the Pac-8 by edging California 70-67; No. 4 North Carolina overcame an eight point deficit with 17 seconds left to whip Duke 96-92 in overtime; No. 5 Maryland belted Virginia 110-75.

No. 11 (tie) Pittsburgh topped West Virginia 83-7. No. 11 (tie) Long Beach State toppled Pacific 76-52; No. 12 Providence embarrassed NIT-bound St. John's 85-67; No. 14 Kansas squeaked by Colorado 70-68; No. 15 Kansas State was shocked by Nebraska 58-54; and No. 16 (tie) South Carolina mauled Houston 104-68. Only No. 16 (tie) Creighton was idle.

Heard feels he has shot at Masters

ORLANO, Fla. (UPI) — For whistling Jerry Heard the signs were right, his wife said, and a bogey on the first hole didn't shake his confidence one whit.

"I feel like I have a real good shot at the Masters now," said the 26-yar-old Californian who won the $150,000 Citrus Open Sunday for the second time in three years, his first PGA victory in 22 months. "That's my goal, to win a major championship."

Never trailing in four rounds of golf in the sixties on the par 72 Rio Pinar course, Heard bogeyed the first and last holes Sunday, along with another, but got five birdies to finish with a 69-273, 15 under par.

Whistling and humming as he toured the 6,929-yard layout, Heard said he was confident from the start. His wife, Nancy, had told him "it was supposed to be the week" for a Taurus.

"It certainly was," said Heard, who won the Citrus in 1972, but has been winless since the Colonial Invitational in Fort Worth the same year.

The six-foot 200-pounder, who quit worrying about improving his swing and learned to relax, finished three strokes ahead of Jim Jamieson, 67-276, and Homero Blancas, 70-276.

"It boosts your confidence to win now and then," he said. "But I felt I really should win out there today. I was playing with ease."

Heard likens his renewed confidence to that of his friend, Johnny Miller, who won the first three tournaments this year.

"Johnny just found out what he had been doing wrong quicker than I did," he said. "There are very few players who actually know how to play golf. You have to find out what is best for you."

Jamieson, who had to go to town to buy a brace for his back after the second round, had a bogeyless round Sunday, with five birdies. He said his caddy — Joe Burder had been giving him tips on how to putt.

"I owe a lot to my caddy," he said. "He's been showing me how to hold my head when I putt."

Blancas had an up-and-down round with five birdies and three bogeys and said, "I felt great hitting the ball.

"From tee to green," he said, "I played better this week than I have in years."

Bobby Cole, a skinny South African billed as the next Gary Player, shot a 69 to end in a tie with chunky Bob Murphy at 11-under-par 277, three strokes behind Heard.

One stroke farther back were Lee Elder, Bruce Crampton, Leonard Thompson and Chi Chi Rodriguez.

Heard said it didn't bother him when he missed a six-foot putt on the first hole for a bogey.

"Actually it took a little of the pressure off," he said.

He also didn't mind missing par on the last hole. He was four strokes ahead at the time. "I really didn't care whether it went in or not," he said.

Banking a $30,000 first-place check—almost twice as much as he had made up to this stop on the tour—Heard said he will be humming a new tune since he found a winning swing.
